New Proposals Follow Security Force Evaluation

Due to a recent rash of incidents involving security on campus, there has been a re- examination of the policies involving this department. Resident and security personnel have engaged in this reassessment. Proposed changes include the installation of better lighting, electronic equipment to screen the presence of residents, and additional security personnel.

There have been many problems that have brought about the need for these innovations. One of these is the student safety issue that is supposed to be patrolling the campus 24 hours a day. There is a misinterpretation of these students' role, which raises a lack of prestige and respect for the position. This also causes a large turnover, as many students earn their money for a while and then quit. This leaves a campus that is taken to be hoping to increase growth, or the campus is a more careful screening process. This screening will hopefully be undertaken by a security-residence committee that will supply a stricter evaluation of prospective employees. There will also be a re-evaluation of the current student security staff in conjunction with this screening process.

It is hoped that the addition of adult supervision will eliminate this gap between residence personnel and security, and through restructuring of the security system can create cooperation between the two. The supervisors themselves have become a top priority in the list of proposals for security. It is expected that the job will attract trained adults, perhaps those who are on waiting lists for state and local police.

Advertisements have been placed for such people, and it is believed that action on this can take place within a few weeks.

Another proposal is that of new, more attractive and less extensive lighting on campus. Better lighting, it is felt, could cut down on incidents such as the recent ones that have taken place in the more poorly lit areas of the campus. It should be noted that there have been requests in the past for additional lighting which have not yet been fulfilled. New lighting, it is hoped, will be installed as soon as the weather permits; although it will probably not be until the end of the semester.

One other proposal that has come up is the use of electronic equipment in one of the far-reaching points on campus. This could be implemented over a period of time, with an option to buy at a later date. Equipment such as scanning cameras and radios would be installed at the boathouse, in both the parking lots, and in some parts of Den- nelly. By a network of such devices, the security patrol could be aware of what goes on in these areas without having to take the time needed to visit each - thus, there would be more security in a concentrated area.

Another proposal is that of new, more attractive and less extensive lighting on campus. Better lighting, it is felt, could cut down on incidents such as the recent ones that have taken place in the more poorly lit areas of the campus. It should be noted that there have been requests in the past for additional lighting which have not yet been fulfilled. New lighting, it is hoped, will be installed as soon as the weather permits; although it will probably not be until the end of the semester.

One other proposal that has come up is the use of electronic equipment in one of the far-reaching points on campus. This could be implemented over a period of time, with an option to buy at a later date. Equipment such as scanning cameras and radios would be installed at the boathouse, in both the parking lots, and in some parts of Den- nelly. By a network of such devices, the security patrol could be aware of what goes on in these areas without having to take the time needed to visit each - thus, there would be more security in a concentrated area.

S.G. Elections

The petitions of nomination for the following candidates have been declared valid, and are thus qualified to run for Student Government offices in the Spring of 1973. To be eligible, each candidate had to receive at least 165 signatures from students of Marist College and had to be filed with the election commission no later than midnight, March 16th, 1973.

The candidates are:

- President: James Elliott, Joanne Roche
- Vice President: Wayne Brio, Jason Ryan, Peter Plees, Martin Primer
- Treasurer: Edward Kinsley, Patrick Coughlin, Michael Harrigan, Fernando Rossetti
- Secretaries: The final schedule for Student Government officers for the Spring of 1973 was announced.

Veteran's Notice

GI BILL DEADLINE WARNING
May 31, 1974 is a crucial date for veterans who were discharged from the armed forces between January 31, 1965, and August 7, 1974, to make the most of their GI Bill education benefits expire. They may then lose all or part of their GI Bill benefits.

Benefits for these veterans were not authorized until enactment of the current GI Bill on June 1, 1968. Thus, they must complete training within this two-year period; otherwise, their benefits will expire.

Some of the benefits available to veterans interested in flight training or se- rob and farm cooperative training. All the benefits of the veterans have until August 31, 1975 or eight years after discharge, whichever is later, to complete training.

This is in addition to the training programs that were not available until October, 1975.

C.U.B. Policy Questioned

By Ed O'Connell

The last minute announcement of the C.U.B. for Champagnat House III to curtail all out-of-House advertising has brought on a serious reaction among the students of House III, which is sponsoring a Square Dance on Saturday, learned Wednesday that the last-minute action will not allow two major events to be publicized for the same night.

The staff of the house has said, "We are questioning the rights of the C.U.B., and we are going to refuse to pay for any public service programs and activities held outside the Campus Center. The event, which is scheduled to run simultaneously with the B.S.U. dance in the calderna, is being held in the gym.

The staff is still going to hold their event, although they have cooperated with the Social Committee in its advertising regulations.

B.S.U. Culturo-Expo '73

Coming This Weekend

by Gerry Sundstrom Hooke

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday, March 30-31, the B.S.U. of Marist College will present its Culturo-Expo '73. The purpose of this is to provide a well-rounded program in communications and culture with, naturally, education and fun.

The B.S.U. and Bemot have been clued for some reason, anticipated mysticism. Many students at Marist have never visited Bemot because they feelそこключен, dreamt of, whatever. Fortunately, that wall of mysticism is crumbling. Our weekend is for the explorers. We are not the coroners of the dead, the clergy, calling all the facts and figures. We simply wish to communicate with people because we know that only through communication can we find the answers to life's questions.

Again, communication is our bag, and we plan to share it with all those willing to take a risk and dive into the deep darkness of a weekend of soul. You'll come: we welcome you.
(family) Doctor Please!

To enter into the Emergency Room of Johns Hopkins Hospital, deep in the bowels of its main campus, is to enter a nearly invisible world. A world that serves the needs of the sickest and most neglected, yet sometimes seems to ignore the humanity of its patients. It's a world where every day can feel like a lifetime and every moment can feel like an eternity. It's a world where the memories made are as fleeting as they are precious.

On Saturday, March 3, a female resident student was assaulted outside Loew Hall while entering the back entrance of the building. The girl was attacked by a man who approached her from behind and grabbed her by the arm. As she tried to struggle free, the man began to grab her breast. The girl managed to挣 her arm away and the attacker fled the scene. The incident was reported to the police, who are now investigating.

The assault is the latest in a series of attacks on women on Johns Hopkins' campus. In recent months, there have been reports of sexual harassment and assault in various parts of the school. The university has taken steps to address these issues, including increasing security presence and conducting workshops on sexual assault prevention. However, some students feel that more needs to be done to ensure the safety of all students.

In response to the latest attack, the Hopkins community has come together to support the victim and to demand change. A series of events, including a candlelight vigil and a march, have been organized to raise awareness and to demand action from the university.

The Hopkins community is united in its demand for safety and justice. We cannot let this assault define our campus. We must come together to create a safer, more inclusive environment for all. No one should have to fear for their safety while attending Johns Hopkins University. It's time for change.

The Hopkins community has always been strong. We have faced challenges before and we have overcome them together. This time is no different. We will stand together and we will make sure that our campus is a place where all students can thrive. We will not allow fear to define us. We will be strong, we will be united, and we will demand justice. This is our time.

Security, Shape Up!

On Saturday, March 3, a female resident student was assaulted outside Loew Hall while entering the back entrance of the building. The girl was attacked by a man who approached her from behind and grabbed her by the arm. As she tried to struggle free, the man began to grab her breast. The girl managed to挣 her arm away and the attacker fled the scene. The incident was reported to the police, who are now investigating.

The assault is the latest in a series of attacks on women on Johns Hopkins' campus. In recent months, there have been reports of sexual harassment and assault in various parts of the school. The university has taken steps to address these issues, including increasing security presence and conducting workshops on sexual assault prevention. However, some students feel that more needs to be done to ensure the safety of all students.

In response to the latest attack, the Hopkins community has come together to support the victim and to demand change. A series of events, including a candlelight vigil and a march, have been organized to raise awareness and to demand action from the university.

The Hopkins community is united in its demand for safety and justice. We cannot let this assault define our campus. We must come together to create a safer, more inclusive environment for all. No one should have to fear for their safety while attending Johns Hopkins University. It's time for change.

The Hopkins community has always been strong. We have faced challenges before and we have overcome them together. This time is no different. We will stand together and we will demand justice. This is our time.

Security, Shape Up!

On Saturday, March 3, a female resident student was assaulted outside Loew Hall while entering the back entrance of the building. The girl was attacked by a man who approached her from behind and grabbed her by the arm. As she tried to struggle free, the man began to grab her breast. The girl managed to挣 her arm away and the attacker fled the scene. The incident was reported to the police, who are now investigating.

The assault is the latest in a series of attacks on women on Johns Hopkins' campus. In recent months, there have been reports of sexual harassment and assault in various parts of the school. The university has taken steps to address these issues, including increasing security presence and conducting workshops on sexual assault prevention. However, some students feel that more needs to be done to ensure the safety of all students.

In response to the latest attack, the Hopkins community has come together to support the victim and to demand change. A series of events, including a candlelight vigil and a march, have been organized to raise awareness and to demand action from the university.

The Hopkins community is united in its demand for safety and justice. We cannot let this assault define our campus. We must come together to create a safer, more inclusive environment for all. No one should have to fear for their safety while attending Johns Hopkins University. It's time for change.

The Hopkins community has always been strong. We have faced challenges before and we have overcome them together. This time is no different. We will stand together and we will demand justice. This is our time.

Security, Shape Up!

On Saturday, March 3, a female resident student was assaulted outside Loew Hall while entering the back entrance of the building. The girl was attacked by a man who approached her from behind and grabbed her by the arm. As she tried to struggle free, the man began to grab her breast. The girl managed to挣 her arm away and the attacker fled the scene. The incident was reported to the police, who are now investigating.

The assault is the latest in a series of attacks on women on Johns Hopkins' campus. In recent months, there have been reports of sexual harassment and assault in various parts of the school. The university has taken steps to address these issues, including increasing security presence and conducting workshops on sexual assault prevention. However, some students feel that more needs to be done to ensure the safety of all students.

In response to the latest attack, the Hopkins community has come together to support the victim and to demand change. A series of events, including a candlelight vigil and a march, have been organized to raise awareness and to demand action from the university.

The Hopkins community is united in its demand for safety and justice. We cannot let this assault define our campus. We must come together to create a safer, more inclusive environment for all. No one should have to fear for their safety while attending Johns Hopkins University. It's time for change.

The Hopkins community has always been strong. We have faced challenges before and we have overcome them together. This time is no different. We will stand together and we will demand justice. This is our time.

Security, Shape Up!

On Saturday, March 3, a female resident student was assaulted outside Loew Hall while entering the back entrance of the building. The girl was attacked by a man who approached her from behind and grabbed her by the arm. As she tried to struggle free, the man began to grab her breast. The girl managed to挣 her arm away and the attacker fled the scene. The incident was reported to the police, who are now investigating.

The assault is the latest in a series of attacks on women on Johns Hopkins' campus. In recent months, there have been reports of sexual harassment and assault in various parts of the school. The university has taken steps to address these issues, including increasing security presence and conducting workshops on sexual assault prevention. However, some students feel that more needs to be done to ensure the safety of all students.

In response to the latest attack, the Hopkins community has come together to support the victim and to demand change. A series of events, including a candlelight vigil and a march, have been organized to raise awareness and to demand action from the university.

The Hopkins community is united in its demand for safety and justice. We cannot let this assault define our campus. We must come together to create a safer, more inclusive environment for all. No one should have to fear for their safety while attending Johns Hopkins University. It's time for change.

The Hopkins community has always been strong. We have faced challenges before and we have overcome them together. This time is no different. We will stand together and we will demand justice. This is our time.

Security, Shape Up!

On Saturday, March 3, a female resident student was assaulted outside Loew Hall while entering the back entrance of the building. The girl was attacked by a man who approached her from behind and grabbed her by the arm. As she tried to struggle free, the man began to grab her breast. The girl managed to挣 her arm away and the attacker fled the scene. The incident was reported to the police, who are now investigating.

The assault is the latest in a series of attacks on women on Johns Hopkins' campus. In recent months, there have been reports of sexual harassment and assault in various parts of the school. The university has taken steps to address these issues, including increasing security presence and conducting workshops on sexual assault prevention. However, some students feel that more needs to be done to ensure the safety of all students.

In response to the latest attack, the Hopkins community has come together to support the victim and to demand change. A series of events, including a candlelight vigil and a march, have been organized to raise awareness and to demand action from the university.

The Hopkins community is united in its demand for safety and justice. We cannot let this assault define our campus. We must come together to create a safer, more inclusive environment for all. No one should have to fear for their safety while attending Johns Hopkins University. It's time for change.

The Hopkins community has always been strong. We have faced challenges before and we have overcome them together. This time is no different. We will stand together and we will demand justice. This is our time.

Security, Shape Up!

On Saturday, March 3, a female resident student was assaulted outside Loew Hall while entering the back entrance of the building. The girl was attacked by a man who approached her from behind and grabbed her by the arm. As she tried to struggle free, the man began to grab her breast. The girl managed to挣 her arm away and the attacker fled the scene. The incident was reported to the police, who are now investigating.

The assault is the latest in a series of attacks on women on Johns Hopkins' campus. In recent months, there have been reports of sexual harassment and assault in various parts of the school. The university has taken steps to address these issues, including increasing security presence and conducting workshops on sexual assault prevention. However, some students feel that more needs to be done to ensure the safety of all students.

In response to the latest attack, the Hopkins community has come together to support the victim and to demand change. A series of events, including a candlelight vigil and a march, have been organized to raise awareness and to demand action from the university.

The Hopkins community is united in its demand for safety and justice. We cannot let this assault define our campus. We must come together to create a safer, more inclusive environment for all. No one should have to fear for their safety while attending Johns Hopkins University. It's time for change.

The Hopkins community has always been strong. We have faced challenges before and we have overcome them together. This time is no different. We will stand together and we will demand justice. This is our time.
(family) Doctor Please!

To enter into the Emergency Room of Jewish Hospital, deep in the Bowery area, a patient registers at the receptionist desk and receives a parking ticket. A few minutes later, he returns to the desk and settles in a chair, while a receptionist arranges for a medical examination. The patient is then seen by a doctor, who orders laboratory tests and x-rays. The patient is then sent to the recovery room, where he waits for the results of his tests. Finally, he is seen by a specialist, who prescribes medication and orders additional tests. If he is admitted to the hospital, he is sent to a private or shared room, where he is monitored by nurses and provided with meals. The hospital provides excellent care, with state-of-the-art facilities and expert staff. It is one of the top hospitals in the country, and is consistently ranked among the best in the nation. Its modern facilities and expert staff make it a leader in the field of healthcare.
The End Or The Beginning?

by Jim Donnelly

As winter ends and spring fills the air, another Marist basketball team has entered the latter days of its 1972-73 season. In the yellowed pages of the record books. Looking back, we can sense the uniqueness of this season. The season was filled with ups and downs but I feel the coaches and players will look back on this one with a satisfied smile. Who ever doubted this team? Did Coach Petro cringe when he saw his 6'4 show-up guy take on No.17 and the Compton ‘V’ center for N.I.T. bound Manhattan? Did anyone ever doubt that the first year of the Hall of Fame Coach would allow them to win during the six game losing streak? Did any loyal fan expect less from the N.A.A.L. tournament victory? I must admit doubts did exist in my mind at certain times after the first defeat of losses in varsity history, optimization on high. They were young but talented. All hoped seemed to dwell with this six game losing streak but it is where the tough got going. There is no questioning the talent and dedication of the young team and aren’t they just fine! Petro has probably had the teams’ hopes and aspirations for 30 and definitely in place in the top ten (maybe even the top five), as the team continued to show their strength and readiness for the outdoor season. John Redmond placed third in the 300 meter hurdles and won a bronze medal. Bob Guida came closer to the university than any record and is less than a foot away from the outdoor mark as he tosses 41’ 3” for fourth place. John Curley tied the Marist record for the 60 yard hurdles as he sped 8.9 seconds and also won the high jump competition on the JV level as he leaped 6 feet for a gold medal. Bill Sprague placed second in the competition with a 5’ 10” leap. Dan Palaon and Tom Cushing were fifth and respectively in the finals of the 60 yard dash with times of 6.8. Both runners continued to show that they are consistent sprinters as they perhaps are one of the all time greats of the 60 yard dash. More importantly was blocked eight shots which is an extremely high total for anyone. Marist did not unnoticed as Mike Hart scored 25 points, had 9 rebounds and tied a Marist record by scoring 23 consecutive free throws in the last few games. Hart was also only once allowed any free throws as he hit for 4 of 4 in a game where he had a good offensive night scoring 12 points. Mike Hart was known for his ability on the bench to score 10 of 10. All looked very impressive as players of the future. And the Marist team played with cool heads and an extremely capable opponent, a team that had four of their starting five playing together for the last 4 games. It had not been for a cold start to the second half, during which Marist was out of scoring 23-10, after being down 35-32 at halftime, the outcome may have been different. The fact that Marist did not fall apart after being down by over 20 points, in which they scored 11 points in 20 their season and through the tournament and thirteen seats were provided for the Marist team, whereas the other teams had it easier. Whether this had any effect on Marist’s play will never be known, but the play of the New Orleans did they. They were not a team to be fought game. Xavier not only affected Marist, but the entire tournament.

It Happened In KC

by Jimmy Landolfi

After winning section 31 of the National Intercollegiate Athletic Association, Marist College was bound for Kansas City, Missouri, to compete in the NCAA basketball tournament in the 1972-73 season. Before leaving coach Ron Petro stated that the trip would be a good experience for the young team and himself. He hoped that they would win, but that would be more a matter of probability than actual winning would be more of a task than the New Orleans did they. Because the ill fated number thirteen had everything connected with Marist.

To begin with the Marist college team was to be the member of the Continental Hotel, most hotels didn’t even have a 13th floor. Then Marist played its game on the 13th in March in the Municipal Sports Complex on the 13th Street of Kansas City. But the situation was that the tournament and thirteen seats were provided for the Marist team, whereas the other teams had it easier.

Whether this had any effect on Marist’s play will never be known, but the play of the New Orleans did they. They were not a team to be fought game. Xavier not only affected Marist, but the entire tournament.

Led by 6’9" sophomore Bruce Seals, the Marist College basketball team from the University of Toronto, Houston College, ranked as the top team in the country’s NCAA basketball division of the NCAA. Although Marist was eventually defeated in the second round of the NCAA tournament, Bruce Seals was named to the all tournament team of the All American squad by U.P.I. and A.P.

Marist had 30 points and 19 rebounds against Marist but

Indoor Trackmen Place Fourth in CTC Meet

by Jimmy Weber

After winning section 31 of the National Intercollegiate Athletic Association, Marist College was bound for Kansas City, Missouri, to compete in the NCAA basketball tournament in the 1972-73 season. Before leaving coach Ron Petro stated that the trip would be a good experience for the young team and himself. He hoped that they would win, but that would be more a matter of probability than actual winning would be more of a task than the New Orleans did they. Because the ill fated number thirteen had everything connected with Marist.

To begin with the Marist college team was to be the member of the Continental Hotel, most hotels didn’t even have a 13th floor. Then Marist played its game on the 13th in March in the Municipal Sports Complex on the 13th Street of Kansas City. But the situation was that the tournament and thirteen seats were provided for the Marist team, whereas the other teams had it easier.

Whether this had any effect on Marist’s play will never be known, but the play of the New Orleans did they. They were not a team to be fought game. Xavier not only affected Marist, but the entire tournament.

Led by 6’9" sophomore Bruce Seals, the Marist College basketball team from the University of Toronto, Houston College, ranked as the top team in the country’s NCAA basketball division of the NCAA. Although Marist was eventually defeated in the second round of the NCAA tournament, Bruce Seals was named to the all tournament team of the All American squad by U.P.I. and A.P.

Marist had 30 points and 19 rebounds against Marist but more importantly were blocked eight shots which is an extremely high total for anyone. Marist did not go unnoticed as Mike Hart scored 25 points, had 9 rebounds and tied a Marist record by scoring 23 consecutive free throws in the last few games. Hart was also only once allowed any free throws as he hit for 4 of 4 in a game where he had a good offensive night scoring 12 points. Mike Hart was known for his ability on the bench to score 10 of 10. All looked very impressive as players of the future. And the Marist team played with cool heads and an extremely capable opponent, a team that had four of their starting five playing together for the last 4 games. It had not been for a cold start to the second half, during which Marist was out of scoring 23-10, after being down 35-32 at halftime, the outcome may have been different.

The fact that Marist did not fall apart after being down by over 20 points, in which they scored 11 points in 20 their season and through the tournament and thirteen seats were provided for the Marist team, whereas the other teams had it easier.

Whether this had any effect on Marist’s play will never be known, but the play of the New Orleans did they. They were not a team to be fought game. Xavier not only affected Marist, but the entire tournament.

Led by 6’9" sophomore Bruce Seals, the Marist College basketball team from the University of Toronto, Houston College, ranked as the top team in the country’s NCAA basketball division of the NCAA. Although Marist was eventually defeated in the second round of the NCAA tournament, Bruce Seals was named to the all tournament team of the All American squad by U.P.I. and A.P.

Marist had 30 points and 19 rebounds against Marist but more importantly were blocked eight shots which is an extremely high total for anyone. Marist did not go unnoticed as Mike Hart scored 25 points, had 9 rebounds and tied a Marist record by scoring 23 consecutive free throws in the last few games. Hart was also only once allowed any free throws as he hit for 4 of 4 in a game where he had a good offensive night scoring 12 points. Mike Hart was known for his ability on the bench to score 10 of 10. All looked very impressive as players of the future. And the Marist team played with cool heads and an extremely capable opponent, a team that had four of their starting five playing together for the last 4 games. It had not been for a cold start to the second half, during which Marist was out of scoring 23-10, after being down 35-32 at halftime, the outcome may have been different.

The fact that Marist did not fall apart after being down by over 20 points, in which they scored 11 points in 20 their season and through the tournament and thirteen seats were provided for the Marist team, whereas the other teams had it easier.

Whether this had any effect on Marist’s play will never be known, but the play of the New Orleans did they. They were not a team to be fought game. Xavier not only affected Marist, but the entire tournament.

Led by 6’9" sophomore Bruce Seals, the Marist College basketball team from the University of Toronto, Houston College, ranked as the top team in the country’s NCAA basketball division of the NCAA. Although Marist was eventually defeated in the second round of the NCAA tournament, Bruce Seals was named to the all tournament team of the All American squad by U.P.I. and A.P.

Marist had 30 points and 19 rebounds against Marist but