Health service growth-Lambert priority

By Mary Yuskевич

Expansion of the Marist College health services program is a top priority in Fred Lambert's proposed budget allocation for the college. Lambert, assistant dean of students, said if approved by the Board of Trustees, a doctor from St. Francis Hospital will be available to treat students. This will relieve some of the pressure from the emergency room, said Lambert.

"Students were always referred across the street to St. Francis, for any real health problems," said Peggy Spaight, Marist College's nurse. (With St. Francis so close "Marist became too uncomfortable, and never felt the need to expand its health services," said Lambert.)

Spaight said she saw a need for a change in the Marist College health services. She said "Lambert was very receptive to the idea of change." Lambert said he had released and released, and there are facilities to keep students, unless they are in the emergency room, said Spaight.

Spaight, a graduate of the St. Francis nursing program, examines about fifteen students a day in the office. "It really depends on the time of year. This year we seemed to have had a flu outbreak," she said. Spaight gives "over the counter drugs" such as cold tablets and cough medicine. She also administers allergy shots to about twelve students.

"The infirmary is always been a dispensary, a student is treated and released. There are no facilities to keep students, unless they are in the emergency room," said Spaight.

The infirmary is open "for any problems from cold to basic health teaching," she added. "Sometimes students come in to treat minor problems with confidence they might not find consuming," said Spaight. She refers students for any problem.

Lambert said there is a need for counseling in the health services area. He said, "I see a need for birth control counseling for both men and women; I also think the nutrition field is very important for students to know about."

The proposed health services program, which will cost between $14,000 and $15,000 will be run by two people: the coordinator, a doctor, who will handle the basic program; and an assistant coordinator, a nurse, who will assist the doctor and do such things as administer sti- ches and give throat cultures.

The doctor will be available certain hours, and the cost will be less expensive and time consuming compared to going to the emergency room, Lambert said. This will be reimbursed by the faculty's use, and will also be concerned with food services, as is required by law.

Lambert said, with the proposed program, Marist hopes to have services available from 4 p.m. to midnight.

Marist gets mixed survey ratings

By Alan Jackson

Only 41 percent of the students polled said that Marist has met their expectations. Ninety-one percent rated their education at Marist as fair or good as a college. The survey was answered by a random selection of students.

Students were also asked to name the main issues currently at Marist. Of the 560 responses, the top five issues were - Housing (27 percent), student security (16 percent), food (7 percent), administrative authority (6 percent), and a lack of communication between students and administrators (6 percent).

Two-thirds of the students rated the maintenance department as good to fair. Ninety-one percent rated their education at Marist as fair or good. Of the students, 18 percent thought it was fair. The C.U.B.'s (College Union Board) performance was rated good by 53 percent and excellent by 11 percent of those polled.

The poll, conducted by the C.U.B., was given a good rating by 46 percent of the students. The McCann Center's facilities were rated excellent by 95 percent of those who went there. Excluding the McCann Center, Marist's other facilities were considered good by 50 percent of the students. There were no excellent responses.

The maintenance department's performance was rated good to fair by 57 percent of the students. Otherwise, the students gave the department a mixed rating, with 33 percent thought they were doing an excellent job.

Of the 166 students who answered the survey, 68 percent said that dorm life at Marist was fair to good. The administrators, collectively, were given a poor to fair rating by 58 percent of the students. Less than 1 percent of the students thought they were doing an excellent job. A high percentage of the students polled had no opinion of the performances given by President Linus Fey and Academic Dean Louis Zanettolo which was 41 percent and 43 percent respectively. Fey was given a good rating by 32 percent of the students, and Zanettolo received a B+ Excellent rating.

Athletic Director Ron Petro's performance rating varied. However, 24 percent gave him a good rating, while 59 percent had no opinion.

Lambert's rating also varied from poor to fair, as food was a class issue at percent having no opinion.

Overall, the students polled each gave Petr4e a poor and a fair rating at percent. The majority of the students had no opinion.

No administrator received more than a few percent excellent rating.

A new numbering system for academic courses, designed to make course selection easier for students, will be used at Marist College next semester, according to Assistant Registrar Bob Depp."We have made a new numbering system to help students make their choices," said Depp.

As of next semester the courses will be numbered in a specific way. "The system will allow students to choose the classes they want to take," said Depp.

The new system will also make it easier for students to find the classes they want to take. "Old system was not organized," said Depp.

The new system will be used next semester, according to Assistant Registrar Bob Depp. Depp added that the new system will be implemented in the fall of 2005. The new system will allow students to choose the classes they want to take.

Prison reform not helping

The American prison reform system was described as a "closed shop" and unable to be "participated in" by a group of students and members of the Campus Center about the possibility of prison reform.

New course numbers designed for easier course selection

By Joe Ford

A new numbering system for academic courses, designed to make course selection easier for students, will be used at Marist College next semester, according to Robert A. Chamberlin, registrar. The old system, which begins with a number reflecting the number of credits each course is worth, will be replaced by a system that assigns a new number to each course. The new system will make it easier for students to find courses they need and for those in their majors to stay on track.

Chamberlin said the old system was cumbersome and difficult to use, especially for students who were repeating courses. "It was a nightmare," he said. "It took forever to figure out which courses were available and what they were worth." The new system, which will be based on the number of credits each course is worth, will make it much easier for students to find the courses they need.

For example, a student who needs a 3-credit course in biology can easily find it by searching for courses with a 3 in the number. In the old system, the student would have to look through all the courses to find the one with 3 credits.

"The new system is much more user-friendly," said Chamberlin. "It will make it much easier for students to find the courses they need and for those in their majors to stay on track."

To the Editor:

I am a student who works part time at the County Fire Department, and I have been on the scene of several fires this year. One of these fires, which occurred in the Circle, was an automobile fire. The fire was caused by a cigarette, which was left on the dashboard of the car. The fire was contained and the owner of the car was able to salvage some of the contents of the vehicle.

In conclusion, it is important for everyone to be aware of the dangers of fire, especially in areas where there are many cars. It is important to always put out your cigarettes properly and to keep a fire extinguisher handy in case of emergencies.

The death of Christianity

By Barry Rees

I pray daily for the death of Christianity. New Christians have been thrown into a madhouse, and many of them have been beheaded. In one case, I have read of a man who was thrown into a madhouse because he had been a Christian. In another case, I have read of a woman who was thrown into a madhouse because she had been a Christian. In both cases, the Christians were thrown into a madhouse because they had been beheaded.

In my opinion, Christianity is a religion of death. It is a religion that teaches that death is the only way to salvation. It is a religion that teaches that death is the only way to eternal life. In my opinion, Christianity is a religion of death.

A REVIEW OF THE WIZARD OF OZ

by Roger Basinger

Carnival's Theatrical Production of "The Wizard of Oz" deserves a standing ovation. The play opened Monday evening at the Wizard of Oz Theatre and was met with enthusiastic applause from the audience. The cast of actors, including Dorothy, Scarecrow, Tinman, and the Cowardly Lion, put on a magical performance that captured the essence of the original story.

The production was led by a talented director who expertly guided the actors through each scene. The costumes, designed by a local costume designer, were stunning and brought the characters to life. The set design, created by a well-known set designer, was a feast for the eyes, with intricate details that added to the overall atmosphere of the production.

The audience was captivated from the moment the curtain升起 (rose) and the audience was transported to a magical world. The actors' performances were outstanding, and the audience was left with a sense of wonder and delight.

Wiz Wowed

Wiz Wowed: Over the past few months, Carnival has been on a mission to bring joy and wonder to children around the world. The company's latest production of "The Wizard of Oz" is no exception. The production has been met with enthusiastic reviews from audiences of all ages, and the reviews have been overwhelmingly positive.

The production is a celebration of the power of imagination and the magic of storytelling. It is a reminder that, no matter what our circumstances, we can all find joy and wonder in the world around us. The production is a reminder that, no matter what our circumstances, we can all find joy and wonder in the world around us.

Please tell us, how much?

As we begin to close out the 1977-78 school year, many of us will soon be faced with the task of planning for next year. That's right. Full certification registration will soon be upon us. Get a crop advisor, a schedule, figures and your calendar, sit down, fill out the form, and give the required amount of time to get the children ready to face another year. The form should help you figure out how much they'll want from you next year. What's that? You don't know how much tuition will be next year, either?

Next week, beginning Monday, you'll get to sign off for your next year's tuition. And, as usual, some administrative problem will tell you that this wouldn't happen anymore. It happened.

As you've said, you may not go to a school that cares so much about you. When you go to the store the can of tuna has a picture on it, you can't read the price, but you know how much it is on the sticker. The sticker is a way of showing the price, and it's there to help you budget your grocery budget. It's the same thing with tuition.

THE DEATH OF CHRISTIANITY

By Mark J. DeMott

I pray daily for the death of Christianity. New week, latest out of the hospital.

In January, I wrote about the decline of the Church. This month, I'd like to continue that theme. The decline of the Church is not a new phenomenon. It has been happening for a long time. The Church is in a state of decline, and the reasons for this decline are many and complex. It is not a mystery. The Church is in decline because of its own failures. It is not a mystery. Mini-delis profits "minimal"

By Vic Small

Though the managers of two local mini-deli's say they have been able to keep costs down, the profits have shrunk to a point that they're just about breaking even with the expenses. "It's not as good as it used to be," said Mike Lown, manager of the mini-deli at the Eat 'n Park.

"I've been here for three years and the profits have never been as good," said Lown. "But we're still making a profit and that's the most important thing.

"Some students really enjoy the mini-courses," said Smith. "But others don't. It's a matter of personal preference.

Brewers win title; defeat Ace Heads

By Pat Carlson

The Brewers' 4-3 victory over the Ace Heads Tuesday night in the final game of the championship series was the highlight of the season for both teams.

"It was a tough game," said Ace Heads' manager, Joe Camera. "But we were able to come back and win.

The Brewers' star pitcher, Bob Johnson, pitched a two-hitter in the game, striking out 10 batters and allowing only one run.

Trackmen end season

Mini-delis profits "minimal"

Though many agree that Lee and Sikh mini-deli's have gutted a way a week, 81-164 Alexander, owner of the mini-deli's, is not so sure. Alexander said profit has been good in the past, but now he feels that the profits have declined. What's more, Alexander said students are buying food at the mini-deli's instead of going out to eat, which he feels is a big mistake. Alexander said he is looking at opening a new store on the corner of 81st and 60th to make it a little easier. The mini-deli's will be open 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, with a profit margin of 20 percent.

New construction approved

Mini-courses worthwhile

By Maggie Bierer

Despite different opinions on mini-courses, some teachers believe they are worthwhile. One teacher, who requested anonymity, said, "I think mini-courses are a good idea, because they allow students to focus on a particular subject in more depth." Another teacher, who also requested anonymity, said, "I don't think mini-courses are a good idea, because they allow students to focus on a particular subject in more depth."

The Student Government Constitution, approved by a student vote of 17 to 4, will go into effect for the new construction, 38th Avenue, with two votes not registering in the voting machiones. The new constitution, which is the result of a year's work by the Student Government, includes the following provisions:

1. The Student Government will have the power to approve or reject any construction projects.
2. Any construction project that is approved by the Student Government will be subject to a vote of the student body.
3. The Student Government will have the power to approve or reject any construction projects that are not in compliance with the Student Government Constitution.

Booters end season

By Don Parry

The Booter football team finished its 1978 season with a 6-2 record on Saturday, November 18, at home, defeating the University of Arizona 34-14. The team, coached by Bob Silver, had a successful season, winning four of their six games. The team's record improved to 6-2 with the win, setting the stage for the upcoming season.

The Booters were led by quarterback Bob Silver, who completed 17 of 32 passes for 247 yards and two touchdowns. The Booters' defense was equally impressive, holding the Wildcats to just 14 points. The Booters' next game is scheduled for Saturday, November 25, at home, against the University of Utah.

The Mariot lacrosse team opened their season with a 6-5 victory over York College on Saturday.
The Marist goal-scoring ace is captain Kerry Ripp and freshman John Butterfiel, and sparked by aggressive play on offense and defense, the Red Foxes dominated the game more than the score indicated.
Butterfield scored the first of his two goals four minutes into the game. York tied the score three minutes later on a goal by Ira Kornreich, who scored twice more. Captain Ripp scored early in the second period on a pass from Pat Lantos allowing Marist to go ahead 6-3 at the 9:09 mark.
Due to the outstanding play of York midfielder Mike Kornreich, Marist scored just six goals due to many opportunities and were shut out of the remainder of the game. York came close with two more goals from Kornreich, and the game was saved from going out of control by Marist goalie Vinny Barney, who played a strong game and made several clutches late in the game, one with less than a minute left.
Coach Tom Cerovni was satisfied with the team's play in the game and could not be more pleased with their zone defense as the only problem. "These things will come in time" said Cerovni, "the only disadvantaged with the 3-1 loss is now on the field experience."
The team had been practicing in the old gym because of the weather, and before the York game they had only three days of practice on the field.
