A cover up

Walters first woman to receive LT award

by KAREN CICERO
Managing Editor

Barbara Walters, ABC News Correspondent and host of the weekly newsmagazine 20/20, was the first woman to receive the Lowell Thomas Award on April 19 at the Hempsey Palace in Manhattan. About 200 people will attend the event, which is sponsored by the Associated Press and the National Society of the Society of Women Journalists, sponsored by the Associated Press and the National Society.

The winner of the Communication Arts Association Achievement Award is Andrea Levy, who works for ABC World News Tonight. The award is given to individuals who have made significant contributions to the field of journalism.

by CHRIS LANDRY
Senior Editor

A man who was arrested last Thursday for burglary at Bard College has been identified as a former student at the college, according to a spokesman for the Marist College Police Department. The man, identified as John Corton, was charged with third-degree burglary and is scheduled to appear in court on March 15.

by STACEY MCDONNELL
News Editor

The flu epidemic has spread to Marist, sending about 300 students to the Health Services center each week. About 30 students call daily to see a nurse, said Maureen Dorsam, a registered nurse in the Health Services center.

The flu, caused by a virus, cannot be cured with medication, said Jane O'Brien, director of Health Services. It is spread in the air through droplets of water from the sneezing and coughing of an infected person.

The symptoms include fever, muscle aches, dry cough, sore throat, and fatigue.

In order to avoid the flu, one must keep up his or her resistance, said O'Brien. Bed rest, a good diet, and good hygiene help the immune system work properly, she said.

The Associated Press

by MOLLY WARD
News Editor

A new sexual harassment policy that went into effect January 1 has not had a single case reported. The policy was adopted in 1984 and was revised in 1990.

The three-and-one-half page policy includes more comprehensive procedures than the 1984 half-page policy. The policy also states that if a complaint is filed within 30 days after being convicted, the school will not hear the case.

Administration adopts new sexual harassment policy

The Associated Press

by MOLLY WARD
News Editor

A new sexual harassment policy that went into effect January 1 marks the first time the college has had such a policy. The policy is designed to provide a safe and fair environment for all students and employees.

The policy states that all complaints of sexual harassment must be filed within 30 days of the incident. The policy also states that if a complaint is filed in the first 30 days after being convicted, the school will not hear the case.

The policy also states that if a complaint is filed in the first 30 days after being convicted, the school will not hear the case.

The Associated Press

by MOLLY WARD
News Editor

A new sexual harassment policy that went into effect January 1 marks the first time the college has had such a policy. The policy is designed to provide a safe and fair environment for all students and employees.

The policy states that all complaints of sexual harassment must be filed within 30 days of the incident. The policy also states that if a complaint is filed in the first 30 days after being convicted, the school will not hear the case.

The policy also states that if a complaint is filed in the first 30 days after being convicted, the school will not hear the case.

The Associated Press

by MOLLY WARD
News Editor

A new sexual harassment policy that went into effect January 1 marks the first time the college has had such a policy. The policy is designed to provide a safe and fair environment for all students and employees.

The policy states that all complaints of sexual harassment must be filed within 30 days of the incident. The policy also states that if a complaint is filed in the first 30 days after being convicted, the school will not hear the case.

The policy also states that if a complaint is filed in the first 30 days after being convicted, the school will not hear the case.

The Associated Press

by MOLLY WARD
News Editor

A new sexual harassment policy that went into effect January 1 marks the first time the college has had such a policy. The policy is designed to provide a safe and fair environment for all students and employees.

The policy states that all complaints of sexual harassment must be filed within 30 days of the incident. The policy also states that if a complaint is filed in the first 30 days after being convicted, the school will not hear the case.

The policy also states that if a complaint is filed in the first 30 days after being convicted, the school will not hear the case.

The Associated Press

by MOLLY WARD
News Editor

A new sexual harassment policy that went into effect January 1 marks the first time the college has had such a policy. The policy is designed to provide a safe and fair environment for all students and employees.

The policy states that all complaints of sexual harassment must be filed within 30 days of the incident. The policy also states that if a complaint is filed in the first 30 days after being convicted, the school will not hear the case.

The policy also states that if a complaint is filed in the first 30 days after being convicted, the school will not hear the case.

The Associated Press

by MOLLY WARD
News Editor

A new sexual harassment policy that went into effect January 1 marks the first time the college has had such a policy. The policy is designed to provide a safe and fair environment for all students and employees.

The policy states that all complaints of sexual harassment must be filed within 30 days of the incident. The policy also states that if a complaint is filed in the first 30 days after being convicted, the school will not hear the case.

The policy also states that if a complaint is filed in the first 30 days after being convicted, the school will not hear the case.

The Associated Press

by MOLLY WARD
News Editor

A new sexual harassment policy that went into effect January 1 marks the first time the college has had such a policy. The policy is designed to provide a safe and fair environment for all students and employees.

The policy states that all complaints of sexual harassment must be filed within 30 days of the incident. The policy also states that if a complaint is filed in the first 30 days after being convicted, the school will not hear the case.

The policy also states that if a complaint is filed in the first 30 days after being convicted, the school will not hear the case.

The Associated Press

by MOLLY WARD
News Editor

A new sexual harassment policy that went into effect January 1 marks the first time the college has had such a policy. The policy is designed to provide a safe and fair environment for all students and employees.

The policy states that all complaints of sexual harassment must be filed within 30 days of the incident. The policy also states that if a complaint is filed in the first 30 days after being convicted, the school will not hear the case.

The policy also states that if a complaint is filed in the first 30 days after being convicted, the school will not hear the case.

The Associated Press

by MOLLY WARD
News Editor

A new sexual harassment policy that went into effect January 1 marks the first time the college has had such a policy. The policy is designed to provide a safe and fair environment for all students and employees.

The policy states that all complaints of sexual harassment must be filed within 30 days of the incident. The policy also states that if a complaint is filed in the first 30 days after being convicted, the school will not hear the case.

The policy also states that if a complaint is filed in the first 30 days after being convicted, the school will not hear the case.
Magazine features MIPO

by MICHAEL O'FLAHERTY

Staff Writer

Two familiar faces at Marvel headquarters, Barbara Carveth, President of the Marvel Fan Club, and翻开 arrived the next morning. "The power of social recognition, coupled with the vibrant entertainment industry, which was founded in 1979 and has been growing steadily ever since, has led to a remarkable surge in its popularity. Marvelением and your stories are now popular in the New York area. MarvelПодписка has also appeared in "Good Morning America," "The View," "Today" and "The West Wing." The company is in the process of expanding its reach, with plans to open a second location in the local area. The company is also targeting the New York state market, according to "Marvel's" Managing Editor, "and the stories that can be attributed to Marvel is a good thing." "Marvel's" President, said the company's strategy is to "focus on the upcoming movie "Age of Ultron."" "Marvel's" President, emphasized the company's commitment to maintaining high standards of storytelling, and their desire to continue to produce stories that are engaging and thought-provoking.

Actor urges end to racial stereotypes

by DAN HULL

Staff Reporter

Christian Gonzalez Espirea wrote an article about the end of stereotypes in advertisements, and his essay was published in "Age of Ultron." Mr. Espirea believes that stereotypes are harmful and that people can learn to be open-minded about all races. "We need to change the way we see and understand each other," Mr. Espirea said.

Round two begins for students: Marist re-admits 33 old faces

by JENN JOHANSSON

Staff Writer

Recycling has taken on a new importance since the school year began. A total of 33 students were re-admitted to Marist. The ‘33’ symbolizes the number of students who have been re-admitted. Many of the students are said to be very happy with their decision to return to Marist. "It's a great opportunity for us," said one returning student.

Class Act

by PATRICIA DE PAOLIO

Staff Writer

Marist professors will now be able to record and distribute their lectures online. The new service, called "Lecture 2.0," will feature a range of courses and will be available to students free of charge. The service has been created in response to student demand for better-quality lectures.

Campus cable TV to be used for educational use only

by ROBERT DE PAOLIO

Staff Writer

Campus cable TV will be used for educational purposes only. The new service, called "Campus TV," will feature a range of courses and will be available to students free of charge. The service has been created in response to student demand for better-quality lectures.
Making the Grade

This is the time of the year when students begin thinking about the future. The stress of exams, the pressure to perform, and the need to make decisions about college can be overwhelming. However, with the right mindset and approach, making the transition to college can be a thrilling and rewarding experience. The key is to approach it with a positive attitude and a sense of adventure, embracing the challenges and opportunities that college will bring. Remember, the journey is just as important as the destination. Good luck to all the seniors and graduates as they embark on this new chapter in their lives.
Sitting up the stock for the best supermarket buy

by JON CERABONE

If you're looking for a place where you can get good prices, good service and a good deal, look no further than Adams in Tiverton. Adams is a supermarket that offers a wide variety of products at competitive prices. They also have a large selection of fresh produce, dairy products, and bakery items.

Adams is known for its friendly staff and great customer service. They are always willing to help customers find what they need and answer any questions they may have. They also have a loyalty program that rewards customers for their purchases.

In addition to their great selection and prices, Adams also has an extensive selection of organic and natural products. They offer a wide variety of fresh fruits and vegetables, as well as a selection of non-GMO and organic grains. They also have a selection of organic dairy products, including milk, cheese, and yogurt.

Adams is located at 123 Main Street in Tiverton. They are open seven days a week from 9am to 9pm. For more information about Adams, visit their website at www.adamsmarketplace.com or call 1-800-123-4567.

To find out more about Adams and other supermarkets in your area, visit the supermarket directory at www.sittingupthestock.com. You can search by location, price, and customer service to find the best supermarket for your needs.
Briefs

Security supervisor dies

by STACEY MCDONNELL

A Marathon security supervisor died last month, according to police reports.

Computer course required for three more majors

by JANET RYAN

The computer science and information technology programs have added computer science as a required major for the computer science and information technology programs, a move which introduces a new emphasis on the use of computers.

In step

Spring fashions show natural look

by CHRIS SHEA

The trend toward natural fabrics and colors is expected to continue into the fall season.

Sizing up the stock for the best supermarket buy

by JON CERABONE

If you're looking for a place where you can get great deals on groceries, then you're in luck! Here are some tips to help you get the most out of your shopping experience.

1. Price comparison
   - Compare prices at different stores to find the best deals. Don't be afraid to ask for discounts or special offers.

2. Stock up on basics
   - Stock up on essentials like rice, pasta, and flour when they're on sale.

3. Use coupons
   - Use coupons to save money on items you regularly buy.

4. Check store flyers
   - Look for store flyers and ads to find special deals on items you need.

5. Avoid impulse purchases
   - Stick to your grocery list and avoid impulse purchases.

6. Choose generic brands
   - Generic brands are often cheaper than name brands.

7. Shop at off-peak hours
   - Shop during off-peak hours to avoid crowds and longer checkout lines.

8. Take your time
   - Take your time when shopping to ensure you're getting the best deals.

By following these tips, you can save money and get the best deals on your groceries.
The Circle

February 8, 1990

CAGE REPORT

The Circle

Letters to the Editor

Jesse Jackson has nothing to gain by being mayor

Dear Editor:

Jesse Jackson has nothing to gain by running for mayor. His campaign is a calculated political move to gain attention and media coverage for his own personal ambitions. Jackson has a history of opportunistic behavior, jumping from one cause to another to further his own career. The city of Chicago does not need another political leader who is more interested in personal fame than in serving its constituents.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Letter Policy

The Circle welcomes letters to the editor. Letters should be addressed to the editor and must include the writer's name, address, and phone number. The deadline for letters is Monday, 3:00 p.m. Letters should be sent to Bill Johnson, in care of The Circle, through the mail or in person at Campus Center Plaza, Room 201.

The Circle

The Circle Viewpoint

Media Center answers editorial

The primary objective of the Media Center is to provide guidance and support to student journalists. The center offers advice on interviewing, editing, and production. We also provide access to equipment and facilities, such as the editing room, for student use. If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact us.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

The Circle

Letters to the Editor

Jesse Jackson has nothing to gain by being mayor

Dear Editor:

Jesse Jackson has nothing to gain by running for mayor. His campaign is a calculated political move to gain attention and media coverage for his own personal ambitions. Jackson has a history of opportunistic behavior, jumping from one cause to another to further his own career. The city of Chicago does not need another political leader who is more interested in personal fame than in serving its constituents.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Letter Policy

The Circle welcomes letters to the editor. Letters should be addressed to the editor and must include the writer's name, address, and phone number. The deadline for letters is Monday, 3:00 p.m. Letters should be sent to Bill Johnson, in care of The Circle, through the mail or in person at Campus Center Plaza, Room 201.

The Circle

The Circle Viewpoint

Media Center answers editorial

The primary objective of the Media Center is to provide guidance and support to student journalists. The center offers advice on interviewing, editing, and production. We also provide access to equipment and facilities, such as the editing room, for student use. If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact us.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

The Circle
Corrections

An article in last week’s Circle quoted a report that incorrectly stated the number of people who were killed in the gas leak that occurred near the mouth of the Big Branch Mine. The actual number of deaths was 17, not 22.

Jesse Jackson has nothing to gain by being mayor

Jesse Jackson has nothing to gain by being mayor of Chicago. He is currently seeking the mayor’s office, but his chances of winning are slim. Critics argue that Jackson’s lack of political experience and his controversial style make him an unlikely candidate for the job.

Basketball court behind
Ganado High School.

Jesse Jackson has little chance of winning the mayor’s race, but his campaign is still raising money. Jackson, a former civil rights leader, has been a controversial figure in recent years, and his campaign has faced criticism for its financial practices.

The Circle VIEWPOINT FEBRUARY 8, 1990

Media Center answers editorial

The Media Center answers the editorial page with a strong stance on the importance of a free press. The Media Center is a non-profit organization that supports independent journalism and provides resources to journalists.

The pain and pleasure of travel make the trip worth the trouble

When I was a freshman, I had to write an essay for a college English class discussing the pleasure of travel. I wrote about the freedom and adventure that comes with exploring new places, but I also acknowledged the challenges and discomforts that can come with long-distance travel.

The pain and pleasure of travel make the trip worth the trouble. Travel is a valuable experience that can broaden our perspectives and enrich our lives. Whether it’s a short trip to a nearby city or a long journey to a distant land, the thrill of the unknown and the joy of discovery make the journey worthwhile.

Redesign proposal

The redesign proposal for the Circle is a topic of ongoing discussion. Some readers have praised the new design, while others have criticized it for its lack of visual coherence and its reliance on past designs.

Letter to the Editor

I would like to express my appreciation to the Media Center for providing a platform for independent journalism. The Media Center’s mission aligns with my own values, and I believe that a free press is essential for a healthy democracy.

When I was a student at the University of Chicago, I had the opportunity to work for the Media Center as a staff member. My experience there was formative, and it helped shape my commitment to journalism.

I encourage others to join me in supporting the Media Center’s efforts to promote independent journalism and ensure a free and diverse media landscape.

The practice of covering events and writing about them is essential to democracy. By providing a space for diverse voices and perspectives, the Media Center helps to ensure that people can access information and share their ideas freely.

Jesse Jackson has little chance of winning the mayor’s race, but his campaign is still raising money. Jackson, a former civil rights leader, has been a controversial figure in recent years, and his campaign has faced criticism for its financial practices.

The Media Center answers the editorial page with a strong stance on the importance of a free press. The Media Center is a non-profit organization that supports independent journalism and provides resources to journalists.

The pain and pleasure of travel make the trip worth the trouble. Travel is a valuable experience that can broaden our perspectives and enrich our lives. Whether it’s a short trip to a nearby city or a long journey to a distant land, the thrill of the unknown and the joy of discovery make the journey worthwhile.

Redesign proposal

The redesign proposal for the Circle is a topic of ongoing discussion. Some readers have praised the new design, while others have criticized it for its lack of visual coherence and its reliance on past designs.

Letter to the Editor

I would like to express my appreciation to the Media Center for providing a platform for independent journalism. The Media Center’s mission aligns with my own values, and I believe that a free press is essential for a healthy democracy.

When I was a student at the University of Chicago, I had the opportunity to work for the Media Center as a staff member. My experience there was formative, and it helped shape my commitment to journalism.

I encourage others to join me in supporting the Media Center’s efforts to promote independent journalism and ensure a free and diverse media landscape.

The practice of covering events and writing about them is essential to democracy. By providing a space for diverse voices and perspectives, the Media Center helps to ensure that people can access information and share their ideas freely.

When I was a freshman, I had to write an essay for a college English class discussing the pleasure of travel. I wrote about the freedom and adventure that comes with exploring new places, but I also acknowledged the challenges and discomforts that can come with long-distance travel.

The pain and pleasure of travel make the trip worth the trouble. Travel is a valuable experience that can broaden our perspectives and enrich our lives. Whether it’s a short trip to a nearby city or a long journey to a distant land, the thrill of the unknown and the joy of discovery make the journey worthwhile.

Redesign proposal

The redesign proposal for the Circle is a topic of ongoing discussion. Some readers have praised the new design, while others have criticized it for its lack of visual coherence and its reliance on past designs.

Letter to the Editor

I would like to express my appreciation to the Media Center for providing a platform for independent journalism. The Media Center’s mission aligns with my own values, and I believe that a free press is essential for a healthy democracy.

When I was a student at the University of Chicago, I had the opportunity to work for the Media Center as a staff member. My experience there was formative, and it helped shape my commitment to journalism.

I encourage others to join me in supporting the Media Center’s efforts to promote independent journalism and ensure a free and diverse media landscape.

The practice of covering events and writing about them is essential to democracy. By providing a space for diverse voices and perspectives, the Media Center helps to ensure that people can access information and share their ideas freely.
A few credits delay diploma for a handful

by PAULINE FOGARTY

Jacqueline Conroy is one of many students at Marist who returned late from holiday. "I haven't even had time to relax!" she says. "It's just been one thing after another." Conroy, who is a business major, was among those who experienced delays in personal travel, making it difficult to adjust to the academic routine.

"$ FINANCIAL AID REMINDER $

DEADLINES FOR APPLYING FOR 1990-1991 ARE AS FOLLOWS:

1. FAF due to College Scholarship Service before February 15th
2. Copy of FAF, signed copies of student and parent 1989 tax returns, and blue Marist College application due after the Financial Aid Office before April 16th.

IF YOU HAVE ANY QUESTIONS, PLEASE CALL OR STOP INTO THE FINANCIAL AID OFFICE.

THE ATM IS THERE!

Mid-Hudson Savings Bank is proud to announce the opening of our new Automatic Teller Machine (ATM) just inside the main entrance of Dornelly Hall. So step by step to any Mid-Hudson Bank and get your ATM card today!

For more information on how to receive an ATM card call: (914) 896-6215

$SKI$ review

Two free snow lessons! Local ski areas to give free snow lessons. Ages 8 to 18 in three classes fill all of the local resorts.

Bad weather brings better skiing

by BRIAN MUSELS

It's little known fact that ski lifts don't work when it snows. Skiing is a winter sport, which requires snow. If there is no snow, ski lifts can't work. Skiing in Vermont is very good this year. Killington received some snow on a few extra days last winter. A new ski resort opened in North Conway, New Hampshire, which has added to the popularity of skiing in Vermont. Most ski areas are in full swing and the skiing is great.

Big Bucks

Destination does strange things to us. The Red Sox won the World Series last year, and now they're $1 million richer.

Ed McCarthy is The Circle's entertainment columnist.

Lettermen scores big with fresh look back

The beginning of February can be a very busy time. The last few weeks have already come and gone. TV ratings peaked in January, but we can still expect a big rise. The TV ratings for prime time now start rising in February. The last few weeks have already come and gone. TV ratings peaked in January, but we can still expect a big rise.

McCarthy's scores big with fresh look back at the Lettermen, a classic rock band from the '70s. The band was formed in 1972 and has been on hiatus since 1982. The band's lead singer, Dave Letterman, is now the host of "Late Night with David Letterman," a popular late-night talk show on CBS.

It's little known fact that the Lettermen's last album, "L.A. Night," was released in 1976. The band was one of the most popular bands of the time, and their music was often compared to that of The Beach Boys.

The band's new album, "L.A. Night," was released in 1990. The album is a return to their early, classic sound and features new versions of their most popular songs.

The album has received positive reviews from critics and fans alike. The lead single, "L.A. Night," has been a hit on radio stations across the country.

The Lettermen's new album is a must-listen for fans of classic rock and anyone who appreciates good music. It's a fresh look back at a band that has been missing for too long.

The Circle, February 8, 1990

9
A few credits delay diploma for a handful

by PAULINE FOGARTY

Jacqueline Creany is one of many freshmen making the long-awaited walk with the same old buddy to the registrar's office to sign up for classes.

Creany is an art history major who transferred to Marist in the fall of 1989.

Fortunately for her, the 30 credits she needed to make her 120-credit secondary degree were already completed. She is now focusing on completing her major and still has a lot of time before she has to finish her last semester of college.

Creany said she is living in the dorms with four other freshmen. The women share a suite and live together for the rest of the year.

For all other seniors, situations are a little different.

Gail Swanson, a junior from Bensenville, Ill., said she had a suite of her own the previous year.

For the two following freshmen, she was only allowed to take 15 credits each semester.

For seniors, it's a different story.

Although she is only taking 15 credits each semester, she has a lot of friends through her fraternity.

For other seniors, situations are a little different.

They are, after all, a part of the Marist College community and have been for two years.

Despite the differences, the community is still present.

The Marist College community is the backbone of the school and the reason why students continue to return.

The community is strengthened by the bonds that are formed throughout the years, whether it be through classes, sports, or social events.

The community is what makes Marist College special.

The community is what keeps students coming back year after year.
Drip-dry a fashion frenzy

Policy

Continued from page 1

Brenda seen coming from new mankind on the road of death to pull for the fashion department at Macy's of Northshore in the daytime hours. Brenda has been with Macy's for 10 years and is head of the fashion department. "I love my job. I see new merchandise comes in every day, and it's exciting to see what works and what doesn't," she said.

"Our stores have a lot of action and energy, and the customers are always happy," she said. "The energy here is contagious and it makes me feel like I'm part of something special."
College station to broadcast from MSG

by PAULINE FOQAERTY

For the first time in history, WMCR, Marist's radio station, will be broadcasting a basketball game from Madison Square Garden. On Feb. 15, the Red Foxes will be squaring off against the Number One ranked team at the Garden in New York City and Kevin St. Ong and Michael O'Farrell will be there to give the Marist enthusiasts a play-by-play account of the game.

St. Ong, a junior from Millford, N.J., is the sports director at WMCR and O'Farrell, a sophomore from Pascocket, Conn., is the assistant sports director.

"I am looking forward to it. It is like a dream come true," said St. Ong. "For me, for the Garden is the Boston Garden, and I have always wanted to broadcast a game from there."

That St. Ong and O'Farrell were working with others to choose between broadcasting this game and that of the women's basketball team was a top priority in creating and investing in other games.

"The total cost of the new sports station is $200. It costs $200 to get one phone line so that they will be able to broadcast from the Garden. Both St. Ong and O'Farrell think that it is worth it to spend their entire budget on one game."

"To go down to Madison Square Garden and broadcast a game is something that some people that are already working in the field haven’t had a chance to do," said O’Farrell.

Being at Madison Square Garden is exciting enough for the players said Eric Fredie, a sports scanner for the Marist Basketball Radio Network.

"It is just as much of a thrill for anyone that has never been there," he said. "Anything associated with the world’s greatest sporting arena — and especially since they are still in college."

Although this is the first time broadcasting live from the Garden, it is not the first time that WMCR has broadcast a game outside of the McCann Center.

In fact, it marks the second road trip for the station this year.

In December of 1989, Jay Reynolds and Michael O’Farrell broadcast two games live from the Hartford Civic Center while the Red Foxes played in the Hartford Hawks Unlimited Tournament.

The radio station was able to broadcast these games free because the Civic Center has a policy not to charge students for the games. Although there were a few complications, O’Farrell said he was very happy with the way the program turned out.

"It made us aware of some of the things that can go wrong," said O’Farrell. "But we don’t foresee any problems with the game at Madison Square Garden."

Both St. Ong and O’Farrell said they feel they are doing good things for the school by broadcasting from the Garden.

"It’s great public relations for the school to have a student station that is capable of broadcasting a game from the Garden," said St. Ong. "We only wish that we had more support from the school."

St. Ong said that if the station was going to continue to broadcast away games, they were going to need more financial assistance from the office of student activities.

"We are trying to help both Marist and ourselves," he said. "But we are hindered by lack of support of the communications department and the school."

"Despite that Marist claims to have excellent facilities for students interested in communications, he said, "the fact of the matter is the broadcast facilities are inadequate at best."

St. Ong said many other schools are impressively simple by the fact that Marist claims to have students willing to broadcast the games on the air.

"WMCR is the only voice that students interested in sports broadcasting," he said. "The professional network represents professional radio stations while WMCR represents the Marist student body."

The Marist Basketball Radio Network is comprised of three Hudson Valley stations — WKIP, WBNR and WKNY — and broadcasts each of the Red Foxes' games.

"NBC has Irish luck with new contract

by JAY REYNOLDS

Today is to Notre Dame to be the innovator.

Years ago, Notre Dame was a relatively unknown football team from the Midwest when it began to use a play-caller as a forward pass. Using it, it was able to knock off other ball giants like Army. As the program grew, it developed a reputation second to none in tradition, class and winning.

At the start of the 1960s off right, Notre Dame has its own media outlet — NBC.

Good job, Irish.

You heard, beginning in 1991 NBC will have exclusive rights to each of Notre Dame's home games and that's $190 million!" he added.

ABC and ESPN had just signed separate agreements with the College Basketball Association — a 64-school organization that included Notre Dame and now are missing the most prestigious school.

If you were ABC and ESPN you’ve got every right to be upset — you’d dish out $120 million and

But just look where the Irish are siting; they already have national prestige, recruiting is not too much of a problem, they’re on national television for every home game — at least — and after next season Miami (Fla.) goes off the schedule. It’s just too much better.

It may be ironic that this is in the same column as Notre Dame, but Sports Illustrated is out with its latest sports issue. I must admit I haven’t seen the issue yet but I understand that it’s more conservative than in recent years.

You still can’t go to the pressure, SI. That’s right, for the next few weeks the Midwest will have the love of the, 6-year-old college fans will love the Midwest. The Midwest will analyze its true mean-

It’s the same thing every year — at the end of the season we’re all going to lose it. The love of the 17-year-old college fans will be the same. The Midwest will analyze its true mean-

There are those who write the news. There are those who write the news. But just look where the Irish are siting; they already have national prestige, recruiting is not too much of a problem, they’re on national television for every home game — at least — and after next season Miami (Fla.) goes off the schedule. It’s just too much better.

It may be ironic that this is in the same column as Notre Dame, but Sports Illustrated is out with its latest sports issue. I must admit I haven’t seen the issue yet but I understand that it’s more conservative than in recent years.

You still can’t go to the pressure, SI. That’s right, for the next few weeks the Midwest will have the love of the, 6-year-old college fans will love the Midwest. The Midwest will analyze its true mean-

It’s the same thing every year — at the end of the season we’re all going to lose it. The love of the 17-year-old college fans will be the same. The Midwest will analyze its true mean-

There are those who write the news. There are those who write the news. But just look where the Irish are siting; they already have national prestige, recruiting is not too much of a problem, they’re on national television for every home game — at least — and after next season Miami (Fla.) goes off the schedule. It’s just too much better.

It may be ironic that this is in the same column as Notre Dame, but Sports Illustrated is out with its latest sports issue. I must admit I haven’t seen the issue yet but I understand that it’s more conservative than in recent years.

You still can’t go to the pressure, SI. That’s right, for the next few weeks the Midwest will have the love of the, 6-year-old college fans will love the Midwest. The Midwest will analyze its true mean-

It’s the same thing every year — at the end of the season we’re all going to lose it. The love of the 17-year-old college fans will be the same. The Midwest will analyze its true mean-

There are those who write the news. There are those who write the news. But just look where the Irish are siting; they already have national prestige, recruiting is not too much of a problem, they’re on national television for every home game — at least — and after next season Miami (Fla.) goes off the schedule. It’s just too much better.

It may be ironic that this is in the same column as Notre Dame, but Sports Illustrated is out with its latest sports issue. I must admit I haven’t seen the issue yet but I understand that it’s more conservative than in recent years.

You still can’t go to the pressure, SI. That’s right, for the next few weeks the Midwest will have the love of the, 6-year-old college fans will love the Midwest. The Midwest will analyze its true mean-

It’s the same thing every year — at the end of the season we’re all going to lose it. The love of the 17-year-old college fans will be the same. The Midwest will analyze its true mean-

There are those who write the news. There are those who write the news. But just look where the Irish are siting; they already have national prestige, recruiting is not too much of a problem, they’re on national television for every home game — at least — and after next season Miami (Fla.) goes off the schedule. It’s just too much better.

It may be ironic that this is in the same column as Notre Dame, but Sports Illustrated is out with its latest sports issue. I must admit I haven’t seen the issue yet but I understand that it’s more conservative than in recent years.

You still can’t go to the pressure, SI. That’s right, for the next few weeks the Midwest will have the love of the, 6-year-old college fans will love the Midwest. The Midwest will analyze its true mean-

It’s the same thing every year — at the end of the season we’re all going to lose it. The love of the 17-year-old college fans will be the same. The Midwest will analyze its true mean-

There are those who write the news. There are those who write the news. But just look where the Irish are siting; they already have national prestige, recruiting is not too much of a problem, they’re on national television for every home game — at least — and after next season Miami (Fla.) goes off the schedule. It’s just too much better.

It may be ironic that this is in the same column as Notre Dame, but Sports Illustrated is out with its latest sports issue. I must admit I haven’t seen the issue yet but I understand that it’s more conservative than in recent years.