Student Government And College Council
Set To Begin New Administrations

The end of last semester, the Marist Student Community elected a new Student Government Board and new representatives to the College Council, 209 students voted in the Student Government Elections, whereas only 483 students voted in the College Council Elections. The reason for the difference in the number of students voting in each election line in the fact that a great many students still don't realize what the College Council is or the purpose of its existence.

The results of the Student Government Elections were published at 4:30 p.m. on that day by the Election Commissioner, Mr. Fred Lambert and Mr. Joseph Brennan were present for the tallying of the Student Government votes. Other impersonal or apparent mistakes, besides Bob Sammon were Hank Harrigan, Paul Pillier and Marcy Remmersmith.

For the office of President of Student Government Board, the College Jim Elliott was elected with 213 votes. Mr. Elliott's Campaign followed with 192 votes and Renaissance with 141. There were a total of 69 abstention votes for this office, which was a new attendance rate when compared to the other offices.

Juan Campos was elected Vice President to the Executive Board by 160 votes. The other two candidates' totals were very close; the totals for the first were 174, second was with Martin Prinner edged out by 123 votes. The abstention vote for the office of Vice President was 75.

Mr. Michael Harrigan was elected Secretary to the Student Government Board with 253 votes. Fernando Rossetti was 2nd with 216 and Robeterio was 3rd with 12 votes. The total abstention votes for this office was 96.

Elvira Godsey defeated his opponent "abstain" by a total of 97 votes to 123 votes.

The Student Community had a choice of 47 candidates to choose from for the College Council Representatives. Of the 47 candidates, they were to choose representative and representatives for the College Council, 40 students were permitted to vote for candidates and 40 were not. However, many residents found it difficult to vote for candidates as did commuters for residents which somewhat indicates a lack of communication between the two groups. 17 College Council ballots were disqualified by the Election Commissioner for being too many candidates, either from the resident or the commuter candidates.

Any full-time student is eligible for election to the College Council and the procedure is provided for in the by-laws of the College Council. A candidate for a representative did not even know they had been nominated until they were voting. Evidently, they were not informed of what had been nominated them.

The following resident students were elected to the College Council by the following number of students: James Black (129), Jim Elliott (127), Terry Curtin (236), Melvecas (52), and Eric Verpyn (41). Commuter Students elected to the College Council were Pena, Rossettii, Richard Fox (129) Christine Wine (129) and Joseph Scocca (129).

Two resident representatives have since resigned to devote more time to their new responsibilities, namely Jim Elliott and Ed Kissing. Elliott elaborated by saying, "My reasons for resigning are many and varied. However, the most important reasons are that due to my being the President of Student Government and a Resident Coordinator of Harmanagam, I believe that with a third position, I would not be able to do all jobs as well as I would like to. Also, with my resignation, a new person becomes involved and hopefully, active." Ed Kissing followed up by stating: "I've had my chance, and I'm thankful for it; now it's time for others. Only participation, can the College Council work." Elliott and Kissing are being replaced by candidates with the highest number of votes.

Food Crisis At Marist

by Jerry Mayove

Currently, our nation is in the throes of a most serious problem. What is causing it is the subject of much conflict and debate on the campus.

It is always interesting to observe people's reactions to a new situation, as is this shortage. As the prices rise between each freeze (Phase IV ended Sept. 12), many families have chosen to buy less expensive food. Other families buy their meat and freeze it for many weeks. Still others have replaced it entirely with other protein-enriched foods.

Some have been helped by finding a new market for their products; families cannot afford to buy it, so the prices will come to more reasonable levels. At that point, the Marist will again buy beef and restore the Saturday steak night. In a more optimistic vein, the cafeteria is planning to introduce more new menus, particularly in the summer.

On the subject of shortages there is something we students care about: our food. The food around here is ridiculous, and it's true. Often, people take ten seconds to decide on desserts or drinks, have one, and throw out the rest. Other students cannot take them at all. It is expected that a few people will want to make the main course and discard it; this is anticipated and provided for. Often, however, students overload their plate and then don't eat all of it, so food is needlessly discarded. A solution is to just take some food and leave. It shouldn't be a problem.

Of course, the situation is bad. Often, a supermarket cannot even fill one of its most cases in the months of October and November. At this time, closing time. They not only have a smaller selection of meat, it's overpriced. Many students, however, are either buying judiciously or not at all.

New Changes
In Security

by Rodney Lemon

After thefts and various other problems that have occurred at Marist over the past two years, there was a definite need of complete revision of the security force on Campus. To fill these demands, Mr. and Mrs. Rosenwald, the father and mother of Mr. Rosenwald, were the following changes have occurred.

In years gone by, the security force on Campus had the image of people who go around on a prearranged schedule to check their time clocks at all the buildings and that was it. When a person was in trouble or had something of theirs stolen, civil authority had to be called in from the outside. This situation then altered to what exists now.

This year the Office of Safety and Security has been changed from an image of watchman to a highly professional personnel with one main purpose in mind, to become part of the community. In years past, all one had to do is to signal the guards and become a guard and was only fired when they were no longer needed.

This year these guards will have no set pattern in which to patrol so they will more likely be in the area when you need them. Also, the force has been cut to only six men, but due to the techniques of this new force that will be set up even for the parking lots, the guards will be able to cover more areas where the students are located.

Before this year's changes, guards on Campus were completely void of authority in which to handle matters by themselves. Consequently, when matters that pertained to security did arise they became just another mouth in the argument until the civil police took over. This year however, the guards are aided by the administration itself, and any problems that pertain to security and safety can and should be handled by the guards themselves.

In conclusion the Safety and Security Office is trying to get on the best possible report with the community and become just
A New Housemaster Meets Marist

Modern times tell us that only an idiot would maintain that our present society cannot be changed or that change is not possible. There have been many of the world’s greatest leaders in the past who have made changes through various means: a combination of charisma, force, reason, and cooperation. The present day is no exception. As a new Housemaster assumes his responsibilities, he realizes the challenges that come with this role.

The presence of older students in the hall provides a reassuring comfort. Their maturity and wisdom are invaluable resources. The influence of mentors is crucial in shaping the younger generation.

By the way, the new Housemaster is also a marathon runner and he is looking forward to passing on his passion for running to the students. He hopes to organize a running club and perhaps even participate in some races with the students.

Tutoring Program Begins

There’s no time for some things and a few minutes for others. If you’re a Marist student, you might have noticed that the tutoring program has been expanded this year. Curiously, it seems to be working with seventh and eight graders better than with high school students. The program has also been successful in helping students from lower income families.

However, this year there is an unusual event that has captured the attention of the entire school: a dance. The dance was held on Friday evening, and although it was a great success, some students felt it was too hectic and overwhelming. They preferred the more relaxed atmosphere of the tutoring program.

The students who attended the dance were required to dress in traditional Marist attire. Girls wore dresses with white gloves, while boys wore suits and ties. The music played throughout the evening was a mix of old and new songs, and the lighting was dim to create a romantic atmosphere.

The dance continued well into the night, and the guests seemed to be having a great time. As the night wore on, the students became more relaxed and enjoyed each other’s company. Even some of the students who were initially hesitant to dance found themselves feeling more at ease.

Overall, it was a successful event that brought the Marist community together.

Let us know if you enjoyed the dance. We would love to hear your feedback.

Security Shakes Up

It was a week of uncertainty and confusion for the Marist Corporation. After receiving reports of potential threats to the school, the Corporation decided to take action to ensure the safety of the students and staff. The decision was not taken lightly, as it involved significant changes to the daily routine and procedures of the school.

The Corporation decided to implement a series of security measures, including increased surveillance, restricted access to certain areas, and enhanced communication between the staff and students. The rationale behind these measures was to create a safer environment for all members of the Marist community.

The students were not happy with the new security measures, as they felt that their freedom of movement was restricted. Some students even expressed concerns about their privacy. However, the Corporation assured them that the measures were necessary to ensure the safety of everyone.

Despite the initial resistance, the students gradually adapted to the new environment. They realized that the changes were necessitated by the current situation and that the Corporation had acted in their best interests.

Tutoring Program Continues

This year, the tutoring program has been a huge success. It seems that students are benefiting from the extra help and are improving their grades. The program has been instrumental in helping students who were struggling with their studies.

The program continue to expand and new tutors are being recruited. The students are excited about the program and have begun to form study groups. The atmosphere in the library has become more focused and conducive to learning.

We would love to hear your feedback on the tutoring program. Let us know if you have noticed any improvements or if there is anything that can be done to improve the program further.

The Corporation continues to monitor the situation and is prepared to take further action if necessary. The goal is to create a safe and secure environment for all members of the Marist community.

Strength Through Symbolism

It would almost seem obligatory that a student would have to pass through one of the most difficult and challenging symbolisms inherent in the Marist system of learning. It could be considered as an essential part of any student’s education.

The symbolisms in the Marist system of learning are an integral part of the Marist identity and culture. They are designed to instill a sense of discipline, respect, and integrity in the students.

This year, the Corporation has decided to introduce a new symbol, the Marist Shield. The Shield is a symbol of strength, resilience, and determination. It is designed to remind the students of their strengths and capabilities.

The students are excited about the new symbol and have begun to wear it proudly. They have also started to incorporate it into their school spirit events.

The new symbol is a welcome addition to the Marist community. It reminds the students of the strength they possess and encourages them to continue to pursue their goals with determination.

We would love to hear your feedback on the new symbol. Let us know if you think it is a good addition to the Marist system of learning.

Wasted Food

There’s no doubt that the food crisis is a serious problem. The Cost of Living Index has been spiraling out of control since the end of the financial crisis. The cost of basic food items has been rising at a rate that is unprecedented.

The Marist Corporation is committed to addressing this issue. We are launching a new program aimed at reducing the amount of wasted food on campus. The program is called the Marist Food Waste Reduction Program.

The program will involve a series of initiatives aimed at reducing food waste, including the implementation of a food waste tracking system and the education of students and staff about the importance of reducing food waste.

We are confident that this program will make a significant difference in reducing food waste on campus. We encourage all members of the Marist community to participate in this important effort.

A New Housemaster Meets Marist

Modern thoughts tell us that one person's action often results in the actions of others. Much like in a circle, where a ripple is created after a stone is thrown, the action of one can affect the behavior of many. Jimmy Keeney, decided to introduce a change to the traditional way of thinking about our school. This new change affects every student and faculty member, as well as our entire community. It means meaningfully to my present observations, and the light, which begins with the small things, can be seen at all levels of our community. It is the little things, like the way we carry ourselves, that can make a big difference.

The housemaster is a key figure in maintaining the traditions of our school. Traditions are so important to us because they provide a sense of continuity and direction. They help us understand our past and guide us into the future. The housemaster's role is to ensure that these traditions are carried on with the same dedication and enthusiasm that have defined them in the past.

Our school has a rich history, and it is important that we continue to honor and preserve these traditions. The housemaster is the key to this, as they are responsible for ensuring that our traditions are passed down from generation to generation. The housemaster is a mentor, a role model, and a leader, all in one. They are the ones who help shape our students' character and instill in them the values that will carry them through life.

In conclusion, let us all take a moment to appreciate the role of the housemaster in our school. Let us be grateful for the traditions that we have, and let us work together to ensure that they continue to thrive. Let us remember that the actions of one can affect many, and let us strive to make a positive difference in our community.
Harriers Are Optimistic

The 1973 Marist Running Red Foxes were faced with a year of collegiate-inexperienced talent. The squad has been working out for almost two weeks now and has the largest turnout for the sport at Marist in five years of thirteen runners competing.

The team is composed of no seniors, four sophomores, six freshmen and two transfers from last year’s successful 14-man team which also finished second in the C.A.C.C. and third in the NIAA District 3 championships. Among the transfers are Jay Doyle, the number one runner in Marist cross country history. Doyle finished fifth on the all-time Marist list in cross country and was the only man on last year’s varsity, and Tom Willemsen, CVC-constable,

The prospect of another successful Marist cross country campaign, however, will rest on the shoulders of the new blood. The top freshmen contenders appear to be Brian Costine, a state champion at Arlington High School and Fred Kolay, a newcomer to the Marist team. Bill was second and ran for the first time in his senior year. He was also an all-conference runner. Kolay has been extremely impressive in early practices and remains the number one runner on the team this fall.

Other top freshmen include Tom Jordan from Our Lady of Lourdes High School where he was an all-county cross country runner and sophomore and junior runners and ran impressive mile times of 4:19 and two-mile times of 10:29. Bill Krempek brings another impressive young runner to the Marist team. Bill was second and ran for the first time in his senior year. He was also an all-conference runner. Butters packed With Potential Largely intact from last season’s (8-4-2) squad, the Marist College soccer team under Coach Howard Goldman will open its regular schedule of home against New Paltz State on Monday, September 26th.

The key positions are up for grabs following the graduation of fullbacks Heilmann and George Saunders, goalkeepers Bob Bergin and halfback Dave Vichas. If he says, "the coach can if they can be filled I will be very optimistic about the way this season’s situation." The Marist defense will be anchored by juniors Tom McDonald (Rochester) and Bill True (Wappingers Falls). Sophomores Tim Hayes (Seaford), Dave Tompkins (Carmel) and junior Bill Hurley (Westlake) will bolster the back line.

The offense will be run by coach Goldman who has brought in a number of new talent that will hold all Marist scoring records after transferring from Orange County College. Trotsky, from Park Ridge, N.J. came on strong late in the season to score ten goals in the last six games. Westfield, a native of Japan, is also expected to widen the Marist attack. "In practice, players who possess fine skills plus the ability to use their heads." Butters packed With Potential another facet of campus life. Inconvenience such as the roads leading to the dorms being locked and the security is increased and one else. Perhaps the most important thing to remember about the security on campus is that it is no longer a law enforcement issue, but rather a community minded service to the student body. Everyone is more than welcome to go to any problems or just to visit. The people to go to are Mr. R. A. Reidelhoff, director, Tom Carberry, C36, Bill Owen, C29, Bill Toner, C35, Bill Guidale, C37, and Pat Jones who is a non-resident. The office to solve them is in the basement of the dormitory.

New Outlook For Intramurals

by Jim Donnelly

This year’s intramural program at the State University of New Paltz, J.T. is as it is affectionately called brings a creative optimism to his job. Being the director he has pledged himself to the problems and the goals of the past. Quotes J.T. "I see my major role as the director of the administrative aspects of the job and second being a promoter of intercollegiate and intramural tournaments and introducing new opportunities. The emphasis on intramurals should put on participation rather than winning." This year has increased student interest for the program to be a success. Without student interest the students themselves may be left to the whims of the Intramural Director who may be out of touch with the students in the intramural program. I think the intramural program at Marist has not reached its potential. I judge the success or failure of the intramural program not on the number of awards we will give out but rather the number of activities and participants.

INTRAMURAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Anyone interested in competing in Football, Intramurals and Fitness Sports are urged to stop by the Intramural Office (Rm D-14).
