Bros. Foy, Cashin, Weiss Return From Marist General Chapter

By Edward Synan

Brothers Lima Foy, Edward Cashin, and Gerard Weiss have recently returned from an extended visit to Rome. They had been attending the General Chapter meetings of the Marist Brothers. Brother Foy and Brother Weiss were immediately available for interviews. Brother Cashin was otherwise occupied.

Concerning the effects of the General Chapter on the future of the Marist tradition, the brothers noted that there was a significant improvement in the overall well-being of the Brothers. Furthermore, there was a noticeable increase in the number of Brothert freshmen. This is attributed to the new atmosphere of the General Chapter meetings.

Brother Foy, speaking on the role of the Brothers in the future, stated that the General Chapter is the highest level of the Brothers. He emphasized the importance of the Brothers being involved in the decision-making process at this level.

Marists Look To New Roles In Education

By Bro. Brendan Kenny

In a recent interview on the Marist-Brothers-Lagrange Institute Project, Brother Brendan Kenny, Provincial, commented on the Brothers' future roles in education. He emphasized the need for the Brothers to be more active in education, especially in the areas of religious education and moral development.

The Brothers are currently involved in a new educational project, which they hope to expand in the future. They are also working on establishing a new school in the area.

Russian Stresses Peaceful Co-existence

By Steve Gorgor

Vladimir Bilyou, a member of the Soviet Union's delegation to the United Nations, has stressed the importance of maintaining a peaceful co-existence with the West. He emphasized the need for the Soviet Union and the United States to work together to achieve this goal.

The Soviet Union's policy in the Middle East is one of peaceful co-existence. However, the United States has not been as forthcoming in its support of this policy.

Pass-Fail System Proposed By SAC

By Pierre Gaudet

On November 14, 1965, Brother Bernard Jacques, James Creteau, and Joseph Brenn, members of the Student Academic Committee, presented their proposal for a pass-fail system to the SAC. The proposal was approved by a vote of 9-3.

The pass-fail system would allow students to choose between pass, fail, or withdraw from a course. This system would be implemented on a trial basis for the spring semester.

The Student Academic Committee, formed to analyze and discuss academic problems and suggest solutions, is operating directly under the Student Government and is headed by James Creteau and Brother Jacques.

"Getting The Business"

Dear Sir,

I find it disturbing to see the latest issue of The Origin, a place that is supposed to be a source of information and discussion, being turned into a vehicle for sensational topics. It seems that instead of focusing on the real issues and engaging in meaningful discussions, the magazine is becoming more sensational in its approach.

Sincerely,

Dear Sir,

I have been a subscriber of The Origin for several years, and I have always found it to be a valuable resource. However, I have recently noticed a trend of sensationalism in the magazine, which I believe is a disservice to the readers and to the magazine itself.

'Getting The Business'

Dear Sir,

As the latest issue of The Observer arrived in my mailbox, I felt a sense of pride that we had managed to keep the prices down. It's not an easy task, but I think we've done a good job. From the feedback I've received, it seems that most of our readers are satisfied with the quality of our service.

Sincerely,

Dee, in your recent column, you mentioned the importance of education in today's society. I completely agree. As a student, I've realized that the skills and knowledge we acquire in school will serve us well throughout our lives. The more we learn, the better equipped we are to handle the challenges we'll face.

Well, here's the classic example of what can go wrong. I was at the store looking for a new pair of shoes, and I noticed a man who looked like he was in a hurry. He asked me if I could watch his bag while he ran a quick errand. I agreed, but when he returned, I noticed that the bag was empty. It was clear that someone had stolen it.

I'm just glad that I was able to help this man. It's important to always be on the lookout for others who may need assistance. It's amazing what can happen when we're willing to lend a helping hand.

Believe It Or Else...

As a writer, I often find myself in situations where I have to make difficult decisions. One such situation was when I was offered a job at a well-known magazine. I was thrilled at the opportunity, but then I faced a dilemma: should I accept the job or not?

After much consideration, I decided to accept the offer. It was a difficult decision, but I believe that it was the right choice for me. After all, I've always been passionate about writing, and this opportunity allowed me to pursue my dreams.

INTERCOLLEGIATE WEEKEND

Marist Joins In Hoot, Mixer, Football And Fun

Several colleges participated in the activities of the Marist College Homecoming Weekend Sept. 25-27, including the football teams of SUNY-Binghamton, SUNY-Cortland, Oswego State University and the Tommie Bobcats of St. Bonaventure. The football game was played on the Marist pitch on Saturday afternoon. The opening ceremony was held in the morning with the Marist College band leading the parade of the delegates and their respective colleges. The parade then proceeded to the main campus, where the Bobcats were introduced. The game was a close one, with SUNY-Binghamton winning by a score of 14-13.

Soviet Policy

The policies of the Soviet Union have been a source of debate and discussion throughout the minds of many. With the recent events in Eastern Europe, there has been a renewed interest in understanding the policies of the Soviet Union. The policies of the Soviet Union have been largely determined by the leadership of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. The policies of the Communist Party are based on the principles of Marxism-Leninism, which were developed by Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels. The policies of the Soviet Union have been characterized by a strong emphasis on economic planning, state ownership of the means of production, and the suppression of dissent. The policies of the Soviet Union have also been characterized by a strong emphasis on national security, which has led to a significant increase in military spending.

Face vs. Brawn

The game between Marist College and SUNY-Binghamton was a hard-fought one, with both teams displaying great skill and determination. The Marist College team was led by quarterback John Smith, who threw for 200 yards and two touchdowns. The SUNY-Binghamton team was led by running back John Johnson, who rushed for 100 yards and a touchdown. The game was played in front of a sold-out crowd at Marist College, and the final score was 21-17 in favor of Marist College.

Faculty Covers Three Aspects of Karl Marx

By Prof. Frederick Brand

Karl Marx, the great German philosopher, is known for his theories of social and economic change. Marx's work has been influential in the development of communism and socialism. However, his theories have also been criticized by some for being too idealistic and ignoring the complexities of human behavior. In this article, Prof. Frederick Brand discusses three aspects of Karl Marx's work that are relevant to the study of human behavior.

Vikings Beat Canisius

Contended on the page 8

In a closely contested match, the Marist Vikings defeated the Canisius Cranes by a score of 2-1 in the second round of the NCAA Men's Soccer Tournament. The Vikings used a strong defense and efficient passing to control the game, and the Cranes were unable to generate many scoring opportunities. Both teams played well, but the Vikings were the more aggressive and determined team.

NEW SEASON OPENS TONIGHT

Look Homeward Angel

The Marist College Theatre and Drama Department will open the fall season with "Look Homeward Angel," the play written by John Steinbeck and directed by Prof. Frederick Brand. The play tells the story of the life of a young man, John Steinbeck, as he struggles to make sense of the world around him. The production will feature a cast of Marist College students, and the show will be held in the university's newly renovated theatre. The performance will be held at 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and tickets are available at the box office or online through the Marist College website.

Elections

Dear Editor,

I am writing to express my concerns regarding the recent election held at Marist College. As a member of the Marist community, I feel compelled to address the issues that have arisen from this election.

I have observed several instances of stuffing and fraud during the election process. These actions not only undermine the integrity of the democratic process but also cast doubt on the legitimacy of the results.

I urge the administration to take immediate action to investigate these allegations and ensure fair and transparent elections in the future.

Elections

Dear Editor,

In this election season, we need to encourage students to be informed and make educated choices. There are many factors to consider when deciding who to vote for, including their track record, platform, and ability to listen to and represent the needs of the student body. It's important to research the candidates and ask yourself if they have the experience and qualities necessary to make informed decisions on behalf of everyone. Let's strive to create a healthy democratic environment where dialogue and open-mindedness are valued.

PASS-FAIL AT YALE

The new pass-fail system at Yale University has been implemented to give students more flexibility in choosing their courses. This system allows students to pass or fail courses, regardless of their grades. It's a great way for students to take classes without the pressure of grades. However, some students have raised concerns about the impact on their academic performance. Only time will tell how this new system works.

PASS-FAIL AT YALE (Continued From Page 2)

There are many benefits to this new system. Students can choose to take classes that they are interested in, without worrying about the potential impact on their GPA. This can help students explore different areas of study and find their true passions.

Vikings End Home Stand In Victory

By Bill McGarry, Tom McIlvaine, Don Ronechi and Frank Atkinson

The Washington Post

November 16, 1967

The outstanding blocking of offensive lineemen Tom Dowd, Don McIlvaine, Bill McGarry, Tom McIlvaine, Don Ronechi and Frank Atkinson was led by coach Ron Heyne. Blocking backs Howard and Chris McNamara also provided the protection for quarterback Jim Conroy.

A Vikings record was set for total offense with 445 yards. Bill Dowd was 6-for-10 for 107 yards and two touchdowns, with 11 carries for 142 yards. The team scored five touchdowns in the game.

The following Saturday in the game, the Vikings' first score came when Jim Conroy hit Chris McNamara with a 9-yard scoring pass. Conroy dove over from the one yard line to bring a 14-0 lead into the second quarter. Bill Rodelsperger's successful conversion attempt extended Marist's first score when Bill Dowd circled over for the touchdown.

Harrier's Efforts Realized; Track Team Chalks Up 18 Wins

A new addition to the Marist extra-curriculum has occurred recently in the formation of the Spiked Shoe Club. The initial meeting last month to form a Marist Track Team was attended last year by the athletic director of coach Charlie Dominy. However, there is a great deal of interest involved in supporting a track team, especially when the sport is in the building stages. It was deemed necessary that a track club which would carry the job started by the original group last year.

The primary objective of the new club was to compete in all track and field events held in conjunction with the Athletic Department of Marist College and to foster a spirit of friendly competition throughout the entire college community.

At the first meeting the election of officers took place. The outcome of the voting was as follows: President: Art Quidicchio, Executive Vice-President: Bob Andrews, Administrative Vice-President: Fred Walter, Treasurer: Vin Wirth, and Secretary: Bob Morgan.

Numerous proposals have already been approved by the organization, and at present, all activities are being planned in support of the Thanksgiving recess. A mixer is to be held by the club will be scheduled for sometime in the near future. An intercollegiate program has been approved for the next week, with approximately 1,000 athletes expected to compete in various events.

In order to successfully carry out the activities planned, there is a need for a large number of interested students and faculty members. More support is definitely needed, especially in the person of the club's members.
