College Pool Closed

The College pool has been shut down until improvements can be made. According to Mr. Kennedy, a superintendent of the city pools, these improvements would increase the cost of maintenance. The pool will be closed for an indefinite period, until the necessary funds are raised. The pool was last used in 1967, and it has been decided to close it permanently.

Bro. Murphy Named Education Project Exec

Brother William Murphy, Director of the Education Project, Uplift Board at Marist College, Poughkeepsie, New York, has been named as Director of the Education Project. He succeeds Brother Robert W. Murphy, who died suddenly on 1 April, 1967.

Largest Budget Proposed For

Brother Cornelius Russell, President of Marist College, announced today that the college will be spending the largest budget in its history. This budget includes a $5,770,000 allocation for maintenance and repairs, as well as $850,000 for the addition of new facilities.

Vote To Dismiss Brady Food Service

The Student Council voted in favor of the dismissal of Brady Food Service. Their decision is based on complaints from students and faculty about the quality and cost of the food provided.

Bro. Brian To Resign As Dean of Residents

Brother Brian Delaney has resigned as Dean of Residents. He will be succeeded by Brother John Murphy. The new Dean of Residents will work closely with the Resident Assistants to improve the living conditions for all residents.

Secret Agents

Dear Editor,

We are not in the habit of being secret agents, but we have some reason to believe that there is a spy on our campus. This person is reported to be of the highest order and is said to have access to all the important information on this campus. We believe that this person is a member of the SDS and is trying to disrupt our activities. Please do not take this lightly. We need your help to catch this spy.

Sincerely,

Evaluating Evaluations

Well, here we are again, on the verge of more final exams and whatnot. And the professors. How do they do it? They seem to survive somehow, but we all know that the secret is in the grading. How do they manage to give us just the right amount of homework and tests? And how do they keep track of all our progress? It's a mystery.

But seriously, we feel that we need to start evaluating our professors. We need to know who's doing a good job and who's not. We need to know who's going to be our next president and who's going to be our next dean. We need to know who's going to be our next president and who's going to be our next dean. We need to know who's going to be our next president and who's going to be our next dean.

Sincerely,

Letters To the Editor

Secret Agent
Dear Editor,

Nothing is as readily loathed as a secret agent. He is either a traitor or a spy. The former is uncharitable and the latter unjust. The former is uncharitable because he is not expected to be honest, and the latter unjust because he is expected to be honest.

What is his real name? Is he a nobleman, a commoner, a professional gambler? We are not interested in the question. We do not want to know his real name. We do not care whether he is a nobleman, a commoner, or a professional gambler. We are interested only in the fact that he is a secret agent, and we want to know what he is up to.

Yours truly,

Secret Agent

Evaluating Evaluations

Well, here we are again on the edge of more final exams and what not. The faculty members have been working hard, and the students have been working hard. So, how's the grading going to be?

Let's see. It looks like the faculty is going to be grading on a curve. The students are going to be graded on a curve. The administrators are going to be grading on a curve. The schools are going to be graded on a curve. The world is going to be graded on a curve.

All in all, it looks like we're in for a bumpy ride. Right?

The Ability to Differ

One mark of an educated man is his ability to differ without becoming disagreeable or obnoxious. He is able to claim the difference of opinion.

He knows that he is not infallible: he respects the ignorance and the limitations of others; he recognizes the necessity of making allowances for them.

He is prepared to give his mind to the problems of the moment, to form his own opinion, to come to a conclusion, to express his opinion without being obnoxious or disagreeable.

It is this ability to differ without being disagreeable or obnoxious that is the mark of an educated man.

We should all aim to cultivate this ability. It is one of the highest virtues that a person can possess. It is a sign of education, of culture, of refinement.

Petrocelli

In the Rain

Russian students are not the only ones who are learning to adjust to life in a new country. The Petrocelli family, for example, is learning the ropes in the United States.

Mr. Petrocelli, a native of Petrocelli, Russia, is attending a business school in New York. His wife, a native of Petrocelli, is also attending school. Their children, who are all natives of Petrocelli, are attending school as well.

Mr. Petrocelli and his wife are learning English, and they are learning about American culture. They are learning to adjust to life in a new country.

We should all admire the Petrocelli family's ability to adjust to life in a new country. It is a sign of their strength and courage.

Being a Pacifist Takes More Than Just Long Hair

By Bob Surveyor

I tried to get around this article by waiting patiently for the New York Times to get all the way up to date with their coverage of the world's weapons. But then I thought, oh well, I'll just take a look at what's been going on in the world since I last checked in plumbers of journalism.

And so, there I was, reading the New York Times, and I was just about to put the paper down when I saw this article by Bob Surveyor in the全国 over.

"Being a Pacifist Takes More Than Just Long Hair," it said. I've always been fascinated by this topic, so I decided to give it a read.

In the article, Bob Surveyor discusses the idea of being a pacifist. He talks about the challenges that come with this lifestyle, and he also talks about the benefits.

I found the article to be quite enlightening. It made me think about my own beliefs, and it made me think about the world in a different way.

I would definitely recommend this article to anyone who is interested in pacifism or just wants to learn more about it.

Marist Salutes Dr. Schroeder

In 1817, Marist College was founded by the Society of Jesus. Since then, the college has grown and evolved, and it has become a respected institution.

One of the reasons why Marist College is so respected is because of its faculty. The college has a faculty of over 400, and many of them are experts in their fields.

Dr. John Schroeder is one of the most respected faculty members at Marist College. He has been teaching for over 20 years, and he has written several books on his area of expertise.

Dr. Schroeder's contributions to the field of education have been recognized by the college, and he has been named a "Marist Scholar" multiple times.

We are proud of Dr. Schroeder, and we are grateful for his contributions to the college.

Confronted by P. 2

In an article on page 1 of this issue, we referred to the case of a student who was confronted by P. 2. The student was accused of cheating on a test.

We apologize for the error in our previous article. We have double-checked our facts, and we have verified that the student was not confronted by P. 2.

We appreciate the feedback from our readers, and we are committed to providing accurate information in our articles.

Thank you.

by J. O. O'Connell

In the last year, I have been involved in the activities of the Black Student Union. This has been a rewarding experience for me. It has helped me to develop leadership skills, and it has given me a greater understanding of the challenges faced by our community.

The Council

The Council is a platform for students to express their opinions and participate in decision-making processes. It serves as a representative body that aims to address the needs and concerns of the student community. The Council is composed of representatives from different departments and groups, ensuring a diverse representation.

Economics Added to Curriculum

As part of the broader educational goals, the curriculum is being expanded to include economics. This addition is expected to provide students with a deeper understanding of economic principles and their applications in real-world scenarios.

Overall, the implementation of these changes is aimed at enhancing the educational experience of students and promoting a more inclusive and dynamic learning environment.

Definition of S.D.S.

Students Seek Democratic Society

Marist S.D.S. is an organization that seeks to promote democratic society by encouraging open discussion and participation in college activities. The organization was formed in response to a national trend towards increased involvement in political and social issues.

Fundamental to its activity is the belief that Americans have an obligation to participate in the political process. The organization believes that individuals have the right to express their opinions, and that these opinions should be considered by those in power. The organization also advocates for the reduction of economic inequality and the promotion of social justice.

We believe in a world where everyone has equal opportunities, and that the government has a responsibility to ensure that these opportunities are available to all. The organization seeks to promote a more inclusive and democratic society, and to challenge existing structures of power and privilege.

Students Gain Experience
At New York Mock Senate

Students from Marist and other area colleges participated in the New York Mock Senate on April 13. The event was held at the New York State Capitol in Albany.

The Marist delegation consisted of members from the Student Government, Marist College Council, and the Women’s Book Exchange. They were led by President Richard H. Philp, Dean Margaret G. West, and Assistant Dean Paul M. Elston.

On Friday night a dinner party was held at which the students discussed the issues they would be addressing during the ensuing day. This evening was the first of two that the students spent in the mock Senate. The other dinner was held at the Student Government House on the Marist campus.

Looking Back

It's good to remember. Everything we do is relative—look both back and ahead. Let's recall the things that have happened to us as a community and as individuals. Not to get sentimental, but a lot of things have happened during this past year. We have to say, 'Hello,' this day if we remember ourselves and our actions and where we are. And why we behaved or what we did. It's like a part of this annotation we've got to be able to talk through.

Valid 359 miles in 300 hours, 1 minute and 20.7 seconds. This opened the door to a new dimension in sports as Marist-fielded's first track and field team in the annual Charleston meeting of Charlie Dunn. Even the most enthusiastic of the trackmen were unable to pin down the record.

Wally Abrams is still having problems with his third week event, and has been brought back to the edge for the 1967 season.

The soccer team played a 1-1 tie during the fall but the books show that the majority of the players were determined by one point. If the squad concentrates on continuing to grow and to keep control of the ball, they have the potential to do great things.

Thinclads Finish Maiden Season

On April 23, the Marist Track Team journeyed to Colonial Beach, Va., for the Colonial Beach Invitational Track Meet, which is sponsored by Colonial Beach Agricultural and Technical College. The meet consisted of fourteen junior colleges from different areas of the Commonwealth of Virginia.

Ed Walker established a new record when he took first place in the 440-yard run in 51.8 seconds. Walker, a 5-foot-10, 160-pounder, finished 6.5 seconds ahead of his closest competitor.

Cage Championship

The 1967 intramural basketball season came to a dramatic close on April 24 with the teams that took part in the first annual tournament. The teams were divided into two groups, each consisting of four teams. The tournament was held in the gymnasium of the school.

The Tourney Committee, under the leadership of the student council, planned and ran the event. The council members were busy from early morning to late night, working on the schedule, preparing for the dawn, and preparing for the weekend.

Four teams took part in the Marist Inter-collegiate Class B Division.

On the other hand, Ron Bloom's, who was present at the game, did not think the council made a good move. He has nothing against the council trying to move the team to another area, but the printers are not the ones who should be responsible for the decision.

The Tourney Committee did a fine job and the tourney was a success. The students who participated all enjoyed the event and were satisfied with the final results.

The following day, the Marist students returned and the SDS resumed their usual activities. There was little activity as the students felt a sense of relief after the stress of the previous day. The SDS meeting continued and the team members discussed the results of the tourney.

Don Vail Report

South, May 12th. Marist men's basketball team faced the 15th-seeded Cardinals, the team that had defeated the Marist Men's Basketball Team in the semi-final of the National Invitational Tournament. The Cardinals were the only team that had ever defeated the Marist Men's Basketball Team in the National Invitational Tournament.

The Cardinals had not done anything special in the first half of the game, but they came back in the second half and took the lead. The Marist team was able to hold on to the lead and win the game.

During the game, the Marist team played a very strong game and were able to make a few key shots to stay in the game. The team was able to hold the lead and win the game.
