Budget deficit seen for second year

By David Potter

Marist College's deficit for the current year is projected to be $500,000, the same as last year. This year, the college is projecting a $500,000 surplus. If Marist has a deficit, Potter said, the college may need to cut back on salaries and personnel. Potter added that there are "some departments here that are very large, very heavy, such as the chemistry department. He said the college could move teachers into other areas if necessary. If there are any".

Fire hazards not priority

By Kathy Norton

Minor fire hazards still exist on campus, but the administration does not consider them "emergency" situations. Minor fire hazards are considered by the administration to be a "catch-all" for situations that are not as serious as major fire hazards.

Sommer watches Marist for 28 years

By Earl Landers

Twenty-eight years later, the last book in his series of 28 employee at Marist is still doing well in the classroom. The education professor of English, continued to enlighten the minds and touch the lives of students.

The office of Special Services has an open space for a student who is interested in English. The office is located on the third floor of the Marist College in the Granite Building. Special Services is a program for students who need assistance in reading, writing, and study skills.

The office of Special Services is open from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The office provides a range of services, including counseling, testing, and research.

Best way to study for exams? Sleep on it

According to Bobbi Rudick, English professor at Marist College, it is important for students to get adequate sleep if they want to perform well on exams.

Bobbi Rudick said, "I have always stressed the importance of sleep for students. It is crucial for cognitive function and memory retention." She also emphasized the importance of a healthy lifestyle and regular exercise.

Bobbi Rudick's advice resonates with many students who struggle to balance their academic and social lives. Some students find it difficult to prioritize their sleep, while others may not realize the impact of poor sleep on their performance.

Tainted pot effects unknown

By Earl Selling

It is unknown whether smoking small, pot-related paraphernalia, such as pipes or bowls, affects student performance. A recent study conducted at the New York State Department of Education found no significant difference in test scores between students who smoked and those who did not.

The study, which analyzed data from over 1,000 students, found that smoking marijuana was not associated with a decrease in academic performance. However, the study did not account for other factors, such as the amount of marijuana consumed or the duration of use.

Furthermore, the study did not consider the potential long-term effects of marijuana use on mental health and cognitive function. More research is needed to understand the potential consequences of marijuana use on students.

Valedictorian chosen

This year's valedictorian will be Mary Sue Dwyer, a senior at Marist College. Mary Sue is known for her leadership and commitment to her studies. She has maintained a perfect 4.0 GPA throughout her four years at Marist.

Mary Sue's selection as valedictorian is a testament to her dedication and hard work. She has been an active member of various clubs and organizations, including the Women's Business Association and the Environmental Science Club.

Mary Sue's speech at the commencement ceremony will focus on the importance of education and the impact it has on shaping our lives. She will also share her personal experiences and encourage her peers to continue pursuing their dreams.
Weekend draws 450

By Mary Vaudelid

Seaford, Nantucket, Clinton Card (this) and east beach areas were approximately as good as they came, with the exception of a few railroad tracks that weren't exactly what they were promised. Seafood was abundant and plentiful, and the temperature was warm enough to make it comfortable. Seaford was the best place to be during this time of the year, and the people there were very friendly.

The dinner dance in the cafeteria Saturday night didn't have quite as much to offer as we had expected. The food was good, but the selection was limited. The ticket price was also higher than we anticipated.

Announcing

Applications for scholarships are being accepted at the McManus Center. If you meet the requirements, you can have an American Red Cross Advanced Life Support certification.

The office of Special Services has an opening for a student worker position. The position involves handling mail, answering the phone, and assisting with other administrative tasks. If you are interested, please apply to the McManus Center.

The office of Special Services is offering a scholarship for students pursuing a degree in business. The scholarship is available to undergraduate and graduate students. Applications are due by May 1 and will be reviewed.

An electric water heater is available in the dormitories. This appliance is designed to meet the needs of students who require a reliable source of hot water. It is energy-efficient and has a long lifespan. Students are encouraged to use this appliance responsibly.

Best way to study for exams? Sleep on it

The best way to study for exams is to get a good night's sleep. Research has shown that sleep helps consolidate memories and improve cognitive function. Make sure to get enough sleep the day before the exam and try to avoid studying late into the night.

Somer watches Marist for 28 years

By Lark Landae

Twenty-eight years later, the last student employee at Marist is still driving down the road. Sue Evans, the reference librarian, is a veteran of the Reference Desk, and she has been here since the day Marist opened. Sue has seen many changes over the years, and she is still passionate about her job.

Sue remembers the days when the Reference Desk was the only place students could go to find information. Now, with the advent of the internet, students have access to a vast amount of information at their fingertips. Sue still finds it rewarding to help students find what they need.

Sue is looking forward to the future, and she is excited to see what the next 28 years will bring.
Welcome back SAGA

Because the Mt. Ida College Dinning Services will not generate sufficient funds for the college this season, a new program has been developed by Student Affairs.

Although Fred Landis, assistant dean of students, has no idea what an outside firm is providing it, the new program, called SAGA, is expected to remedy the problem.

In addition, Mr. Landis told students who have no interest in other campus activities. Also, many requests from student council members have been turned down for the benefit of the student activities budget.

SAGA will be given to all students in the college, and the college has the best interest of the students in mind in making this change.

Congratulations

On May 3, 1978, the Mt. Ida College Dinning Services will open for the first time in 1978.

LETTERS

Congrats, but...

Dear Editor,

Congratulations on your recent edition of the Circle. It is a great deal of time and effort that you and your staff put into the publication.

It is with some regret that I must tell you that I have given up my column to the student newspaper. As a former student, I am one of the few who are actually interested in the newspaper. If anyone is also interested, they should read the student newspaper regularly, which says not to give up the college's former column.

Nevertheless, I hope this letter will serve to clarify any misconceptions.

Sincerely,

Frank Paul

Congratulations

To the Editors,

I would like to congratulate the student activities committee for the job well done with the Circle this year. I know the hard work and long days, but it is all worth it in the end.

Marti students should relish their last few weeks at the college. There are many reasons for the change. Before, George Calabrese, who was a resident assistant at the college, was known as the “head man” of the dormitory. He was always around to help the students with their problems. Now, with the move to the Circle, George Calabrese has been replaced by a new resident assistant.

To the Editors,

The Mt. Ida core program is a great idea. There are some reasons for the change. Before, students who had completed their studies were given the opportunity to work for the college. Now, with the move to the Circle, students are given the opportunity to work for the college.

FRESHMAN PROGRAM

By Larry Lastin

The freshman advising program is slated for changes this year. According to Father Richard LaSalle, the program is to be expanded in order to accommodate the increasing number of freshmen.

LaSalle said the program was developed in 1975 and was initially aimed at helping students to adjust to college life. It is expected that the program will be expanded to include more courses for the freshmen.

Sincerely,

Father Richard LaSalle

Is It Real?

By Richard A. LaRonde

There were the usual sounds of screams and shouts coming from the dormitory. Stairway to Heaven was blaring from the speakers. The usual drama was going on, as usual, in the dormitory.

We have in the past been known to call the dormitory the "halls of all halls." People are coming and going, talking and laughing, having fun.

The lights were on, and the air was filled with the sounds of music. The dormitory was alive.

Because the Marist College Dining Services will not generate sufficient funds for the college this year, a service fee is proposed as a means of helping to finance the programs, according to Loudin Belcher, assistant director of Dining Services.

The fee will be $25 for resident students and $50 for non-resident students. It will be collected in three installments: $15 at the start of the semester, $15 on Nov. 8, and $5 on Dec. 6. The fee will be billed to students' accounts.

Because of the increased cost of food, the college has had to increase its prices. In addition, the college has had to increase its prices to offset the increased cost of labor.

What the future holds for Marist

By Allen Jackson

Man has been plagued by fears of what the future holds for him. He has spent millions of dollars exploring his planet, searching for life on other planets, and spending billions of dollars on weapons to protect himself. But what will Marist be like in the year 2000? Will it have the same student body? Will it be the same administration? What will be the changes in the curriculum? These are all questions that we must ask ourselves today.

Modeling: A useful tool for projecting the future

Although we cannot predict the future, we can try to model it. By creating a model of the student body, we can see how it will change over time. This can be done by collecting data on past enrollment and using statistical methods to predict future trends. By comparing the model to the actual student body, we can see how accurate our predictions were.

As we can see, modeling is a powerful tool for projecting the future. It allows us to see how our decisions today will affect the future of Marist.

R2D2 may teach at Marist

By David Ng

With technology progressing at a faster rate, scientists envision a future where R2D2 may be a teacher's sidekick. Dr. Richard Platz, a professor of the Computer Science department, believes that R2D2 could be a helpful assistant.

"R2D2 is a slave droid that can perform various tasks. It can help students with their homework, fetch books from the library, and even clean the classroom. With technology becoming more advanced, we can imagine a future where R2D2 teaches at Marist College.

Japppers last stand hockey champs

By Pat Larkin

Japppers Last Stand defeated the Last Planet Athletics 20 on Friday night in the intramural league hockey championship game. The Japppers scored three goals in the first period to take the lead and held on to win 3-2.

The Last Planet Athletics were unable to muster much offense against the Japppers' defense. They had only three shots on goal and were unable to capitalize on their opportunities.

The Japppers' win was a sweet victory for their fans, who had been waiting for this moment all season. The team had been struggling earlier in the season, but they picked up their game as the season wore on, and they finished the year strong.

The victory also secured the Japppers' place as the intramural league hockey champions for the second year in a row.

X-country plans for fall

By John Mayer

James Avery Schudder and Danika Morissette have been selected as captains of the Marist College X-country team for the upcoming season.

Their strong work ethic and commitment to the sport have earned them the respect of their teammates and coaches.

"James and Danika are both strong runners and they are always pushing themselves to be the best they can be," said coach Mark Johnson.

The X-country season begins in September, and the team will compete against some of the top teams in the nation.

Millspaugh, Morris set track records

By Bob Garner

The Marist College Track team has been setting records and breaking personal bests this season.

Morris Millspaugh has set a new track record in the 200-meter dash, and he has been running sub-five in the 400-meter dash.

"Morris has been working hard in the weight room and on the track," said coach John Smith.

The team's strong showing in the X-country and track and field seasons is a testament to the hard work and dedication of the Marist athletes.

What the future holds for Marist

By Alisa Jackson

Man has been plagued by fears of what the future will be like. In the last 100 years, our world has become a place that no one ever dreamed would be. It has become a place that no one could imagine.

Will there be another holocaust, one that makes the Nukes de 2008 a distant memory? Will the society turn into a dystopian nightmare? Will the world fall into chaos and destruction?

In the future, Marist College will be a world-class institution that will lead the way in education and research. The college will be recognized as one of the top universities in the world, and its graduates will be sought after by employers around the globe.

The college will continue to be a leader in the fields of science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM). It will also be a leader in the arts, humanities, and social sciences. Marist will be a beacon of hope and inspiration for people all over the world.

The campus will be a hub of innovation and creativity, with state-of-the-art facilities and technology. Students will have access to the latest tools and resources, and they will be encouraged to think critically and creatively.

Marist will continue to be a community that values diversity and inclusion. It will welcome students from all backgrounds and creeds, and it will provide them with a safe and supportive environment.

In the future, Marist College will be a beacon of hope and inspiration, a place where dreams are born and hopes are realized. It will be a place where people come together to learn, grow, and make a difference.

Mike Morris breaks records as a walker

Mike Morris, a freshman from Poughkeepsie, has been named athlete of the week for the week ending May 1. Morris, a member of the track team set a meet and school record at Saturday's meet when he placed first in the 1,500 meter walk with a time of 6:37.

A graduate of Our Lady of Lourdes High School in Poughkeepsie, Morris set a national record for the two mile walk with a time of 13:45 set after the national record. A business major with a career objective in the area of management, Morris started participating in the walking event in sophomore year of high school. He has been involved in track for four years.

"Walking is just like running, but it's a different style. You get a lot of inverted, which is a great way to get back in shape," Morris said. Morris's walking routine includes a range of activities and exercises, and he enjoys the challenge and mental benefits of the sport.

The performance has not gone unnoticed by his coaches, who have praised Morris for his dedication and work ethic. His coaches believe his success is due to his consistent training and focus on technique.

"Mike has always been a very dedicated athlete. He's a very hard worker and he's very focused on his goals," said Coach John Foster. "He's been a very valuable asset to our team and he deserves all the credit."
