Strike Averted; New Schedule In Suspension

by Brian Morris

A student strike, in protest of the Administration's handling of the new class schedule, was averted Monday afternoon, after a flurry of weekend negotiating between student leaders and President Linus Foy. Both Foy and the students agreed to the establishment of a mutually acceptable mediation board and to the suspension of the new schedule pending the outcome of the mediation effort.

The clamor began when the Administration, early in February, announced its decision to implement a new class schedule for next September. Several groups complained that the new schedule wouldn't be given adequate time in which to consider the schedule proposal. The proposed schedule itself, designed to increase part-time commuting enrollment, drew heavy criticism from numerous student groups.

The Student Academic Committee, the Commuter Union, and the Student Government were acting in these. Their main complaint was that class periods of 75 minutes were too long.

At a meeting last week, a gathering of members of various student organizations, and student colloquium, Academic Dean Richard Pieterse defended the schedule against student criticisms. In both instances, he maintained that the reversal of the decision was impossible because the registration process was already underway and couldn't be halted. He also expressed his regret that the way in which the decision had been implemented. The Thursday, student leaders, opposed to the schedule, and to the way it was implemented, wrote President Foy asking him to rescind the decision and to establish an ad hoc committee to decide whether the new schedule should be put into effect or not.

President Foy arranged a Friday meeting with the student leaders, offering to establish a mediation board whose decision would not be binding on the President and rejecting student demands that the schedule decision be rescinded.

After a meeting among themselves the students filed off a two page letter to President Foy threatening to strike if the decision was not rescinded and the matter re-submitted to the Marist faculty and student body. Monday, the students met again with President Foy to hear his reply. In a two page position paper he clarified what he meant by mediation, promising to be guided by the report of the ad hoc (mediation) committee. He again declined requests that the decision be rescinded or suspended, arguing that such a move would be interpreted as a sign of no confidence in the Dean of Academics and in his other administrators.

The students then met among themselves the President by the President's office. They found them again willing to offer a mediation board but they still wanted a suspension of the new schedule. When approached for a third time President Foy consented to a suspension claimed by the students to be necessary by the students to ensure that the mediation board not be pre-disposed to favor the Administration's stand. It was agreed that if Foy read the last letter from the student leaders, stating the student's desire to obtain Student Government President Jim Elliot that he could agree to both mediation and suspension. The mediation board will be comprised of one student, one faculty member, and one administrator that is chosen by the College Council and accepted by the Administration. The board, once ratified in this manner, will hear arguments before reporting to President.

Detection System Proposed

by Elizabeth Spire

Plans are being finalized to include a book Theft Detection System in the Library when it is reinstalled at Fontaine Hall next Fall. According to Library Director Perrelli, such an installation is necessary to offset the rise in book theft.

Perrelli stated that the Marist is reluctant to install the system but feels that it must do so. Librarians are not policemen. We are relying on the honesty of the students. It is unfortunate that we no longer can depend on that honesty.

Referring to a recently completed survey extending over a four-year period, the Director revealed a $50,000 loss to the Library due to book theft. He said: "We found 3,200 books missing from the shelves. The average cost of each book is $15; inexpensive books usually are not stolen. In addition to the value of the books, the labor involved in processing them must be considered." The survey also determined that the rate of theft increases each year and that most of the missing books were recently purchased.

In an effort to prevent book theft at the proposed library site, several companies have been contacted for estimates regarding the installation of such a system. Mr. Perrelli said: "Right now we are leaning towards one similar to that in operation at the New Paltz State College Library which has proven 85 percent effective. When someone is attempting to take a book without checking it out, the turnstile will lock and an alarm will signal the librarian." Mr. Perrelli estimated that it cost the library $1,000 to install the system at Marist depending upon the method of payment chosen.

The several methods of purchasing the turnstile included 1) paying the full cost of the installation, 2) payments extending over a four-year period, 3) leasing annually, or 4) leasing with the option of purchase after two years with 60 percent of the lease payments applied to the purchase price.

The alternative to installing the system is hiring of policemen to maintain security in the Library. However, Mr. Perrelli stated that this method of prevention and detection is less effective and that it is considered a "psychologically offensive" alternative. Futhermore, it is an expense incurred by hiring these men year after year which would exceed the purchase price of the Detection System. At least two men would be needed daily to cover the hours when the Library is open.

Hoping that the Detection System will be a deterrent to theft, Mr. Perrelli said he is looking forward to that time when current issues of Periodicals may be placed on the shelves in the Library. They must be kept at the main desk because "they were being stolen almost as soon as they were put on the shelf." It should also end the need to collect books from the dormitories at the end of the Spring semester. According to Mr. Perrelli: "Last June, nine book trucks were filled with books that were left behind by the students. Two of these contained books belonging to the Vannevar College Library and Adirondack Memorial Library, none of which had been legitimately borrowed." The Detection System should end such abuses, he said, and allow the Library to expand its research facilities.

Statement Issued

Memo from President Foy February 19, 1974
Re: Master Schedule for 1974-75 and Beyond

The Administration, representing several student groups, has proposed the enactment of a new master schedule for the 1974-75 academic year. The objections name two separate but related issues: the new master schedule for 1974-75; the procedures by which student input was inserted into the decision. As a result of conferences with the collective bargaining parties, I have offered to establish a mediation process.

The proposed mediation group will be an ad hoc committee of the President's College Council. It will be chosen by the Meeting Committee of the Council, and will consist of three members drawn from students, faculty and administrative staff.

I have asked this committee to work in this matter and to report to me before March 2, 1974. I have further asked that no further steps be taken to implement the new schedule before the report of the mediation committee has been received.
Elliott Interviewed Subject: Schedule

By Ray Berger

Jim Elliott, President of the Student Government, was interviewed this Monday, February 14th, about the controversy surrounding a new academic schedule announced by the administration. Elliott said that the new schedule, which takes effect next fall, was designed to improve the overall quality of education and to give students more flexibility. He also mentioned that there were mixed reactions among the students, with some students expressing concerns about the change.

Q: Do you think the new schedule will be beneficial to the college community?
A: I think so. The new schedule provides more options for students and will help them better balance their academic and personal lives.

Q: Have you heard any feedback from students regarding the new schedule?
A: Yes, I have. Some students are happy with the new schedule, while others are concerned about the workload and the time management.

Q: What changes are being made to the academic schedule?
A: The new schedule will have longer class periods and fewer classes per week. This will give students more time to work on their assignments and projects.

Q: Why were these changes made?
A: The changes are being made to improve the quality of education and to provide more options for students. The new schedule will allow students to focus on their areas of interest and to pursue their career goals.

Q: How will the new schedule affect students who are planning to graduate next year?
A: The new schedule will affect students who are planning to graduate next year, but it will not delay their graduation. The changes will be phased in over the next few years, so students will have time to adjust.

Q: Is there anything else you would like to add?
A: I would like to encourage students to give the new schedule a chance and to share their feedback with the administration.

Lourdes Participates in Bridge-Year Program

By Irene Ruan

The College of Lourdes announced today that it has signed an agreement with the Bridge-Year Program to welcome students from the program for the fall semester. The agreement was announced by President Joseph J. Rinehart and Dean of Students John Smith.

"We are delighted to have the opportunity to welcome Bridge-Year Program students," said President Rinehart. "This agreement will allow us to provide a rich educational experience for these students and to benefit from their diverse perspectives and experiences.

Bridge-Year Program students will have access to all of the resources available to Lourdes students, including classes, extracurricular activities, and residential life. The program was developed to provide students with the opportunity to continue their education after completing high school.

Students Campaign for CUB

By Kathy Manning

The Student Government is launching a campaign to improve the conditions of the College Union Building (CUB). The campaign, which is being led by President Mark Mahoney and Vice President Kelly McGovern, aims to address issues such as maintenance, security, and cleanliness.

"We want to ensure that the CUB is a welcoming and functional space for all students," said President Mahoney. "We are calling on the administration to address these issues and to make the CUB a more enjoyable place to be.

The campaign will include a series of workshops and events to educate students about the CUB's history and to engage them in discussions about the future of the building. The Student Government is also working with the administration to develop a plan for the long-term maintenance of the CUB.

Middle School Involves Extra-Classroom Learning

By Mary Bourne

Middle School students are engaged in extra-curricular activities, which provide them with opportunities to develop new skills and to explore their interests outside the classroom.

The Middle School offers a variety of clubs and activities that cater to different interests, such as music, sports, and academic clubs. These activities help students to develop their social skills, leadership qualities, and teamwork abilities.

In addition to extracurricular activities, the Middle School also offers opportunities for students to engage in community service. Through partnerships with local organizations, students are able to contribute to the community and to gain valuable experiences.

Students Participate in Internships

By Teresa Smith

In order to provide students with practical experience and to help them prepare for their future careers, the Middle School offers internships in various fields.

Internships are a valuable opportunity for students to gain hands-on experience, to learn about the workplace, and to network with professionals. They also provide students with opportunities to explore different industries and to determine their career interests.

Internships are available in fields such as business, engineering, finance, and healthcare. Interested students should contact their guidance counselor for more information.

Lourdes Participates in Bridge-Year Program

By Irene Ross

The "bridge" program has made it possible for thirty-two of our Lady of Lourdes High School students to study foreign language courses at Lourdes this fall. Thanks to Margaret Fleury, these students are now able to continue their foreign studies in high school during their senior year.

The students came on August 19th, when they began a three-week course in Japanese to familiarize them with the language. They will return to Lourdes on September 7th after completing their studies.

The program is sponsored by the University of Michigan, which will provide the foreign language courses. The program is open to all high school students, regardless of their level of proficiency in the language.

For more information, contact Margaret Fleury, the Foreign Language Department Chair at Lourdes High School.

Students Campaign in CUB

By Kathy Manning

As the campaigning for the CUB election begins, the candidates are vying for votes. One of the candidates is eager to bring together being a CUB officer and being active in the community.

Sheila McRoberts, a junior, is running on a platform of innovation and service for the CUB. She believes that the CUB can be more than just a financial institution; it can be a haven for students to express their ideas and talents.

McRoberts is promoting the idea of a "让消费者参与" (consumers participating) model, where the CUB would provide services and resources to students. She plans to work closely with the administration and other student organizations to ensure a seamless integration of the CUB into the student experience.

For more information, contact Sheila McRoberts, the CUB Campaign Chairman at Lourdes High School.

Middle School Involves Extra-Classroom Learning

By Mary Snider

Middle School students are involved in various extracurricular activities that provide opportunities to learn about the world outside the classroom. The activities are designed to engage students in hands-on learning experiences, develop teamwork skills, and promote social interaction.

Activities include students working on research projects, participating in music and art programs, and engaging in community service projects. These activities help students develop confidence, leadership, and communication skills while fostering a sense of responsibility and empathy.

For more information, contact Mary Snider, the Middle School Director at Lourdes High School.

New Blood?

On February 13, a letter was sent to the students (society's) who had completed their third year in the Major Program at Marist. The letter began by explaining that the position of the Dean of Students was no longer on the campus administration. The position was one of the prominent positions on the campus, and its removal might have an impact on the campus atmosphere.

The letter also noted that the Marist College CIRCLE is the weekly newspaper of the Marist College and encourages students to submit letters of 600 words or less to be considered for publication. The submission deadline for the next issue is February 26.

Environmental Design

Students need the Marist plan for balance, fees, books, transportation, and recreation. The CIRCLE plans to address any issues that may arise in the next issue of the newspaper.

The program includes a comprehensive curriculum that covers a wide range of topics, including language, culture, history, and economics. Students will have the opportunity to interact with local students and faculty, visit museums and historical sites, and participate in cultural events.

Plight Continues For Nobel Writer

By John Taylor Casey

It is a true story that as we look at the world today, Nobel-winning authors have been affected by social issues such as crime, poverty, and climate change. For example, Alexander Solzhenitsyn, one of the most prominent authors of the 20th century, was often criticized for his views on political issues. His works were banned in several countries, and he was forced to live in exile for many years.

However, despite the challenges faced by Nobel-winning authors, their messages continue to inspire and influence readers around the world. Their works serve as a reminder of the importance of free speech and the power of literature to bring about change.

Financing The Cost Of Higher Education

In the last two issues of the Circle there appeared editorial and an article on tuition payments which have been proposed to the State Legislature. The financial aid legislation of the state of Marit is the same as the federal legislation of the state of New York. This aid is known as the Federal Financial Assistance Gift (TAP) which is a federal program of the Office of Education. The TAP program provides grants to students on the basis of need. The TAP program was established in 1968.

A second point is the Federal Financial Assistance Program (TAP). This TAP is identical with TAP except that it is administered by the state. To be eligible for TAP the student must meet the same criteria as those for Federal aid. All students who meet the criteria for TAP will be placed in the category of need. This aid is similar in nature to the Federal TAP aid. It is planned to be available in 1968, and in 1970, when the plan will be fully implemented.

Structure In The Dorms

To the Editor:

I would like to report on some changes that have occurred in the dorms here at Marit. These changes have been made in an effort to improve the living conditions for the students. In the past, the dorms were not well maintained, and the students were not satisfied with the living conditions.

As a result of these changes, the dorms have been improved significantly. The furniture has been upgraded, and the rooms have been cleaned regularly. The students are now satisfied with the living conditions.

In conclusion, I would like to express my appreciation to the administration for their efforts in improving the living conditions for the students.

Sincerely yours,

Electoral Costs

Students here at Marit pay for tuition, fees, books, transportation, room and board, and other expenses. Many students also work in order to pay for their college costs. These expenses can be quite high, and some students may find it difficult to afford them.

One way to reduce the cost of attending college is to participate in campus elections. By running for student government positions or participating in other campus political activities, students can save money on the cost of living. In addition, students who are actively involved in the political process are more likely to be aware of their rights and responsibilities as citizens.

In conclusion, I would like to encourage all students to get involved in the political process by running for student government positions or participating in other political activities. By doing so, students can reduce the cost of attending college and become more aware of their rights and responsibilities as citizens.

Sincerely yours,

There's a bold statement I don't often make, but after attending the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Federation of Teachers Sunday, I feel it's time to get away from the liberal press. I'm a bit of a hermit, but when I do venture out, I generally find myself agreeing with the teachers. They are the conscience, the poets, and the artists of our society. I'm proud to be a member of the teachers' union, and I'll continue to speak out for the rights of all teachers.

A Marine Corps Officer Candidate Program's...
Foxes Continue
To Drop Games

The Varsity Red Foxes dropped two more games this week to Sacred Heart on Weds., losing 5-0 to Indian Valley. The cagers are currently in a disappointing slump being nine out of their last 10 games.

Without the services of forward center Barry Williams, the Red Foxes have been missing more than the 6'6" center. Without the height and with no consolation from junior center Rex Sneden, Frank Hoover, and Kevin O'Conner. The four were also members of Marist's first Dall Vail win. The other two wins in the year have been fought for by Dan Cloer, Jim Dickert, Mark McCarthy, George DiSfendino, and Robert Orinoldi.

The Freshmen team could be a winner with the kind of talent they have. Head Coach Austin has recruiting for the recruting job he's done. Marist probably has the least collection of Freshmen in a small college on the East Coast. Recruited from good high schools like Bonner, Father Magee, T.C. Williams, and Holy Spirit: six freshmen have national titles. Pat O'Hora, and Tony Wyncott are both members of the prestigious Vespeys men's basketball club in the United States; and have vacationed overseas with the Youth United States Team.

Coach by Marist graduate Jo McHugh, three freshmen are bringing a new tradition to Marist: crew: winning. Not that other Marist oarsmen are losers, they have been in the margins of the best in the East and they've been used to winning. The coaches also desire a lot of credit for the crew program at Marist.

The reason has been the success of the Bonner High School crew. The four crews have been fighting for the last eight years to win just one of the last eight.

The coaches today have a good chance of winning just once this year with some wins at the Vails.

There is a new addition to the Marist crew program this year. The new innovation is a new type of crew shell built by Schwab, a crafstman from Germany who lives in Connecticut and makes crew shells. This new boat is a reinforced fiberglass model which is lighter and more durable. Although very expensive, it is made of more expensive and in the long run, it is more worth the money. The boat is a one-piece shell of fiberglass and the seat and foot stretcher make the boat more comfortable, and the crew is able to work more efficiently. The Connecticut, repairs and service are faster and more convenient. This boat will be used mainly by the lightweight crew.

The second varsity loss was a 73-46 pounding by powerful state champion St. Mary's High School. The superior Siena team was held by the Marist boarders in the second half when they scored 14 points, leading by five. The second half, 39 to 22, was dominated by two balanced and determined Siena attack. The Red Foxes were held behind the scoreboard until the second half when they scored 2 points and the board became untied. Marist led Siena 20 in the second half and winning by 50 to 39. Jim Unkraut scored 15 points in double figures and the height man was Junior Al Fairhurst.

This weekend the Foxes travel to Long Island and Southampton on Friday and Saturday nights respectively.

Crew Makes Ready

The Spring '74 crew season is in high gear as the Marist oarsmen get ready for their tough schedules. It seems to be a promising year for the Marist crew, with an experienced and talented group of oarsmen - probably the best ever at Marist. This year's heavyweight crew looks like the strongest that Marist has fielded in the last few years. They have 13 experienced oarsmen fighting for seats in the first eight. There are six returners from last year's eight and the only senior is Bob Creedon a Monongahela Graduate with 4 years of experience. There are five Juniors returning from last year's eight and a good rowing crew. This year the rowing crew is in good shape and has a strong crew program.

There are only six rowers returning from last year's boat which finished 14th at the Vails in a field of excellent lightweight competition. The boat will have seniors Ken Gene, Barry Murphy, and covered the boards well. The Red Foxes all played their half only trailing by one point. The Red Foxes have been playing the game for the last two years. The balanced game being turned in every game. The coaches are hoping to try them in the making consistent with the next two years' second left position and a half second position of the ball. However, a law passed by the Foxes forced the Foxes dream.

High On Sports

BONNER

There is a high school in suburban Philadelphia that has built up a strong tradition in schoolboy rowing named Monongahela Bonner. Among its recent rowing graduates are Joe McHugh, a varsity crew coach, Mr. William Austin, Lightweight Coach is Bonner, and Coach John McHugh; all three deserve praise for their recruiting program and the quality oarsmen they have brought to Marist. It looks this year like they have a good chance of winning just once this year with some wins at the Vails.

There is a new addition to the Marist crew program this year. The new innovation is a new type of crew shell built by Schwab, a crafstman from Germany who lives in Connecticut and makes crew shells. Captains Named
For Crew Team

There are three crew captains named for this year. Bob Creedon, Frank Hoover and Dave Phillips.

Below: Dave Phillips
and Frank Hoover.

The heavyweight captain for Marist, Bob Creedon, a varsity crew coach at Monongahela High. Nicknamed "Bonner" he's a popular guy with his teammates. He managed as a Freshman, won 14th place at Bonner High School, and has a lot of experience; and in freshman year, he captained the freshman boat.

The two other captains, Frank Hoover and Dave Phillips, are both from the lightweight crew and are the Lightweight Boat: winning captain of the lightweight boat: winning captain of the Lightweight Boat: winning captain.

Queens College won nine of ten events, handing Marist and losing in the 11th event which was the lightweight shell.

Mike Hart of Marist is named to the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference weekly all-star.

Marist College's varsity basketball team used a full court press to gain a 10-17 halftime lead and coasted to a 85-65 win over Nyack. Later in the season, the Red Foxes put up a 14-1 record for the season, making Nyack 87-84, New Paltz 113-92 and Yeshiva 107-48.
