Charges Dismissed Against Students: 25 Hours Service

Five Marist students whose names have been withheld, charged with criminal possession of stolen property, received an adjournment in contemplation of dismissal from Town of Poughkeepsie Justice Judith Ann Hillery. The students were arrested by city of Poughkeepsie police Sunday afternoon, March 7, when spotted near a Pace Central freight car. The car, parked adjacent to the Poughkeepsie Train Station behind Marist, contained cases of Miller High Life beer. The dismissal places the students on a six month probation period in their own custody.

Detective Jack Boodo, town of Poughkeepsie police, explains the charge.

"Since this is their first criminal offense, charges will be dismissed and no criminal record will be made provided that the students stay out of trouble within the probation period," he said.

In addition, each student must complete 25 hours of public service work by May 23.

According to Pace Central officials, 506 cases of beer were missing.

Philip McCready, director of safety and security and members of his staff, along with the cooperation of many students, were able to return 237 cases from the three largest dorms.

"I was not trying to intimidate the students in any way, but only trying to help them out because if I didn't the police would have used search warrants to obtain the stolen property," said McCready.

237 cases of beer are still missing and no further investigation is planned by police officer unless any administrative action be made against the five students.

C.U. President Resigns

By Ernest Arico, Jr.

John Woodin, president of the commuters union, resigned last week.

Woodin, who recently was defeated by Andre Green for student government president, said: "It's too much of a hassle and I'm tired of doing other peoples work."

In addition, Woodin expressed that the general student leadership of the college was and that students should depend on those who were elected and not on him.

Gerry Kelly, administrative liaison for the commuter union, is not happy with Woodin's resignation.

Residence Staff Named

By Philip Palladino

The "names" of students who have been selected as members of the residence staff for the academic year 1976-1977 have been announced by Frederick A. Lamberti, assistant dean of students. The new residence advisors are as follows:

Champlain: Gregory Giles is residence advisor for House 1; Kevin McGinn and Karl Kennedy.

Chautauqua: John VanNess is residence advisor for House 2; Kevin McGinn and Patrick McAndrew.

Catskill: Gregory Jones and Kevin McGinn.

Resident advisors for Leo are: John Sadowitz, first floor; Joe Novak, second floor; Tom Fels, third floor; Dan King, fourth floor.

Fieldhouse: Late '76

By Jim Kennedy

According to Louis Greenspan, director of the Marist fieldhouse construction, work is running on schedule toward completion in the latter part of '76.

As a result of high winds of a recent storm, six glass panels which are about twelve inches wide, will have to be replaced. However Greenspan said the damage was "minimal."

"The only thing holding us back now is the weather," he said. "We're waiting for the frost to go and then we'll be able to pour cement and call in the roofing. As soon as the weather breaks, we'll be back to full time. We don't want to rush this job."

He also said that "financing has to continue, in order for construction to progress."

Greenspan said no specific date for completion has been set.
Winter Leaves Pot holes Behind

By Ernest Areo Jr.

With your gaze and warm respirations of the outer realms — let belles, Andrew Preston, director of the maintenance department, know all about the current leaf situation.

"Every winter we have the same problem and we need your help to spread the word," he said.

During the winter months, temporary pot holes will be found on the streets. The city has a hard time getting them filled because of the weather, said Preston, a resident of South Everett.

"We shouldn’t be digging them. They should be filled in before the cold weather sets in," he said.

The city will be collecting the pot holes to be filled in the spring.

Marist Expresses PresidentialChoice

By TOM MCBURNIE

Marist students got a jump on Tuesday’s New York Presidential Primary by participating in the College’s presidential choice poll. The poll was conducted to determine the students’ presidential choice.

As might be expected, "America First" and "No More Failures" were not options on the Marist ballot. Students were asked to choose between "Democratic” and "Republican" for the "party of the people who are not昏昏欲睡." The poll was conducted by the Marist College Student Government and the results will be announced on April 16.

Children Await “Aladdin”

BY CLAUDIA BUTLER

Four thousand children are expected to attend "Aladdin" at the Children's Theatre at the University of Rochester, an annual performance Monday morning. Children's Theatre, a Marital tradition, is for the 3rd year, sponsored by the administration, and is the result of a student workers' committee and Children's Theatre President Mary Tamm.

The play is directed by Mary Tamm, also student workers' committee chair, and the script is being adapted from the Arabian Nights, "because there are so many variations with no one definitive version. We decided to use a mixture of the versions, varying along the line, I had to write a lot of the children's songs," Tamm relates. "Aladdin's Nights is at the adult level."

"The script is in the hands of all the children involved, and has been presented to them on April 5. The play will be performed at 9:30 a.m. April 7. A free pamphlet will be available."

Winter Leaves Potholes Behind

BY ERNEST ADAMS, JR.

With your gone and warming temperatures, the winter months are behind, but the potholes remain. John Hardy, head of the maintenance department, has been hard at work since the snow fell.

"Every winter we have the same problem and we can't seem to keep up," Hardy said.

"During the winter months, temperature painting was done, but the cold and wet weather caused the paint to peel off the pavement, so we had to wait until the weather got warmer," he said.

"We should be able to get the potholes filled by late spring," he said.

Dear Editor,

Administratives need to get the word out to all the students on campus. They need to let them know how important it is to respect and think about the needs of others. Everyone should be aware of the policies and procedures that are in place. It is very important to respect all people and their belongings.

Sincerely,

LINKSMEN OPEN AT HOME WEDNESDAY

The Marist Golf team will open its six-match spring schedule Wednesday at the Beecken Memorial Country Club against N.Y., Maritime and New Haven.

Only five golfers return this spring, and despite their mediocre fall season, new coach Sue Nye said, “They (the men) are enthusiastic and eager to start playing. And I am sure we can help them improve on last year.”

Three seniors will be expected to lead the squad - Tom Murray, Brendan Boyles and David Russo.

Two newcomers, sophomores Bill McLaughlin and freshman Mike Curley (St. Mary’s/Manhasset), both competed in high school.

Top opponents for the team include N.Y. Maritime and Siena, which placed sixth in the recent Albany Invitational.
