Series Discusses Marist Survival

by Julie Schott

"Will Marist Survive?" was the topic discussed Monday night by students, faculty and administrators in the first of this semester's Free University Dialogue Series.

Principles speakers at the gathering included President Linus Foy, Frederick Lambert, director of campus life and Richard McCarty, assistant professor of English and Dean Thomas Wade. Other faculty and staff members who attended the dialogue were Xavier Ryan, Janet Schlotterer and Father Leo Gullant.

The discussion began with Mr. McCarty stating emphatically that there will be a Marist College in 1980. He explained that last year the school was a victim of change, and it became a question of who would make sacrifices in the face of three changes. McCarty said that the real concern today was with the state of the future Marist, and his hopes are that it won't become a "no too college," meaning an institution offering basically the same opportunities as other institutions and using the same teaching methods as most other schools.

Dean Wade also assuredly stated that Marist will continue to exist, because "there is no problem in getting students to Marist. In fact, Marist has been one of the leaders in aggressive recruiting."

Another point that was brought out, was that Marist's geographic location was very good, that there is a growing area and that the seven colleges in the area are distinctly different from one another.

There was mention of Marist possibly becoming a law school in the future, which would be ideal for the location, being that there are no law schools between New York and Albany. There was also the mention of expanding the psychology department.

Fred Lambert led the dialogue in the direction of other attributes of the college. Some that were mentioned were successful recruitment, the amount of financial aid available, talent of the faculty. Dean Wade brought out the fact that there aren't many schools that have a Ph.D.'s teaching freshmen courses, talent and creativity of the students, and the dynamic interactions of off-campus internships, prepare them for future careers.

Despite Financial Strain
Foy Quite "Optimistic"

(REPRINTED BY PERMISSION OF POUGHKEEPSIE JOURNAL)

"The economic situation is forcing us into a period of consolidation. At the same time, it is prompting us to develop innovative programming. New ideas create new enthusiasm. So despite the current financial strain on us as a private institution, we are quite optimistic about the future."

This is how Dr. Linus H. Foy, president of Marist College, summarizes his institution's outlook for 1975.

The new year is bringing a new thrust to education at Marist. Under the direction of Dr. Stephen M. Panko, the college's first director of continuing education, Marist is offering additional programs, courses and seminars, which are creating several new opportunities. In addition to revitalizing its past-time evening program, this spring Marist is offering a television correspondence course entitled "The Ascent of Man."

Described for area residents who would like to earn college credit but cannot attend on-campus classes, the course centers on a 13-week series broadcast on Channel 13 (Public Broadcasting Service). Narrated by Dr. Jacob Bronowski, the course deals with two million years of man's existence as illustrated through his scientific achievements.

Marist is also inaugurating extension centers in Peekskill, Middletown and Kingston. Both graduate and undergraduate courses will be available to residents in these areas.

This semester Marist will also initiate a weekend college. A new concept in education, the weekend college enables adult who cannot attend classes during the week to complete requirements by attending all-day classes on Saturday or Sunday for six weeks.

"The Little People's Growing Place," a new concept in on-campus day care for pre-school children of continuing education students and Marist employees, will open in the spring semester. Unlike a babysitting service, the Growing Place will stress imagination, creativity and innovation in the fields of theater, arts and crafts, science, reading and athletics.

While innovation is the order of the day in 1975, Marist's adoption of new educational programming did not occur overnight. Curriculum changes in the past few years indicate the college's awareness of the needs of a changing student population.

In 1971, Marist introduced graduate programs in business administration and community psychology. In the fall of 1974, enrollment showed a 15 percent increase. While full-time study is encouraged, these programs have been designed primarily for professionals who want to pursue a degree on a part-time basis.

In 1972, Marist and Our Lady of Lourdes High School embarked on a "bridge year" program which enables high school seniors to complete a freshman college year while still remaining members of their graduating class. The program continues with Lourdes and now encompasses Spackenkill High School. Other area schools have expressed interest in participating next fall.

A special three-year degree program with an emphasis on inter-disciplinary studies is offered to high school graduates capable of accelerated college study. Students are individually tutored by faculty, as well as other students, and advance to the program.

Examples of new undergraduate programs are offered in the areas of mathematics, paralegal studies, general education and applied solid state physics.

Ongoing undergraduate programs offer students an opportunity to earn credits for community experiences that can be

CIRCLE Announces
Editorial Change

The present editorial staff of the CIRCLE has today announced the return of one of its editors and named Miss Irene Ross to succeed Lynne Osborne as Co-Editor.

Gregory Concolichio has returned to fill his position as Co-Editor of the CIRCLE weekly after having spent the fall semester studying abroad. A former reporter, Miss Concolichio was first named Co-Editor in February of last year.

Irene Ross, a junior communications major, is also a former reporter for the CIRCLE. During Gargiulo's absence, Miss Ross was named to the position of Assistant Editor, a title which gave her ample opportunity to learn the duties of a co-editor and prepared her for the eventual stepping into the position.

Both Ms. Ross and Mr. Concolichio have worked together in the past and their combined work should make for a smooth editorial transition.

Not only have the two top positions undergone change, also named today were Sports Editor Nick Barker and Features Editor Jerry Miller.

House Defends Arbitration Policy
by Susan Dunderdale

As a result of a fine levied on Champagne House resident, Ted Walsh, the Senate has voted against the Senate proposal to eliminate the Arbitration Board, which was recently upheld by the Senate. According to Paul Van Dusen, chairman of the Board, the vote was based on the grounds that the Board is necessary for the smooth operation of the Senate. The Board's role was primarily to settle disputes between residents and the Senate.

The vote was 7-3, with 1 vote abstaining. The Board is currently composed of six members, with three appointed by the Senate and three by the Residents' Association. The Board's responsibilities include hearing complaints, rendering decisions, and recommending sanctions to the Senate.

For years, the Board has been under fire for its perceived bias and lack of transparency. Some residents have called for its abolition, arguing that it is too expensive and too slow to handle disputes.

Seniors Plan Final Week
by Rhoda Crayell

The House senior Class of 1975 is planning a series of activities to celebrate the end of the school year. The class has decided to focus on community service and education.

The class will organize a day of community service, where students will volunteer at local charities and organizations. They will also hold a fundraiser to support the school's endowment fund.

The class is also working on a project to create a yearbook that will document the class's history and achievements.

Poverty Meal Speaker Named
by Cuttle Rame

A poverty meal will be held at Mill Inc. on Tuesday night, April 22, to benefit the Vermont Head Start program. The meal will feature a guest speaker who will discuss the challenges of poverty and the importance of community involvement.

The event is open to all, and information about the program and how to attend will be provided.

Committee To Open Communications
by Genevieve Fitzgerald

A student Government committee has been formed to open the lines of communication between the Senate and the Residents' Association. The committee will be responsible for holding regular meetings and for reporting on the progress of its work.

The committee currently consists of four members, with two from each side. The purpose of the committee is to improve communication and to address any issues or concerns that may arise.

For more information, please contact the Senate's liaison or the Residents' Association representative.
House Defends Arbitration Policy

by Susan Insiders

As a result of a fine levied on Charleston House resident, Ted Palomares, the University Senior House Council policy concerning the Board of Governors has been changed. The fine was based on the grounds that the financial arrangements required by the new policy were not being followed.

The fine, which was levied on Palomares, was based on the grounds that the financial arrangements required by the new policy were not being followed. The fine was levied on Palomares, who had previously been warned about the policy.

The fine is to be used to cover the costs of the new policy, which was designed to prevent future violations.

In conclusion, we believe that the new policy is necessary to maintain order on campus and that Palomares should comply.

Committee To Open Communications

by Genevieve Fitzgerald

A Student Government committee has been formed to open the lines of communication between the Student Government and the University. The committee is expected to meet on a regular basis to discuss issues of common concern.

Any student or faculty member is welcome to attend the meetings. The meetings will be held in the Student Center, Room 103.

Students who are interested in participating in the committee are encouraged to contact the Student Government office at 555-1234.

Budget

by William Jones

The Student Government has announced plans for the upcoming academic year. The budget includes funding for new programs and events, as well as continued funding for existing programs.

The budget is available for review at the Student Government office. Students are encouraged to provide feedback on the budget.

Poverty Meal Speaker Named

by Cathy Russo

A poverty meal will be held at College Hall on February 25th at 6:00 p.m. "Rustic Eden," a film by "Rustic Eden," will be screened in the film series. All proceeds will go to the United Way.

The event is open to all students, faculty, and staff. A meal will be served after the film.

The film "Rustic Eden" follows the lives of two children in a rural area of the United States. The film highlights the challenges faced by these children and the importance of providing a quality education for all.

Snyder Heads Renamed Placement Office

By John Dallmann

Just a few weeks from Paris, so I'd like to share with you all a few of my experiences of the city with the Marist community. Paris, to me, is so many things, a city that's lived in a thousand years. Although I'm only a few weeks away, Paris is an experience that I will never forget. The culture, art, and architecture are all woven into the fabric of the city, making it one of the most beautiful and fascinating places in the world.

Snyder Heads Renamed Placement Office

By John Dallman

Just a few weeks from Paris, I wonder if I'll share a few of my feelings about the city with the Marist Community. Paris is so many ways a unique city. While I live there, I haven't been able to take advantage of all that Paris has to offer, including French culture and cuisine. In fact, I have only been able to sample a few of the city's offerings so far. But, I definitely plan to explore more when I return. I feel that the French people are very welcoming and friendly, and I'm looking forward to meeting new people and experiencing more of the city. I also think that the architecture and design of Paris are truly impressive, and I will try to appreciate them more when I return. Overall, I am excited to experience more of Paris and all that it has to offer, and I look forward to sharing my thoughts and feelings about the city with the Marist Community.

Thank You

Now that The CIRCLE has published this issue, I would like to express my gratitude to all those who contributed to its creation. Each person played a vital role in making this issue a success, and I am grateful for their hard work and dedication. I would like to thank our writers, editors, designers, and photographers for their efforts in bringing this issue to life. I would also like to thank our sponsors, who provided financial support for this issue, and our advertisers, who helped to fund the production of The CIRCLE. Finally, I would like to thank all of our readers for their continued support and interest in The CIRCLE.

Letters To The Editors

Dear Editor,

I am writing to express my concerns about the recent decision to change the name of the Marist Placement Office. While I understand the need for change, I feel that the new name, “Snyder Heads Renamed Placement Office,” does not accurately reflect the services offered by the office. The Marist Placement Office has a long history of providing valuable resources and opportunities to our students, and I believe that the new name fails to recognize the hard work and dedication of the staff. I urge the administration to consider revising the name to better reflect the services offered by the office.

Sincerely,

Counseling Column

Among the new services being offered to the college community this semester is a counseling service. The counseling center, located in the campus center, is designed to provide a safe and supportive environment for students to explore their concerns and develop strategies for coping with stress and other challenges. The counselors are trained in a variety of counseling techniques and are available to meet with students on a weekly basis.

Counseling Answers Students’ Questions
by Julie Schott

Beginning next week, the office of the counseling center will hold daily workshops in the counseling center. These workshops will cover various topics, including stress management, time management, and career development. They will be held at 10 a.m. daily in the counseling center's main office.

The counseling center is located in the basement of the Student Life Center, and all students are welcome to attend. The center is open from Monday to Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Important Announcements

Students are reminded of the Spring Break Grading Schedule. All courses that are not completed by the end of the Spring Break period will receive a grade of "I" (Incomplete). Any coursework not completed by the end of the Spring Break period will receive a grade of "W" (Withdrawn).

On Thursday, February 18, the College will hold a series of open forums to discuss the College’s future. The forums will be held in the Great Hall at 7 p.m. All students are encouraged to attend.

Get Them While You Can

In response to student demands, the College has added several new courses to the Spring Break schedule. These courses include:

- "Introduction to Environmental Science"
- "Introduction to Computer Programming"
- "Introduction to Psychology"
- "Introduction to Art History"

These courses are limited to 20 students each, so it is important to register early.

Student Academic Committee Announces Plans

By Peter Allen

The Student Academic Committee has announced plans for the upcoming academic year. The committee plans to address several issues, including the need for more faculty members, the need for improved student resources, and the need for better communication between the administration and the student body.

The committee has also recommended that the College implement a new system for awarding academic honors. This system would be based on a point system, with students earning points for academic achievement.

Management Assumed

Over the vacation, the Campus Graduate Council assumed responsibility for the College's finances. The Council has received a number of requests for funds, and it will be up to the Council to decide which requests will be approved.

The Council will hold its first meeting on February 23. All students are welcome to attend.

Beginning Soon: Weekend College

The weekend college will begin at the start of March. This program is designed for students who want to take courses during the weekend. The courses will be held in the College's conference center.

The weekend college will offer courses in a variety of subjects, including business, education, and humanities.

Counseling Answers Students’ Questions

by Julie Schott

Sitting next week, the office of the Guidance Division will be open to the daily clientele. The guidance counselors will answer any questions and concerns that students may have regarding their personal and academic life. The counselors will be available to help students with their course selection, career planning, and other issues. The guidance counselors can also provide referrals to other resources on campus.

Important Announcements

Students are needed for the spring production of George and the Dragon. Auditions will be held on April 1st. All interested students should contact the Drama Department for more information.

Student Academic Committee Announces Plans

by Peter Allen

Student Academic Committee Chairman Chris Slavin has announced that the committee will be putting forth a new policy for the awards and grants for the spring semester. The policy will focus on making the awards and grants more accessible to students with varied academic backgrounds. The committee is also considering implementing a new system for evaluating the quality of the applicants.

Management Assumed

Over the vacation, the Campus Counseling Center has undergone a change in management. The previous director, Dr. Jane Taylor, has been replaced by Dr. John Smith. Smith has extensive experience in the field of counseling and has been working with students for over 20 years. He is expected to bring new energy and direction to the center.

Cagers Shot Down In Monday's Sienna Contest

By Thomas McTerra

After winning three straight games last week while showing signs of the sharpness and shooting ability that enabled them to win nine of their first eleven games, the Marist cagers were shot down in Sioux City Friday night following a valiant comeback from a 17-point deficit early in the game.

Due to poor shooting, which was followed up by the Indians' fast break offense leading to layups or Marist fouls, the Red Foxes found themselves trailing 35-38 midway through the first half. Following a timeout, Joe Cirasulla led the Fox rally with his only point while the home team was denied the fast break by keeping guard Eric DePerrin and it cut it to seven before Holmes put it out of reach with four straight baskets with nine minutes left. Holmes finished with 34 points and scored 15 of his 26 points on free throws. Ray Murphy also got hot down the stretch and scored 10 points on 4-for-4 shooting.

With Fairhurst providing rebounding and defense, the Foxes won the inside game from all angles, the Red Foxes held SIU-C to 38 points and hit 37 of 68 shooting (54.5%).

But the visitors fought back and with 3:43 left in the game, Holmes put the Foxes ahead 69-62, but back-to-back 3-pointers by Mike Hart in the final minute of the half Marist had cut the lead to 69-67.

At Fairhurst kept the offense moving at the start of the second half and his driving layup brought the visitors within 15 points left. But Holmes, ranked sixth in the city, and his division teams, rediscovered their fast break and, with the help of two critical offensive foul calls against Hart and Cirasulla, opened up a five-point lead at 76-71.

Earl Holmes, plagued by foul trouble throughout, finally was forced to the bench with 8:17 left after scoring only 6 points, way below his 19.6 average. The Indians took full advantage, feeding sophomore center Gary Stoll for eight of his game-high 27 points during a 13-5 stretch that boosted Gani to an 83-71 margin which they maintained over the final five minutes.

Cirasulla, who played a strong game both ways, scored 24 points and had 16 rebounds in the losing cause.

Late and fast the Foxes beat New Palts (79-60), Bloomfield (89-61) and Concordia (96-60) at Del-chas QC with Earl Holmes scoring 28 points and grabbing 47 rebounds to earn his second consecutive EAC All-Star Division for team III. Holmes' 11.7 average.

Freshman guards Paul Kana and Gary Hart were both on the bench early in the game to get the Foxes moving against New Palts. They combined for 10 points as Holmes led the Foxes in a 76-37 halftime edge.

Who ever heard of winter soccer? For most people, soccer is a game played in warm climates on a warm sunny afternoon that provides close viewing of the action. Such was not the case, however, for the 720 people who braved cold temperatures Sunday to attend the Fourth Hudson Valley Indoor Soccer Tournament at Delchess CC.

They were treated to a new look at the checking, the passing, the shooting and the superb positioning that makes the game into what it is outdoors. Because the playing area is much smaller and the games consist of only one fifteen-minute period, indoor soccer is quicker and tightly-played, providing for continuous action and excitement that are sometimes lacking in the outdoor variety.

When the double-elimination tournament was completed, Germania B emerged victorious by blanking the host team 1-0 in the finals. Marist, coming off its best outdoor season ever, had the misfortune of placing the Germania B team twice and lost both times, handing the D-1 title over Kingston on corner kicks. Germania A scored twice on Red Fox goalie Jay Metger while its teammates were unable to get anything started and were taking shots that would have out of bounds even outdoors, sailing way over the net or high into the stands. At Holston got the Foxes on the board with 3:11 left when he took a bloop pass from Tom McDonald and beat a wandering Germania goalie. The victors got it out of reach, however, when they headed one shot Metger with 1:30 left. Vito Aprigliano scored two goals just missed on several others as he led Marist to the decision over Kingston. The score was 2-1, but Marist led 3-1 in the first quarter. Aprigliano converted a centering pass from right wing John McDonald fifty yards into the net. Germania scored the game's second goal with 2:09 left in the second coming when Tim Trotta lost the ball in front of the Germania net. Marist, led by John Kingston 1-1 overall.

The three matches against Germania B, Aprigliano was hurt in the fourth minute and sat out the remainder of the game. The victors held a 2-1 lead until John Kingston scored off a steal with 3:32 left. But the Foxes were doubled up and the home team had all the rest of the way and were eliminated from the tournament.

Marist will play in one more tournament at Delchess later this month before entering the IFPA March in March.

In 1973, for the first time, a home team football team, Long a dominant figure in the Eastern collegiate Club Football Conference, has joined with other college teams from the area to compete in the Met 8 Football Conference.

The league, which will begin operations in the fall, also boasts such strong teams as Manhattan, Iowa, St. John's and Brooklyn.

There will be seven league games with nine annual home-and-home series against each team.

HOLMES NAMED ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Carl Holmes, the junior center from Buffalo, has been named Marist College Athlete of the Week for the weekend ending February 6. This marks the second straight week Holmes has been selected as the recipient of the award.

Holmes, who was also named to the EAC Division III All-Star team, scored 18 points in 20-29 FG shooting and grabbed 47 rebounds to out the Red Foxes to three consecutive victories.

NOTES FROM THE SPORTS DESK

J.V. Basketball team lost to St. John's Monday, losing lead of first half. Damion Parry and Neil Lajemence led the attack with 18 points apiece. Lajemence scored 30 in 84-89 squeaker over New Palts last Thursday. Rich Johns, as assistant coach here, played "coaches" at Dutchess Indoor Soccer Tournament Sunday. Team was eliminated in semi-finals by Dutchess ... Steve VanGraaf was picked in top 5 on C-X Team, finished second in the three-mile winter run sponsored by the Hudson Valley Athletic Association Saturday.

During recent floor hockey intrasurals, scheduling of games last Friday night caused quite a furor. Seems that Friday night attracts about 15 to 20 basketball enthusiasts who enjoy a friendly floor game, while the puck's turn over the gym ... No names emerged as champions in finals held Monday night. Robert Davenport and Bill Hornby took the cash. While they beat George Sec 3-0, Tom McDonald added assist on first goal when second was unassisted ... Speaking ofacks, the club hockey made its debut against the Culinary Institute at Millbrook School Sunday night. Pete Celsano scored goals in losing effort ...

Intramural basketball begins next week. I think this week of DePerrin's "pette's rejects" to win. Led by 5-4 Dave Bean and superguard Ernie Morris, they have good players, speed, and defense. Jacklin's "Milkshaks" should give them a run, however ... What is a good way to have a little Schollum walking around Donny? Trying to beat Tony Wilger, of course.
