N. Road residents voice complaints

by JOHN McALIFFE
Staff Writer

Many students currently living on North Road are complaining that their houses were not suitable for living upon moving in last month.

North Road Residence Director Denise O'Wright and the rest of the Housing Office staff are still fielding complaints about the cleanliness and other problems concerning the North Road houses.

Many residents said they believe Marist has neglected these houses, leaving students without necessities such as an oven that was not installed in the upstairs apartment of 73 North Road until two weeks after the residents moved in.

One of the more common complaints was that the houses were not cleaned sufficiently before the students moved in.

"This should have been done before we arrived here. We should have had a chance to see people to take care of these problems," she said.

"There were some problems with the upholstered furniture that had to be dealt with included broken glass scattered over the floor, and some type of 'sludge' on the carpet in their living room which was not cleaned," she added.

Residents on the top floor of 69 North Road, a recently renovated apartment, complained that their apartment lacked a sufficient showering facility when they first arrived.

"The house was simply not ready to be lived in," said Mike Bollacke, a senior and resident of the apartment.

Other complaints by North Road residents dealt with problems pertaining to old or broken furniture or in some cases no furniture at all.

"The furniture is probably older than the school is," said one resident of the upstairs apartment at 73 North Road.

Not every North Road resident is complaining.

"They (housing and maintenance) have been good to us," said Mark Barto, a freshman living in the residence hall.

Drake: Administrators at Mt. Saint Mary's in Newburgh and Bard in Red Hook both said that what goes on off campus remains, off campus.

The only time actions are taken against students are at college sanctioned events, said Harry Steinauer, dean of students at Mt. Saint Mary's.

Administrators at Bard said when there is a situation dealing with off-campus people and off-campus housing, those people are on their own.

Officials at St. John's in Jamaica, N.Y., are trying to remedy the problems surrounding these concerns.

"We have the same problem as Marist," said Susan Ebb's, associate vice president and dean of student life at St. John's. "While we don't have a policy for dealing with these situations, we are in the process of writing one now," said Ebb's.

O'Neill said that in a similar situation such as one at Marist dealing with the fraternity Tau Kappa Epsilon and off-campus parties the student organization would be...

"...see COLLEGES page 4

College residents, however, must take care of their own.
Problems mount for Reynard staff

by MOUEL BELDIN Staff Writer

Despite a lack of a faculty advisory, teaching assignments are being made and departmental meetings are being held. The immediate need for chemistry and physics teachers is 31 and 33, respectively.

The Dean of Students, Mary McKeon, has been asked to resolve the problems.

Staff writer Joan Sánchez suggests that, "Our biggest problem is maintenance, but we’re also having trouble with the refrigerator in the kitchen and the copy machines in the office.

A new chemistry teacher, Mr. Williams, is supposed to start this week. He’s been teaching at a private school in New York, but he can’t find housing."

Sánchez adds, "We need a new copy machine as well. The one we have is always breaking down."

However, the biggest issue is maintenance. "We’ve been waiting for months for our copy machines to be fixed, but they keep breaking down again," Sánchez said.

"We’ve also been waiting for our refrigerators to be replaced, but they keep breaking down again," Sánchez said.

The staff is working to resolve these issues as quickly as possible.

Who shot "Hudson Heights?" Show cancelled

by JENN JAHNSTEN Manager Editor

In a recent episode of "Hudson Heights," the staff analyzed the various theories surrounding the mysterious shooting in the neighborhood.

The episode begins with a recap of the shooting, followed by interviews with residents and witnesses. The staff then explores different theories, including a rival gang, a possible hate crime, and a random act of violence.

The episode ends with the staff's conclusion that the shooting was likely a result of a dispute over a territory.

Jahnsten said, "We're really proud of how this episode turned out. It was a lot of work, but we think it's an important issue to cover."

"Who shot "Hudson Heights?" is a show we've been working on for a long time," said Jahnsten. "We're really excited to see it finally air."

"We hope people enjoy it," said Jahnsten. "We think it's a really interesting story, and we've done a lot of research to make sure it's accurate."

Review of college to begin

by JOY WILLIAMS Staff Writer

"Mars is in a college on the move," said college president, Dr. James Minghella. "We are looking to expand our facilities and increase our enrollment."

"We are exploring a new location in the heart of the city," said Minghella. "This will allow us to offer more courses and programs, and provide a better experience for our students."

"We are also looking to develop new partnerships with local businesses and organizations," said Minghella. "This will allow us to offer more hands-on learning opportunities for our students."

The college has already started the process of exploring a new location, and is expected to make a decision in the coming months.

"We are excited about the possibilities," said Minghella. "We think this is a great opportunity for our college to grow and thrive."

"We are committed to providing our students with the best possible education," said Minghella. "We are looking forward to the future of Mars College."
Letters to the editor

The Circle welcomes all letters to the editor. Letters must be typed and include the author’s name, address and phone number. Deadlines are 5 p.m. on Monday.

Lorrie is addressed Chris Shes w/o The Circle, through campus mail. The editorial staff reserves the right to edit submissions for length, style and good taste.

Policy

If you ask any of the members and leaders of the Democratic party about the 1968 election, their memories are a patchwork of colorful fragments, often confusing and contradictory. The Democratic party in 1968 was a sprawling, divided, and fragmented organization. The party’s presidential candidate, Hubert Humphrey, was a moderate and pragmatic politician who was not able to capture the imagination of the American electorate. The Democratic party was split between the liberal and conservative wings, and this division made it difficult for Humphrey to win the nomination and to develop a coherent campaign strategy.

The anti-war movement was a major factor in the 1968 election. Many young people were disillusioned by the war in Vietnam and mobilized to oppose it. They formed organizations such as the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) and the Young Patriots, who organized a series of protests and demonstrations throughout the country. These protests put pressure on the Democratic party to adopt a more anti-war stance and to support candidates who were critical of the war.

The Democratic party’s nomination for the presidency was a highly contested contest between Humphrey and George McGovern. McGovern was a liberal Democrat from South Dakota who was known for his strong opposition to the war in Vietnam. He won the nomination with the support of many young people who were disillusioned with the war and with Humphrey’s more moderate approach.

The election of 1968 was marked by a series of protests and demonstrations. The Democratic party was criticized for its failure to address the concerns of young people and for its lack of a clear anti-war position. Humphrey was criticized for his moderation and for his failure to respond to the demands of the anti-war movement. The Republican party was led by Richard Nixon, who was able to capitalize on the Democratic party’s weaknesses and to win the election with a majority of the popular vote.

The election of 1968 was a turning point in American political history. It marked the end of the era of liberal Democratic governance and the beginning of the era of conservative Republican governance. The Democratic party would not regain the presidency until 1992, and it would not win a majority of the popular vote again until 2008.
Letters to the editor

Internships available

Dear Editor: You could be walking the halls of New York University when the opportunities of a lifetime are available to you. The College of Business Administration offers a wide variety of internship programs that can be tailored to your interests.

You can start your internship search by contacting the Office of Career Development. They will provide you with a list of local and national opportunities. Also, you can search online for internships in your field of interest.

We encourage you to take advantage of these opportunities and make the most of your time at NYU.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]

Democratic party looking ahead to election in 1996

While the past few weeks have been marked by uncertainty and political turmoil, the Democratic party remains confident in its chances for success in the upcoming election.

The party's message for 1996 is clear:改革 from the top. Governor Mario Cuomo, the party's nominee for governor, is determined to bring about positive change in New York State.

Cuomo's campaign focuses on issues such as education, healthcare, and the economy. The party believes that these issues are critical to the well-being of New Yorkers and that they are best addressed through strong, progressive leadership.

Winning the election in 1996 will require hard work and dedication from all members of the democratic party. It is an opportunity to make New York a better place for all its citizens.

The democratic party is committed to working hard to achieve victory in 1996. With the support of the electorate, the party is confident in its ability to succeed.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
SERVING IT UP

by BRIAN MARKHAM Daily Writer

It was another successful weekend for the cross country teams.

Continuing to improve each week, Hal Herring and the women’s team won the Capital Region title at San Vincent Park and the men took the third place at the Hunter College Invitational in New York City.

The Lady Red Paws garnered third place honors in the team of 28 runners. "We are doing well," said Coach Hal Herring. "We have a good team with some real talent." Women’s coach Phil Kelly said his team was in a very strong field. "It’s one of the most competitive meets of the year," he said. "We are off to a good start and we are looking forward to the rest of the season." The men’s team also took third place.

"We are happy," said Coach Hal Herring. "We have been working hard and we are looking forward to the rest of the season." The men’s team also took third place.

"We are happy," said Coach Hal Herring. "We have been working hard and we are looking forward to the rest of the season." The men’s team also took third place.

CROSS-SECTION: Women’s team

The women’s team ran in to a 6-mile race against the Fairleigh Dickinson University team on Monday and the team was in the lead throughout the entire race. The women’s team was able to win the race by a narrow margin of 5 seconds.

"The team ran well," said Coach Edna Morgan. "We are happy with the performance of the team." The women’s team was able to win the race by a narrow margin of 5 seconds.

"The team ran well," said Coach Edna Morgan. "We are happy with the performance of the team." The women’s team was able to win the race by a narrow margin of 5 seconds.

"The team ran well," said Coach Edna Morgan. "We are happy with the performance of the team." The women’s team was able to win the race by a narrow margin of 5 seconds.

"The team ran well," said Coach Edna Morgan. "We are happy with the performance of the team." The women’s team was able to win the race by a narrow margin of 5 seconds.

"The team ran well," said Coach Edna Morgan. "We are happy with the performance of the team." The women’s team was able to win the race by a narrow margin of 5 seconds.

"The team ran well," said Coach Edna Morgan. "We are happy with the performance of the team." The women’s team was able to win the race by a narrow margin of 5 seconds.

"The team ran well," said Coach Edna Morgan. "We are happy with the performance of the team." The women’s team was able to win the race by a narrow margin of 5 seconds.

"The team ran well," said Coach Edna Morgan. "We are happy with the performance of the team." The women’s team was able to win the race by a narrow margin of 5 seconds.

"The team ran well," said Coach Edna Morgan. "We are happy with the performance of the team." The women’s team was able to win the race by a narrow margin of 5 seconds.

"The team ran well," said Coach Edna Morgan. "We are happy with the performance of the team." The women’s team was able to win the race by a narrow margin of 5 seconds.

"The team ran well," said Coach Edna Morgan. "We are happy with the performance of the team." The women’s team was able to win the race by a narrow margin of 5 seconds.

"The team ran well," said Coach Edna Morgan. "We are happy with the performance of the team." The women’s team was able to win the race by a narrow margin of 5 seconds.

"The team ran well," said Coach Edna Morgan. "We are happy with the performance of the team." The women’s team was able to win the race by a narrow margin of 5 seconds.

"The team ran well," said Coach Edna Morgan. "We are happy with the performance of the team." The women’s team was able to win the race by a narrow margin of 5 seconds.
Serving it up

by BRIAN MARKHAM
Staff Writer

In a career spanning nearly three decades, Scherf has been a fixture at the Hunter College. He has been a mainstay on the college basketball scene and has consistently added to his legacy. His coaching career has seen him guide the Red Queens to numerous championships and accolades.

Also facing the course under Scherf’s leadership is former player David Scott, who is now in his third season as a head coach at the college. Scott has been instrumental in building a strong program, and he has guided the Red Queens to a 3-2 record this season.

Scherf’s coaching philosophy is centered on hard work and dedication. He believes that by instilling these values in his players, he can build a team that is competitive and has a strong sense of community.

Scherf’s impact on the college community is evident in the way he interacts with his players and the fans. He is known for his approachable nature and his willingness to engage with his players and the student body.

Scherf’s leadership has been instrumental in shaping the college’s identity and in shaping the legacy of the Red Queens. His legacy is evident in the way his players carry themselves on and off the court. His influence is felt in the way they approach the game and in the way they carry themselves.

Scherf’s coaching style is one that is focused on the development of the players. He believes that by focusing on the development of his players, he can build a team that is competitive and successful.

Scherf’s impact on the college community is evident in the way he interacts with his players and the fans. He is known for his approachable nature and his willingness to engage with his players and the student body.

Scherf’s leadership has been instrumental in shaping the college’s identity and in shaping the legacy of the Red Queens. His legacy is evident in the way his players carry themselves on and off the court. His influence is felt in the way they approach the game and in the way they carry themselves.

Scherf’s coaching style is one that is focused on the development of the players. He believes that by focusing on the development of his players, he can build a team that is competitive and successful.

Scherf’s leadership has been instrumental in shaping the college’s identity and in shaping the legacy of the Red Queens. His legacy is evident in the way his players carry themselves on and off the court. His influence is felt in the way they approach the game and in the way they carry themselves.

Scherf’s coaching style is one that is focused on the development of the players. He believes that by focusing on the development of his players, he can build a team that is competitive and successful.
Gridders romp, streak continues
by MIKE O'FARRELL
Sports Editor

The football team will try to keep its Atlantic Collegiate Football Conference winning streak alive when it hosts St. John Fisher College this Saturday.

Dating back to the 1989 season, Mariot, the defending ACF champion, has won seven consecutive conference games.

Last year, the Red Foxes opened the season with a 17-7 victory over St. John Fisher.

The results this year could be somewhat lopsided. St. John Fisher has been outscored 103-0 in its last two games.

In Saturday's game, Mariot extended its streak with a 46-21 win over Gallaudet University. The 46 point outburst establishes a new school record for most points scored in a game.

Statistically, the Red Foxes dominated the game. Mariot ran up 25 offensive plays compared to 36 for Gallaudet.

The Red Foxes gained 458 total yards of offense. The Bioco tallied 251 total yards of offense - 205 yards coming on the air.

Leading the offensive attack once again was tailback Donald D'Autore. The sophomore sensation tallied 154 yards on 23 carries while scoring one touchdown.

Leading 12-7 at halftime, Mariot broke the game open in the second half, outgaining the Vikings 186-59 in the second half.

The big second-half score came with just 1:34 left in the third quarter. With his team leading 18-13, Mariot quarterback McCourt connected with Mike Bellino on a 25-yard touchdown strike.

In the final quarter, Mariot retained the victory with two touchdowns in a 19 second span.

After a 15-yard touchdown run by Kyle Carraro - his second of the game - the Red Foxes extended their lead to 34-13. Mariot tacked on an 8-yard touchdown pass to wrap up the game as the Red Foxes rolled to a 41-13 victory.

Sophomore JulianWyse also tallied two touchdowns and D’Autore added his second Red Fox score.

Ladies v-ball captures third straight win
by ANDREW HOLMLUND
Staff Writer

The women's volleyball team will try to extend its winning streak tonight when it hosts Manhattanville College at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Last Saturday, the Lady Red defeated 15-3, 15-1, 15-0, in the first-year coach said he was happy with the play of his two freshmen.

"Robin and Moira just did a fantastic job of playing the game," he said. "They controlled the match for us.

Breen paced the Red Foxes with 25 assists. Gintis added 11 assists. Christie McKean each tallied eight kills. Melissa Maloney also served three aces in the victory.

Circle photo/Jeannette Martin
Freshmen Jacquelyn Kyte (left) and Christian McKean attempt to block a shot by a Vassar College foe. The Red Foxes defeated their cross-town foe easily.

Booters beaten by Adelphi, drop another one goal game
by TED HOLMLUND
Staff Writer

The men's soccer team lost its fourth straight game Friday at Adelphi University.

The Red Foxes lost a tough 1-0 decision. Adelphi's Martin scored the lone goal in the first half.

Martin was outshot 22-9.

Freshman goalkeeper Matt Pianos, who played for Jackson, said he was happy with Pianos' overall performance.

"I was very happy with the game," he said. "I gave up a goal, but I thought I did well in the game."

Head Coach Dr. Howard Goldman said he was pleased with Pianos' overall performance.

"I was happy with a few saves," he said. "I gave up a goal, but I thought I did well in the game."

The Foxes' loss was their second in a row.

Granted, the New York writers are an opinionated bunch, but you can't blame them. After all, look at what they have to deal with everyday.

Let's take a stroll around town and see what's going on in the Big Apple.

The Jets are walking around as if they are Super Bowl contenders. Jeff Lageman says the Jets are better than the Giants. Lageman also says the Jets are better than Buffalo. Wrong.

Since when does a 2:3 record make a team a contender? Dick DeBartolo appears to be slowly assembling a contender. However, he still has a ways to go.

There is no reason to get excited over this team yet.

Sports in New York: will it get any better?

Attention all New York sports fans: it is a good thing that Pat Riley is in town. Without him, your town would be in bubbles.

I don't know how New York fans can put up with anything going on in the Big Apple.

Granted, the New York writers are an opinionated bunch, but you can't blame them. After all, look at what they have to deal with everyday.

Let's take a stroll around town and see what's going on in the Big Apple.

The Jets are walking around as if they are Super Bowl contenders. Jeff Lageman says the Jets are better than the Giants. Lageman also says the Jets are better than Buffalo. Wrong.

Since when does a 2:3 record make a team a contender? Dick DeBartolo appears to be slowly assembling a contender. However, he still has a ways to go.

There is no reason to get excited over this team yet.

Besides, who cares if the Jets are better than the Giants? Does it matter? No. The only time it will matter is if you are trying to catch each other in the Super Bowl. Think I have a better shot at making the Olympic team.

Speaking of the Giants, they are going to be in trouble. They have been a disaster this entire quarterback battle.

It doesn't matter who Ray Handley puts in the game to call the plays. The Giants are an organization full of no-lose options.

Speaking of the Giants, they are going to be in trouble. They have been a disaster this entire quarterback battle.

It doesn't matter who Ray Handley puts in the game to call the plays. The Giants are an organization full of no-lose options.

The yarns have some good, young talent. Management made the decision to play them every day and get them major league experience. Michael must live with that decision. The kids aren't going to become world champions overnight. It takes time.

Stump has done a decent job with what he has had to work with. At times, he has to worry about hair length rather than starting pitchers. Michael should just relax and let the guy manage.

And Sox fans: Anytime a New York fan bats you on about not winning anything since 1918, your response should be one word: Rangers.

Occasionally, the Rangers have to be reminded they are playing for the Stanley Cup because its been over 50 years since their last Cup victory.

With the questionable acquisition of Greg Miller, the Rangers find themselves with three potential starting goaltenders.

Maybe they could trade one to the Islanders for Pat LaFontaine. Of course, LaFontaine is so fed up with New York in general, he would be happy to go to any place.

Don't be surprised if you see an "I hate New York" ad campaign used to sell LaFontaine and Don Mattingly.

The addition of Riley to the Knicks, any problem in that organization will be solved.

Riley knows how to handle a basketball team - I.e., the acquisition of Charles Oakley.

More importantly, he can handle a baseball team. He's got a good one on his hands.

I think Riley is a breath of fresh air, it is going to take more than one man to put New York sports on top again.

Mike O'Farrell is The Circle's sports editor.