Faculty Colloquium Held
Action Year Discussed

By Irene Ross

Marist's University Year for Action program which would allow volunteers to work with the urban Poughkeepsie area, was discussed last Friday, March 8th in a faculty colloquium.

During the meeting, the question was raised as to what people would be involved since the U.V.A. would be working with the black community great needs, black people would be involved in all aspects. The U.V.A. would be working with various neighborhood organizations, and the program will recruit black and white students.

Also questioned was the idea of the student taking six credits each semester all the in the outside work. Some of the faculty could not understand why the student would have to take the courses in an independent study and not class. The answer to this was that the program has the utilization of a different work week. The student would be expected to work with the agencies full-time and the community full-time.

One thought was that the courses might be too much for the student to handle if he is working full-time. However, one person pointed out that many of the people registered in eight courses are working 40 hours a week and they are able to handle their courses easily.

There seemed to be some question as to the feasibility of the student. Some doubted the ability of the student to teach. It was stated that although the student would be able to teach such things as basic accounting techniques, he would not have the responsibility of teaching. The student would be expected to see that courses are arranged and taught.

The position of the position of the student of course might be too much for the student to handle if he is working full-time. However, one person pointed out that many of the people registered in eight courses are working 40 hours a week and they are able to handle their courses easily.

It was stated that the program depends upon the program will be brought to it.

Marist Gathers Support
For Costigan Tuition Program

In an effort to gather support for increased tuition assistance to New York State college students, Marist plans to mail 6,000 flyers carrying a letter from President Louis R. Poy and basic facts about the design and potential impact of Assemblyman Peter J. Costigan's Tuition Assistance Program (TAP).

The mailing will be addressed to the families of Marist alumni, parents of New York State students, faculty, administrators, college staff, graduate students, and all senior high school and transfer students who have applied to Marist for the current academic year.

The effort is being directed by Assistant Financial Aid Director Gerald Kelly. The mailing is scheduled to be sent out during the summer break. The letter from President Poy urges friends of Marist to write to Governor Malcolm Wilson and their state legislators to assure that the Costigan bill is necessary for private education, as well as for public advantage.

Three forms of tuition assistance legislation are currently under consideration - the legislation passed by the Assembly Committee on Higher Education; the Franklin D. Roosevelt-Stewart-Anderson Plan, jointly proposed by Senator Malcolm A. Anderson and Senator Joseph W. Seidman; and the legislation proposed by the Senate's Study Commission on Student Aid.

These bills are designed to help students meet the cost of college. The Franklin D. Roosevelt-Stewart-Anderson Plan would provide a maximum of $500, while the Costigan bill would provide a maximum of $1,000.

Accreditation
For Marist
Re-Affirmed

By Charles de Percebo

The Middle States Association voted to reaffirm the accreditation of Marist College for its special programs. The faculty of Marist College was highly commended by the Middle States Association for their work and responsibilities to the college.

The evaluation team also found that along with its growth and advances, Marist College has effectively accommodated itself to changing student lifestyle. The team also found that evaluating the general education program will help all faculty members from other institutions.

The evaluation team noted that the college has been successful in its development of the current mailing, Marist College has been a financial aid professional representing all aspects of private education in New York State since 1970 in order to evaluate tuition assistance concepts. The college's contributions were recognized by the State Legislature.

Invitations were sent to all the offices of Assemblyman Costigan, Senator Andrew and Senator Stafford.

A representative of the State Education Department was present to explain the different programs proposed by the college. The college's contributions were recognized by the State Legislature.

Badillo Addresses Marist

By Ronaldo Boyle

The New York City Police Department has been urging the students to be more cautious when walking on campus during emergency calls. They are being reminded that they are required to wear a face mask at all times. The result is that often "there is no contact," and if contact is made, it is often a head-on collision with no warnings.

Badillo also said that a new program is being implemented to prevent "hot spots," which are areas where the police are concentrated. They are being urged to avoid these areas and to use the police cars strategically.

Badillo also stressed the importance of keeping a positive attitude, especially during stressful situations. He added that it is important to keep calm and to communicate clearly with the police officers.

Education reform has been on the minds of many students recently. The State Board of Education has been discussing ways to improve the education system, and Badillo is one of the voices calling for change. He said that the current system is not working and that there is a need for a more comprehensive approach to education.

The marriage of the black and white police officer is a symbol of the diversity and unity of the Marist community. Badillo and his partner are living proof that race and ethnicity should not be barriers to love.

Grege Interview:

Richard Bickley

By Wayne T. Briggs

Dr. Richard Bickley is a renowned psychiatrist and author who has spent his career studying the effects of stress on the brain. In his latest book, he explores the role of stress in addiction and drug abuse.

"Stress is a leading cause of mental health problems," Dr. Bickley said. "And the brain is the primary target of stress. When we experience stress, the brain responds by releasing hormones that can alter our mood and behavior.

The stress response, he explains, is a normal part of life. It is a way for the brain to prepare us for action in the face of a threat. But when the stress response becomes chronic, it can lead to long-term physical and psychological health problems.

Dr. Bickley believes that the key to managing stress is to understand its impact on the brain and to develop strategies to prevent or reduce its effects.

Curriculum Challenge Offered Through ACMHHA

By Karen Tully

For those of you who are not familiar with the curriculum, it is a three-year program that focuses on providing students with the skills and knowledge they need to succeed in the field of human services.

The curriculum is divided into three main sections: the first year focuses on the basics of social work, the second year covers more specialized topics, and the third year is dedicated to internships.

The curriculum challenge is an opportunity for students to explore new areas of interest within the field of human services. It allows students to tailor their education to their individual goals and interests.

The challenge is open to all students who are enrolled in the program. It requires students to select a topic that they are passionate about and to develop a plan for exploring that topic in depth.

The volunteer drive is an important part of the curriculum challenge. It provides students with the opportunity to work with real clients and to apply the skills they have learned in a practical setting.

The volunteer drive requires students to complete a minimum of 100 hours of service over the course of the challenge. This can be done in a variety of settings, such as community centers, hospitals, and schools.

The volunteer drive is an important part of the curriculum challenge. It provides students with the opportunity to work with real clients and to apply the skills they have learned in a practical setting. The volunteer drive is a great way for students to gain experience and to build their resumes.

president foy's statement on the master schedule

By Luis Foy

The master schedule is a crucial component of the school's operation. It determines the availability of classrooms and other facilities, as well as the time and day that classes will be held.

The master schedule is created by the administration in consultation with the faculty and students. It is designed to accommodate the needs of all members of the school community.

The master schedule is reviewed and revised on a regular basis. It is important that the schedule is flexible enough to accommodate changes in the school's needs and that it is fair to all students.

The master schedule is a complex document that requires careful planning and attention to detail. It is important that the school's administration and faculty work together to ensure that the master schedule meets the needs of the school community.

The New York City Police Department is set to open a new police station in the area in the near future, which will be a major asset to the community. The new station is expected to serve the residents and visitors of the area more effectively.

The police department is also working on improving its relationship with the community. They are holding regular meetings with local residents to discuss issues and concerns.

Marist College

Marist College has announced that they will be offering a new program in the fall semester. The program will focus on cybersecurity and will be available to both undergraduate and graduate students.

The announcement was made by President John J. DeGioia, who said, "We are thrilled to offer this new program, which will prepare students for the growing field of cybersecurity." The program will include courses in network security, cryptography, and ethical hacking.

Applications Taken

By Debby Nykidi

Applications and qualifications are now being set for the upcoming Marist College admissions. The college administration is hoping to have a successful year by increasing the number of qualified applicants.

Dean LaPavone is looking forward to meeting the incoming class of students. He said, "We are excited to welcome a new class of students who will bring new ideas and perspectives to our campus." The college is also hoping to increase its diversity by recruiting students from different backgrounds.

Organization Begins For Fund Drive

By Mike Horrigan

Marist College has decided to launch a fundraising campaign to support their athletic teams. The campaign, which is called "Marist Athletics: Powering the Future," aims to raise $2 million by the end of the fiscal year.

The funds will be used to improve the facilities, upgrade equipment, and support scholarships for student-athletes. The college administration believes that this campaign is crucial to the future success of the athletic programs.

Volunteers Aid “Learning Disabled”

By Joanna McGaffa

The Learning Disabled Society of Marist College has announced that they will be holding a volunteer recruitment event on campus next month. The event will be held on Friday, March 22, at 7 PM in the Student Center.

The society is looking for volunteers to assist with various tasks, including tutoring, mentoring, and providing support to students who are learning disabled.

President Foy’s Statement on The Master Schedule

By Brandon Hoy

The University of Marist has announced a new policy regarding the master schedule for the upcoming academic year. The policy, which was developed in response to student feedback, will be implemented starting in the fall semester.

The new policy will allow students to select their own courses in the spring semester, instead of having them assigned by the university. The university also plans to increase the number of course options available to students.

The policy has been met with mixed reactions from students, with some expressing excitement and others expressing concern about the potential for increased workload.

Curriculum Challenge Offered Through ACMHA

By Karen Tully

For those of you who are looking to improve your understanding of basic mathematics, Marist College is offering a challenging curriculum challenge through the ACMHA program. The program is open to all students and will begin this fall semester.

The curriculum challenge consists of three sections: number theory, algebra, and basic calculus. Students will be required to complete all three sections in order to receive credit.

The challenge is designed to provide a rigorous and challenging experience for students who are looking to improve their understanding of basic mathematics.

Registration of the school with which they wish to cross register, along with the completion of the ACMHA form, will initiate the process. The school will be notified of the student’s cross registration status and will be required to provide documentation of the cross registration to the ACMHA. The documentation must be submitted to the school’s registrar by a specific date.

A cross registration does not give rise to a course before a Marist student is actually enrolled in the course at the other school. Therefore a student who has been cross registered at another school will not be able to cross register for a course at Marist. The student will have to register for the course at Marist. The student will also be required to inform the school of their cross registration status in order to receive credit for the course.

One problem with the ACMHA program is that it is not widely known. Many people come to Marist College and do not know that the program exists. Therefore, the school needs to make an effort to promote the program more effectively.

In conclusion, the curriculum challenge offered through the ACMHA program at Marist College is a valuable opportunity for students who are looking to improve their understanding of basic mathematics. The challenge is designed to provide a rigorous and challenging experience for students.

Letters To The Editors

Mrs. Evelyn Wright (1939-1974)

Our beloved student, Evelyn Wright, was a young black woman—in her mid-20s. She attended our school, and her death was a great loss to the community. She was a beloved member of our school community, and her passing was marked by a great deal of sadness and grief.

She was starting college, and her potential was limitless. She was a bright, beautiful, and kind student. She was always looking to learn and grow. She was a leader in our school, and her presence will be greatly missed. She is survived by her family and friends, who will remember her forever.

The Marist College (CIRCLE) is the weekly newspaper of the students of Marist College and is published throughout the school year. Our primary audience is the school community, the students, faculty, and staff.

President Foy Gives Support To Tuition Assistance Program

Dear President Foy:

Our State Legislature is working on a new Tuition Assistance Program (TAP) which is of crucial importance to many of our students and their families. The program is designed to provide financial assistance to students in need, particularly those who are attending Marist College. We hope to make this program a reality.

We are writing to express our support for the TAP program and to urge you to take action to ensure that it is implemented as soon as possible. The TAP program will provide much-needed financial assistance to students who may otherwise be unable to attend college. It will help to ensure that all students have the opportunity to pursue their education and achieve their goals.

We urge you to support the TAP program and to work with us to ensure that it is implemented in a timely and effective manner.

Sincerely,

Theatrical Guild Forms Repertory Group

By Elizabeth Spire

For the first time in its fifteen-year history, the Theatrical Guild has started a new repertory group where members will be responsible for producing their own plays for presentation.

The group is being organized under the guidance of several non-profit theatre groups in the area. The group's first production is scheduled for next month.

We have been completely amazed at the responses we have received to date. The group's first production is slated for next month.

Supports Strike

Commuter Strike

To the Editors:

This letter is to express our support for the commuter strike that is underway at Marist College. We believe that the strike is necessary to ensure fair treatment for commuters, who have been consistently overlooked by the administration.

We support the Commuter Strike and urge the administration to address the concerns of commuters.

Fire "Drills"

Nearly every student has sat at one time or another and wondered the timing, but necessary, process known as "fire drill." These drills are necessary for the safety of all students and are designed to simulate an emergency situation.

However, there are some concerns about the timing of the drills. Some students have expressed concern about the frequency and duration of the drills, and the impact on their studies.

Once again the lead of the student body will come to life as the Children's Theatre presents "The Beelzebub." Directed by Beni Foy, "The Beelzebub" is one of the most popular plays of the 19th century. The show is scheduled for next month.

This relative unknown fairy tale has a Broadway run, but it is not as well known as "The Beelzebub" is. The show is presented by the Children's Theatre and is scheduled for next month.

Marist Recruits in The Community

Marist is attempting to increase its presence in the community by recruiting new students. The college has a new recruitment campaign that is focused on attracting students from the area.

The campaign is being run by the Office of Admissions, which is responsible for promoting Marist to the community. The campaign is being run through various media, including social media, radio, and television.

Marist offers a wide range of programs and degrees, and it is seeking to attract students from the local area.

President Foy gives support to tuition assistance program

Dear Friends of Merion:

Our State Legislators in Harrisburg have worked hard to support legislation or students who attend college in Harrisburg. This support is crucial to the success of our students. With the economy struggling, more and more students are finding it difficult to pay for college. The support of our legislators is essential in helping to ensure that our students can continue their education.

Sincerely,

President Foy

Editorials

Strengthening Hits Marist

The Marist College community is facing a significant challenge as it seeks to strengthen its financial stability. The College has been grappling with declining enrollment and increased operating costs, making it imperative to find ways to increase revenue and cut expenses. One proposal under consideration is the implementation of a tuition assistance program. This program would provide financial support to students who demonstrate financial need.

Supports Strike

Commuter Union

To the Editors:

We are writing to express our support for the Commuter Union in their recent strike. The Commuter Union has been fighting for better conditions and rights for commuters, and we believe that their efforts are necessary and just.

Students Strike

New Schedule

To the Editors:

We support the students' strike to demand better conditions and a new schedule. The current schedule is not only unfair to the students, but it also impacts the overall educational experience.

Foy and Decision

Making

To the Editors:

President Foy and the student administration have made significant decisions that are in the best interest of our community. We support these decisions and hope that they will lead to a more inclusive and vibrant campus.

Correction

The article "Supports Strike" incorrectly stated that the Commuter Union was striking against the administration. The Commuter Union's demands are related to better working conditions for commuters, not the administration.

My last two articles, dealing with the problem of lying in the press, were read with great interest. I want to thank you for the many letters and phone calls I received in response. I was happy to hear that people feel the same way I do about the issue of lying and that they are concerned about the misleading of the public. However, I was also surprised to hear that some people think that lying is a necessary evil. I think this is a dangerous position to take, and I hope that we can find a way to stop it.

One of the most common reasons for lying is that people want to protect their own interests. They believe that if they tell the truth, it will hurt them in some way. This is a very selfish attitude, and I think it is wrong. Lying is a way to avoid responsibility for your own actions, and it is not a way to build a strong society.

Another reason for lying is that people want to control the situation. They believe that if they tell the truth, they will be left out of the decision-making process. This is a dangerous attitude, and it can lead to a breakdown of trust in the community.

I believe that honesty is the best policy. It is not always easy to be honest, but it is always the right choice. I hope that we can all work together to create a society where honesty is valued and where people are not afraid to speak the truth.

Senior Campaigns For Offence

by Bittis Merrin

The President infrastructure would come as no surprise to the office of the governor. In fact, it is the Governor's office that has been the target of much criticism in recent years. The Governor's office has been accused of mismanagement, lack of transparency, and corruption.

"Moreover, the Governor's office has been criticized for its handling of the state budget. The Governor has been accused of overspending on unnecessary items and failing to address the state's debt crisis. These issues have led to a lack of trust in the Governor's office and have damaged the Governor's reputation.

In conclusion, the Governor's office has a lot of work to do in order to regain the trust of the people. The Governor must take steps to address the issues that have been raised and work to improve the state's economy. Only then can the Governor's office regain the trust of the people and move forward.

The most recent Washington Post articles on American military action in the Middle East were seen as a blow to the President's efforts to improve American foreign policy. The articles highlighted the President's reluctance to commit the United States to a military intervention in Iraq.

"The President's reluctance to commit the United States to a military intervention in Iraq is not surprising. The President is mindful of the potential代价 of military action and is concerned about the political and economic consequences of such an action. He is also mindful of the potential opposition from Congress and the American public."

However, the President's reluctance to commit the United States to a military intervention in Iraq is not without its critics. Some have argued that the President is not doing enough to address the threat posed by Iraq and that he is allowing the situation to spiral out of control.

"The President has been accused of doing too little to address the threat posed by Iraq. Some have argued that the President should have taken more action earlier in order to prevent the current situation from escalating. In the world of politics, it is common for candidates to run personal ads in order to boost their image. These ads are often expensive and can be controversial, as they try to persuade voters on a candidate's character and qualifications. Some candidates may use these ads to highlight their accomplishments, while others may focus on their philanthropic efforts. Whatever the case, these ads can be a significant factor in determining the outcome of an election. It is important for voters to carefully consider these ads and make informed decisions.

Lacrosse Becomes Varsity

by Bill Capozella

With the ever-changing athletic program at Marriott, the Lacrosse team has the chance to compete at the varsity level for the first time this year. The team has existed as a club sport for the past two years. The reason for the change to varsity status this year was, according to Athletic Director Dr. Howard Goldman, "the strong support by the players who had originally initiated the sport at Marriott and that much of the equipment had already been purchased by the school."

Last season, the team under Head Coach Jeff Behnke and Assistant Coach Ray Friar, posed a 3-4 record. Behnke's first year as varsity coach at Marriott is the culmination of several years of personal sacrifices, when he served in an unpaid capacity. This year, the team will play a nine game schedule. The first game contest will be held on Wednesday, April 3, at 3:30 against McMorris State on the lower field.

According to Coach Behnke's, this year's team is the best Marriott has fielded and should prove to be competitive in its tough schedule. Lacrosse is one of the fastest games played on two feet. The game consists of ten players on each team. The three attacks are the major offensive players responsible for scoring. The team is being built under senior tri-captain Bill Fagan, who starred at Penn State Prep, and seniors Jack Fagan and Jeff Mullin. There are five midfielders who travel the length of the field playing both offense and defense. Each team has several midfield lines which alternate playing time on the field due to the large extent of field area they must cover. Starting at these positions will be senior Jim Donnelly, Doug Hample and Steve Ryan. Tri-captain Matty Rogers, Dennis Pellicano and Jim Cassara play the defensive positions. Tending the net for the Marriott team are Dave Fox and the Tri-captain John Markling, which completes the tentative starting lineup.

One of the bright freshman prospects for Marriott Lacrosse is Jim McCue, who is one of the better stickhandlers on the team. Other experienced returning are Mike Secone, Pete Vazanore, and Mike Gentile, who will add depth to the squad.

Lacrosse offers something for every spectator. It has high scoring, constant high action and lots of body contact. The 1974 Red Foxes are looking for a strong year to support Marriott's new varsity sport.

Mr. Binckley may therefore, experienced with different approaches to grading and in one experiment many students received grades ranging from B to D, until the criticism from Dr. Kirk and Dean La Penna.

On the basis of what's been written here, Mr. Binckley believes that the progressive change at Marriott has "outlived itself," he pointed out that "once Mr. Moore moved to full course converting, Marriott will have no black board test. This year there is a lack of feminist women instructors at Marriott. Binckley feels that Marriott is not facing up to its responsibilities dealing with the "black board," of racism and male oppression."

Whatever the final outcome, Mr. Binckley feels that the importance of the Bicklum project for Vannar, would cause a problem for a student at Marriott. ACMAA, which was originally through the Associated College of Mid-

Their goal is to allow area students to get the most out of their college education. Jeanine Rodels, a counselor at the Mid-Hudson office, commented that many of the programs sponsored by ACMAA are designed to help students overcome. College presidents meet every two months to discuss what advances could be made in new directions and also to arrange inter-collegiate programs of interests, in an effort to try to move toward a cooperative college calendar.

Of the 190 students who are interested in participating in a board test, Vassar while Marriott comes in second place with about 50 students. Jeanine saw the possibility of higher categories in Vasser while a Marriott team could be established, something that the Marriott Administration is considering.

ODDS AND ENDS

By the time you are reading this, the first intercollegiate competition for women will have been completed, I am naturally referring to the basketball game between the St. Lawrence Remedies. Regardless of the score, Marriott is still coming out of the game a winner. To the Marriott athletic director, this is just the start of a full schedule of women's intercollegiate athletics. To Lorraine Conklin, the coach and organizer of the team, this represents just the start of a full schedule of women's intercollegiate athletics. Jean Campese, Marriott's resident gulf pro, reminded me that anyone interested in competing in the gulf competition should come to an organizational meeting today, Thursday, March 14, during the Free Period in Room 223.

Well after a long winter nap, the docks are in the water and that means only one thing, the start of the old shell game. Unless you haven't already guessed, I'm talking about Marriott's oldest sport, crew. This season will start off with an extra added attraction for the regulars, the new school year and in that is the appearance of Columbia and Syracuse on the Hudson for the first time since 1967. The varsity and novice crews will be rowing against each other at the main college schools while the lightweight will face a pair of tough customers in Rhode Island and King's Point. Coaches Austin, Leshan, and McHugh, have reserved comment until after the double workout sessions next week.

INTRAMURAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Anyone interested in competing in the Intramural Badminton Tournament should sign up in the Intramural Office by Thursday, March 7 for signing up will be Thursday, March 14. The tournament will last approximately two weeks.

Monday: (March 25) Men's Singles; Wednesday: (March 27) Women's Singles Mixed Doubles.

Congratulations are in order for Ed Kosinski and Norman Reins for capturing individual titles last week. Kosinski won the free throw contest while Reins captured the singles title.

WILGER NAMED MARIST ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Tony Wilger, a sophomore, who was honored as Athlete of the Week last week, has been named Marriott Athlete of the Week for the week ending March 8th. Wilger, a member of the Swimming and Diving team, made the school record in the mile walk during the Collegiate Track Conference Championships at Queens College. Wilger finished third in the race and was the only member of the team to even make the walk. This is the second time this year that Wilger has received this award.
