Campus ministry reacts to the debate over condoms

by PETER DONALDSON

Through continual discord, matters may be shaken by an argument.

The discussion over the availability of condoms on campus has caused some people to debate the issue, and others to become frustrated.

"If you read 132 articles on the subject, you only read the headlines and go on to something else," Sister Jeanne Hamilton, director of campus ministry.

Father Luke McCann, the college chaplain, declined further comment saying he already cited his feelings and beliefs on the issue in a letter to the editor in the Feb. 18 issue of the Circle.

"Now you mention it, I don't know if we even sell condoms on campus," Sister Hamilton also said Cardinal Lustiger, Archbishop of Paris, preferred that people would not have intercourse outside marriage, but if they do, they have a moral obligation to use a condom.

"We have two prominent, well- respected church leaders saying two things that are not entirely opposed to each other, because they are both saying that the issue is sexual relations only in marriage," she said.

For the religious community, it is a question of whether or not condoms should be more accessible, but whether or not the Church should adhere to a higher ideal in preventing the spread of sexually transmitted diseases and unwanted pregnancies.

False rumor connecting Playboy and Marist

by KRISTINA WELLS

One of the programs showed on Marist College Television, a debate show called "Backtalk," apparently has been confronted by a segment aired during the week of February dealt with condoms and Marist College.

Gina Becconsal, producer and director of the program, said she has been confronted by administration about a segment made on the show which was not substantiated.

"There was a comment made on the show that Playboy magazine had stated that Marist had the fourth highest number of sexually active students in the nation," From that show, rumors began circulating.

"Dennis Murray's secretary called me and wanted to know where the information had come from. Administration is going crazy about it," said Becconsal.

In addition, Becconsal said the show aired for one week and that the Marist administration did not even watch the comment until the second to last day of the program was shown.

The Circle contacted Murray's secretary to get a word that he was working on the Clinton visit and was unavailable for comment on the show. A spokesperson for Playboy magazine, Elizabeth Norris, said that the story dealt with Marist and sexual activity never ran in the magazine.

"There is absolutely no truth to it. In fact, it is probably wishful thinking," said Norris.

Irizarry insisted that the article may exist. He said, "I'm still waiting to talk to someone who had the article." Irizarry said he could give no further comment regarding to the factuality of the rumor.

"Greg (Mac, a senior from Connecticut) and I have no comment until we can get a copy of the article (in Playboy). We are going to send a copy to Dennis Murray and to all the students," said Frank Irizarry, a senior from Denver, N.C.

Despite not wanting to comment, Irizarry said the administration related to the show.

"We finally got a reaction from administration. Thecommunication barrier is not as large between the students and faculty now. There are times when the administration enact policies and the students need to be aware of them. That is what 'Backtalk' does," Irizarry said.

Maxim, who appears regularly on 'Backtalk,' said the show's chief purpose is to inform some sort of communication between the students and the administration.

"They don't want to see us face to face. The administration doesn't want to face the problem and the students don't want to set the indications of condoms on campus. The show made them both aware," Maxim said.

Both Irizarry and Maxim said President Murray is waiting too long to take measures to allow condoms on campus.

"If President Murray doesn't want to deal with the problem that afflicts the Marist community as a whole, then I hope he can rest easy at night with his conscience knowing that there may be students having sex, thus increasing the likelihood of the possibility of STD's being spread," said Irizarry. Maxim said if Murray walks any longer he will be killed on campus, he will be killing the students at Marist. "Everyday President Murray waits to put condoms on campus, he drives another nail deeper into the eventual coffin of the student body," he said.

Maxim said if Murray waits any longer he will be killed on campus, he will be killing the students at Marist. "Everyday President Murray waits to put condoms on campus, he drives another nail deeper into the eventual coffin of the student body," he said.

Beconsal said the Marist administration cannot ignore the fact that students are sexually active.

"All you hear about is people hooking up every weekend. The administration can't ignore the fact that this is a sexually active campus. That's why we are known as Mattress College," Beconsal said.

Beconsal even said if the rumor about sexual activity at Marist were not true, the alleged statistics would not surprise her.

"The state would definitely not surprise me. Our nickname, Mattress College, says it all. The school is so small that it is almost inevitable," she said.

"I really don't think the condom policy will change. Since this school was founded by Martin Brothers, the policy will never change. I don't think allowing condoms on campus will make Marist like it is promoting condoms, but the school look more student centered, so to speak."

Maxim said Marist isn't the only school with a large percentage of sexually active students.

"Wherever there are sexually active students, there are bound to be problems with sexually transmitted diseases. Abstinence is not an option at Mattress College," he said. Referring to administration reaction to 'Backtalk,' Maxim said, "It's a typical Marist example of persecuting the messenger and avoiding the message."
'Groundhog should remain in hibernation'

For many mainstream politicians, President Clinton’s visit to Hyde Park is shaping up to be a ‘Get Out the Vote’ campaign stop. And with polls showing that his approval rating is slightly up, it seems the president knows how to win elections.

The president left the White House Thursday morning and headed for Hyde Park. His行程 ended up being shorter than expected.

"This is a great day for our country," said Clinton. "I’m excited to be here and to support the Democratic Party.

Meanwhile, the local election results are in, and it looks like we’ll be seeing a lot more of the president in the future.

"I’m looking forward to working with the people of New York," said Clinton. "I plan on coming back as soon as possible.

"I want to thank all of you for your support," Clinton said. "It’s been an honor to serve as your president.

"And I’m ready to take on the challenges of the next four years," Clinton added.

UNION SAYS ‘NO FAIR’ TO MARIST

With another union’s housing focus on the way, there may be some change in the priority position.

Minneapolis, director of housing and residential policy, according to the Minnesota House of Representatives.

Rahnke said his decision has not been finalized.

The Minnesota AFL-CIO staff and they decided the priority point average should be more important in deciding how many priority points a tenant should receive.

The priority point average is calculated by multiplying the number of people who live in the unit by the number of points for that year.

Rahnke said the new plan will help save money and provide more points for people who live in the unit.

"This is a good change for everyone," said Rahnke.

"It’s important to understand that this change will help us provide better housing to the people who need it the most."
Grounhog should remain in hibernation

By CAROLINE JONATHAN

For many decades President Clinton’s visit to Hyde Park has been an annual event. Dawn has arrived a little earlier and the sun has not yet made its appearance. Everything is quiet except for the sound of the children playing, the crunch of the leaves underfoot, and the occasional rustling of the bushes. It’s almost like being in a fairy tale.

I was amazed by the number of people who gathered around the groundhog. They all seemed to be waiting for something. I wondered what it was. Maybe they were hoping to see the groundhog come out of his hole? I don’t know. But I was definitely intrigued.

As I walked towards the groundhog, I noticed that there were a lot of people around. Some of them were holding signs, others were taking pictures. It was a pretty scene.

I couldn’t help but think about all the people who had come to see the groundhog. It made me feel like I was part of something special.

It was an experience I won’t soon forget. I hope to see the groundhog again next year. It’s really something special to watch.

The groundhog is a symbol of hope and renewal. It marks the end of winter and the beginning of spring. It’s a time for new beginnings and fresh starts.

I am so glad that the groundhog remained in hibernation this year. It’s important to protect the environment and to make sure that the animals have a chance to rest and recover.

I hope that next year the groundhog will come out of his hole and bring everyone a good year.

Talk is cheap at Marist

The Editor-

The last letters I’ve written were four years ago, and I know that the students, faculty, and staff of Marist College look forward to them, so I’m sure that this one will as well.

I was amazed last week to see my name in the back of the Marist Collegian, but it was only because I was at the library and couldn’t get to the newspaper in time. I have always been a fan of the Collegian and have enjoyed reading it for many years.

As you may know, I have been a Biology major at Marist College for the past six years, and I am currently in my senior year. I have always been interested in the ocean and the environment, and I am especially interested in marine biology.

I have been involved in several projects related to marine biology, and I have had the opportunity to work with some of the best scientists in the field. I have also been involved in several research projects, and I have published several papers in the field.

I am always interested in new projects and new ways to contribute to the field. I am interested in any project that involves the ocean or the environment.

Thank you for your continued support of the Collogian, and I look forward to reading more of your wonderful stories.

Sincerely,

Same old song and dance

Editor-

I am writing to express my concerns about the current situation at Marist College. I have been a student here for four years, and I have witnessed a steady decline in the quality of the education and the overall experience.

First of all, the faculty members are not very knowledgeable about their subjects. Many of them are not qualified to teach at this level, and they often rely on outdated textbooks.

Secondly, the administration is not very responsive to student concerns. They often ignore our complaints and do not take action to improve the situation.

Lastly, the facilities are in poor condition. The library is outdated, and the laboratories are not well-equipped.

I am very concerned about the future of Marist College and hope that something will be done to improve the situation.

MLCT out of floor plans

Editor-

After reading the latest edition of the Marist Collegian, I was surprised to find that MLCT was no longer mentioned in the floor plans. This is unfortunate, as MLCT is an important part of the Marist College experience.

I have been a student at Marist College for four years, and I have always been impressed by the quality of the education and the overall experience. I have had the opportunity to work with some of the best professors in the country, and I have learned a great deal.

However, I am concerned that MLCT may be threatened by the new administration. I have heard that they are planning to cut back on MLCT and that it may be eliminated in the future.

I urge the administration to reconsider this decision. MLCT is an integral part of the Marist College experience, and I believe that it should be retained.

Sincerely,

Red Foxes "D" stops Rams, 77-67 - by J.W. STEWART

The women's basketball team may want to thank metal plating for the team's 17-3 victory over Fairleigh Dickinson here Monday evening, as Franklin Pierce University lost a challenging game to the New Jersey team.

The game was a close one, with the Foxes leading 39-37 at the half. The final score of 77-67 was a comfortable margin for the Foxes, who shot 50 percent from the field and 70 percent from the free throw line.

The Foxes' defense held Fairleigh Dickinson to its lowest scoring game of the season, and the team's shooting percentage was the highest of the year.

Foreign film program under way

by DANA BUONICONTI Staff Writer

The Hudson Valley College Film Program for Spring 1993 is well under way, with the screening of several foreign films from various countries.

Sponsored by the office of the college's president, the program is open to all students and will feature films from six different countries, including France, Italy, Spain, Greece, China, and Japan. The program is not without its challenges, as the films are not available in English.

In an interview, D'agostino explained that the program is an effort to expose students to a variety of cultures and to provide them with a broader understanding of the world.

Unfortunately, this is where people are putting too many retirement dollars.

Every now and then a lot of people make a huge mistake on their taxes. They don't take advantage of tax-deferred and wind up sending Uncle Sam money they could be saving for retirement. Fortunately, that's a mistake you can easily avoid with TAA Corp. IRAs.

By not maxing out your average IRA, you could be saving for retirement—especially for the "new," "next" or "next-to-next" generation in your family. Social Security benefits may not cover the costs of the things you buy. Your contributions to your IRA are tax-deductible in most cases. Also, you can contribute a lot more to your IRA than you can to a qualified plan. The IRS allows you to contribute up to $4,000 to a traditional IRA and $2,000 to a Roth IRA.

Nude model is also a popular choice for art classes. In many cases, nude models are paid for their services. This can lead to some problems, as students may feel pressure to perform well or may not feel comfortable around nude models. Additionally, some students may feel uncomfortable with the idea of being nude in front of others.

Cagers fall to lowly Cadets, 73-67

by TED HOLMLUND

The men's basketball team was primed to go over the .500 mark for the first time since the season only 3-20 Army stood in the way. New Army coach Bill Rose, the Red Foxes a poor 1969-70, has not been able to move into a third place tie in the conference (6-7) with Marist's 6-6-1.

However, if the season ended to- day, the Mount would grab the third place slot because of its victories over Marist. Currently, Rider (12-4) and Wagner (11-5) are the top two teams in the conference. Trailing 23-28 in the first half, Marist scored 42 points in the second. By the end of the game, the Red Foxes have averaged 49.5 points in the second half over the last four conference games.

The Red Foxes almost lost the game in the closing seconds. Marist had a 69-63 lead with 37 remaining and seemed to be in complete control of the game only to see the Hawks cut it to 69-68 with 3:03 left. Pivotal play for the Red Foxes was made by Matt Martin. Lac ered the victory with 20 points, offering 15 free throws. The game marked the final home regular season home game for seniors Andy Lake, Fred Ingles, Mike Schirf, Sein James and Wil dan Coudy.

James finished his regular season at the James J. McConnell Recreation Center with a bang. The senior pumped in 20 points on 6-12 shooting (3-3 from three point land) and grabbed seven rebounds before fouling out with 19 remaining.

Head Coach Dave Magazy's team continued his solid play in knocking out 16-17 Marist and taking down the last-place team. He said, "We did all we could our top two perimeter shooters (Lake and freshman Danny Basilo) shooting well."

With Lake and Basilo struggling, sophomore Gregg Chodkowski came of the bench and scored nine points on 3-3 shooting. "The timing is all the openings in the zone," Chodkowski said. "My jumps just started falling." Magazy said the team knew it could ecoruse a more defense.

"They have a tough 3-2 defense," Magazy said, "But we knew if we could outshoot them, we would beat them."

Besides James, the seniors who saw a lot of action, I had been on a team only scoring 11 points shooting 3-12 from the field. Ingles and Schirf combined for only four points.

Lake said although he did not perform well, he was only interested in the bottom line—a win. "It doesn't matter who is doing what," he said. "The younger guys just came through."

On Thursday, Wagner snapped Marist's three game winning streak by defeating the Red Foxes 81-64. The guard tandem of Bobby Houpson and Quinty Lewis each scored a game-high 17 points and 6-10 career Miladet Mundk was 13 in 13 points to lead the Cadets.

Again, James pumped in a team-high 16 points for the Red Foxes.

The men's team has turned into a second half squad (I never thought I'd be saying this). Until the club lost to Army (I shouldn't of said word)." The last five games, the Red Foxes have averaged roughly 49 points in the second half.

If both teams continue to play well down the stretch they may be able to win the NEC Tournament. I know I whimpered, but I can't sit in the did on when two teams yet especially the men's team. Look at the Army game. By the way, I developed this theme before the men lost. Oh well.

I owe, we and enough for a in 1-1 I'll have some fun with that."

The Fields Factor

Chadfield has been even more impressive than usual of late. The senior captain has scored 58 points in the last three games. The seven points in that last two games.
