IBM cuts trigger Marist to expand educational services

by CAROLINE JONAH
Staff Writer

A three-year hiring freeze of new full-time faculty continues to strain relations at Marist College.

"We have a hiring freeze at the college and we're not hiring anyone new," said Vincent Toscano, chairman of the Division of Humanities. "We don't have enough full-time faculty for a college of this size."

The only new faculty being hired this year are to fill vacant positions in the upcoming school year, said Marc vanderHeyden, vice president of Academic Affairs.

"We are not hireing any additional faculty," vanderHeyden said. "Only replacements of faculty."

In the past, hiring new full-time faculty has occurred with significant increases in enrollment, vanderHeyden said.

"We don't have the funds to add new faculty lines," vanderHeyden said. "The increase in enrollment are not so dramatic. But increases have occurred within the Science Division, according to Andrew Molloy, chairman of the division.

"In the science department there is a growing need to add another full-time faculty member to support the growing number of majors."

Molloy said, "I think it's the fastest growing major at the time."

Although this effort is directed toward former IBMers, it's available to anyone because the doors of the college at IBM trickle down through the whole economy. The college has developed a full-time faculty for a college of this size.

"Our effort will not only assist academic programs to retain the professionals, but also will provide other community services and counseling."

As a result of the thousands of layoffs at IBM's three local plants, the Marist Fishkill Extension Center will expand its offerings. The center will be beneficial to those formerly of IBM and other unemployed professionals in this area, said Marc vanderHeyden, vice president of Academic Affairs.

VanderHeyden said the effort will not only assist academic programs to retain the professionals, but also will provide other community services and counseling.

"It is our thoughtful reaction to the current situation in the country and to the need for a community (IBM) that has always been great to Marist," vanderHeyden said.

"The college (Marist) should be recognized as the most comprehensive educational institution of higher learning in the Mid-Hudson region," he said.

Local students also feel the brunt of the current economic climate and how it can affect their future as students at Marist.

Mike Martin, a junior from Hyde Park, N.Y., said, "I'm not sure how the situation is, and I'm sure if he will be able to afford living on campus next year because of his father's recent retirement from IBM."

Amy Vogt, a junior commuter from Hyde Park, works at a restaurant part-time to recently paid IBM satellite building. "It's so expensive now business has dropped a lot," she said.

Upon Marist's recent announcement of its opening of an extension center at the Fishkill site, Vogt had a "phenomenal response" to the "open house" held in October where over 150 people turned out for the event.

The Center for Graduate and Professional Education will be open in September.

Academic VP: no additional faculty next year

by JOHN LLOYD
Staff Writer

Marist College not only offers the community its academic programs, but with the current local economic situation, the college has started a general effort that will also provide community service and counseling.

"We don't have anyone new," said Vincent Toscano, chairman of the Division of Humanities. "Can't have enough full-time faculty for a college of this size."

Although this effort is directed toward former IBMers, it's available to anyone because the doors of the college at IBM trickle down through the whole economy. The college has developed full-time faculty for a college of this size.

"Our effort will not only assist academic programs to retain the professionals, but also will provide other community services and counseling.

"It is our thoughtful reaction to the current situation in the country and to the need for a community (IBM) that has always been great to Marist," vanderHeyden said.

"The college (Marist) should be recognized as the most comprehensive educational institution of higher learning in the Mid-Hudson region," he said.

Local students also feel the brunt of the current economic climate and how it can affect their future as students at Marist.

Mike Martin, a junior from Hyde Park, N.Y., said, "I'm not sure how the situation is, and I'm sure if he will be able to afford living on campus next year because of his father's recent retirement from IBM."

Amy Vogt, a junior commuter from Hyde Park, works at a restaurant part-time to recently paid IBM satellite building. "It's so expensive now business has dropped a lot," she said.

Upon Marist's recent announcement of its opening of an extension center at the Fishkill site, Vogt had a "phenomenal response" to the "open house" held in October where over 150 people turned out for the event.

The Center for Graduate and Professional Education will be open in September.

"All of our programs need new faculty. Clearly the reason they don't hire new faculty is because of constraints on the budget."

- Marc vanderHeyden
Vice President of Academic Affairs

"Over the last three years fewer and fewer faculty were involved in teaching core courses," Molloy said. "As the number of students in the majors go up, you may have to have the full-time faculty teach more and more full-time courses. It severely limits the number of full-time faculty involved in teaching science core courses."

"We have hired new faculty but the new faculty is not a full-time faculty," Molloy said. "We have to hire five new faculty members every year. Since the three-year budget freeze, this has not occurred."

"We should have hired 15 new faculty members," Sharma said. "That we have not done and Sharma said that he did not expect to gain any additional faculty within his division due to stable enrollment.

Toscano said additional faculty is needed.

"We have a pretty heavy teaching load. It's a juggling act."

- Vincent Toscano,
Division of Humanities Chairman

in the Division of Humanities. In the department of political science there are only three full-time professors and 145 majors, he said.

"We have a pretty heavy teaching load," Toscano said. "It's a juggling act."

Toscano said one effect of the few full-time faculty is the dependence on adjunct and part-time faculty.

"More and more (core courses) are being taught by adjuncts and they don't have enough time," Toscano said. "We're really struggling with more faculty."

Toscano said this issue raises a "red flag" on the long-term ability at Marist.

"Compared to institutions of the same size our faculty is low," he said.

...see FACULTY page 4
'Jack' pours on sap and not much else

As the movie progresses, films that might be expected to deliver the goods have failed to deliver anything close to their promise. The result is a film that is neither funny nor insightful, and is just a bore.

The Real Story

Jennifer Giannone

SEGA and Seller's in sync on recycling issue

by SHANNON ROPER and SRAVEN J. SELLER

Mario College and recycling — It's in our hands. The College, with help from its students and faculty, is on the move to increasing the amount of items that are recycled. We are looking to take a look at some of the current recycling programs that are in place and how we can improve them. We are also planning to look into the current recycling practices of other colleges and universities to see how we can incorporate them into our own programs.

Mari College goes green by limiting the amount of waste that is produced and recycling as much as possible. We are also looking into ways to reduce the amount of energy that is used on campus. We are exploring the possibility of using renewable energy sources such as solar and wind power. We are also looking into ways to reduce the amount of water that is used on campus. We are exploring the possibility of using greywater systems and rainwater harvesting to reduce the amount of water that is used.

First trip to model UN a success, students say

by DAWN MARTIN

Students petition to keep profs

by MIKI LE SAGE

Skinner's fate holds for zoning decision

by DAVE BUTTOMER

IBM repercussions may affect sports program

by KRISTA WELLS

Preparation in Poughkeepsie for upcoming exams

by KRISTA WELLS

The Mayor College athletic program may be affected by the recent IBM layoffs.

Reggie Davis, director of the athletic department, said that the recent IBM layoffs could have a negative impact on the athletic program. Davis said that the layoffs could lead to a decrease in the amount of money that is available to the athletic department. This could lead to a decrease in the amount of money that is available to pay for the salaries of the coaches, the equipment, and the facilities.

Davis also said that the layoffs could lead to a decrease in the amount of money that is available to pay for the salaries of the coaches, the equipment, and the facilities. This could lead to a decrease in the amount of money that is available to pay for the salaries of the coaches, the equipment, and the facilities.

Davis said that the layoffs could lead to a decrease in the amount of money that is available to pay for the salaries of the coaches, the equipment, and the facilities. This could lead to a decrease in the amount of money that is available to pay for the salaries of the coaches, the equipment, and the facilities.

Davis said that the layoffs could lead to a decrease in the amount of money that is available to pay for the salaries of the coaches, the equipment, and the facilities. This could lead to a decrease in the amount of money that is available to pay for the salaries of the coaches, the equipment, and the facilities.

Davis said that the layoffs could lead to a decrease in the amount of money that is available to pay for the salaries of the coaches, the equipment, and the facilities. This could lead to a decrease in the amount of money that is available to pay for the salaries of the coaches, the equipment, and the facilities.
Some seniors will choose to take grad school route

by JUSTIN SERENET
Staff writer

Once again, the graduating class is weighing their future careers with only one word in mind: economy. Because of this year's economic crisis, the required unemployment of 50 percent forced many graduates to look for jobs. The job market is tough, especially for those with no degrees. Bribes worth $200,000 will be waiting for them at the door. However, without a degree, it may not even get past the receptionist. This is why some seniors are choosing to go to graduate school to gain a competitive edge in the job market. The idea of graduate school is very appealing to those who want to be successful in their careers. It can provide them with the knowledge and skills they need to succeed in the job market. The graduates of this year are expected to have a much higher earning potential than those who did not graduate. They will have a better understanding of the world, which is crucial for success in today's fast-paced world. The degree will also serve as a stepping stone to a successful career. However, many seniors are skeptical about going to graduate school. They worry about the cost, the time commitment, and the potential for disappointment. But, for those who are willing to put in the work, graduate school can be a rewarding experience. It is not just about getting a degree; it is about the journey of self-discovery and growth.
Some seniors will choose to take grad school route

By JUSTIN SEREMET

Once again, the graduating class is choosing the career path that will benefit them the most. Because of the nature of this career, some seniors will be attending graduate school. This is a trend that has continued for some time, and for a variety of reasons. The trend is also expected to continue in the future.

Some seniors are considering going to graduate school in order to further their education and advance their careers. Others are doing so in order to gain additional knowledge and skills that will help them in their current careers. Still others are doing so in order to pursue their passions and interests.

Some seniors are choosing to go to graduate school in order to specialize in a particular area. Others are choosing to go to graduate school in order to broaden their skill set. Still others are choosing to go to graduate school in order to gain a new perspective on their current field.

As a result of these trends, the number of seniors choosing to go to graduate school is expected to continue to increase in the future. This will have a number of implications for the workforce and the economy. For example, it may lead to an increase in the number of qualified workers, as well as an increase in the number of opportunities for students.

On the other hand, it may also lead to an increase in the number of unemployed graduates, as well as a decrease in the number of opportunities for students. As a result, it is important for students to carefully consider their options before they decide to go to graduate school. They should take into account their goals, their interests, and their financial situation before they make a decision.

In the end, the decision to go to graduate school is a personal one that should be made by the individual student. It is important for students to carefully consider their options before they make a decision. They should take into account their goals, their interests, and their financial situation before they make a decision.
Letters to the Editor

Tolerance at Marist?

Volunteers are needed next year

April 18-21 is National Volunteer Week. It is a great time to honor and thank the incredible people who give of their time and talents to make our world a better place. These people come from all walks of life, from different backgrounds, and from different ethnicities. They are the unsung heroes of our society.

But the biggest challenge for Marist is how to find enough volunteers. The demand for volunteers is ever-increasing, and the supply is shrinking. It is also a problem that affects not only Marist but also other organizations across the country.

So, how can we solve this problem? One way is to make volunteerism a requirement for graduation. This would help to ensure that all students have the opportunity to experience the benefits of volunteerism. It would also help to build a stronger sense of community and responsibility among students.

Another way is to make volunteerism a requirement for admission. This would help to ensure that all new students are aware of the importance of volunteerism and are encouraged to participate. It would also help to attract high-quality students who are committed to making a difference in the world.

In conclusion, volunteerism is a valuable asset to our society. It is a way to give back to the community, to learn new skills, and to make new friends. It is also a way to build character and to develop a sense of responsibility. And it is something that we can all do, regardless of our background or our circumstances.

So, let us all work together to make volunteerism a reality for all. Let us all volunteer, and let us all make a difference.
Tradition

Boring

Political discussions have worn many faces, frustrated and gửi Bình ... is conducting business as usual.

Health care

Boring is conducting close discussions on medical issues, especially in its quest to put more information in the hands of health care providers. This involves the use of electronic medical records, and it is hoped that this will improve the quality of care and reduce medical errors. The New York Times article on this topic is fascinating and highlights the advances that are being made in this area.

The job market

Back in the old days, the job market was ... but not in the way you think. The job market is evolving and changing, with new technologies and techniques being developed to help businesses find the right people for the right jobs.

The problem with the "Prepaid" or "Value Added" plan at VAM or VAF is that it is not really a "prepaid" plan. It's a plan that allows you to save money on your health care expenses. The idea is that you pay a set amount each month and then use that money to pay for your medical expenses. The problem with this plan is that it doesn't provide enough information about your health care coverage and also doesn't provide enough information about your medical expenses. It's not really a "prepaid" plan because you never really know what you're paying for.

Most doctors know that they are not interested in "stopping the trend" of "banging a gavel." At this point, they just want a job in their field of expertise.

Boring school health care reform, but we do ... more time. Do not expect employers to take on more of the financial risk they would pay for their employees' health care. Small and medium-sized businesses will not be able to afford if they are being forced to pay more tax of their own taxes for health care.

River Festival set for tomorrow

Anchors away! The 11th annual River Festival is this Saturday. This is an event that the community looks forward to every year. There are many different activities that take place during the festival, including live music, food, and games. The festival is open to everyone and is a great way to spend a day with friends and family.

Festival goers can look forward to seeing many of their favorite musicians perform, including some local bands and other performers from around the country. The food options are sure to please everyone, with a variety of delicious options to choose from. And let's not forget about the games! There are plenty of fun activities for all ages, from traditional games like cornhole to more modern games like virtual reality simulators.

How to reach us:

• Monday: 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.
• E-Mail: LT 211, HZAL
• Phone: X2429

How to reach us:

• Monday: 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.
• E-Mail: LT 211, HZAL
• Phone: X2429

The slogan used by the Circle is: "Boring is not dead. It's here to stay."

The slogan used by the Circle is: "Boring is not dead. It's here to stay."

The slogan used by the Circle is: "Boring is not dead. It's here to stay."

The slogan used by the Circle is: "Boring is not dead. It's here to stay."

The slogan used by the Circle is: "Boring is not dead. It's here to stay."
New curriculum; Students get more clout

By CLAUDINE M. MARTINI
Staff Writer

The Marist College Division of Continuing Education at Poughkeepsie is making the fall semester class schedule more flexible for working professionals by offering a new, more comprehensive curriculum and a new enrollment procedure. The changes are expected to make the college more accessible to working people.

Currently, students must meet the following criteria to be accepted into the continuing education program: be a minimum of 18 years of age, have a high school diploma or equivalent, and have at least 30 college credits. The new program will allow students to enroll in courses without meeting these requirements.

Marist to help displaced alumni

By DENISE D’ANDREA and DABA NECHT Staff Writers

Marist College from one of its largest financial challenges the past year and a half. With the college in financial difficulty, the school has been forced to cut programs and services. To address the situation, Marist has made some adjustments, including offering more online courses and reducing the number of staff.

According to the college’s chief financial officer, the cuts were necessary to maintain the college’s financial stability.

The beat of a different drum

The Stone Forest, the drummer for Drywall, takes to the stage at the Battle of the Bands.

Vietnam

continued from page 5

I still feel the pull, "says Okada. "I just miss them and try to remember them.

"I wrote through all those years, Okada said. "When I left my family and my friends, I was surprised, because this is how I found out that they didn’t make it.

"It’s painful, but I’ll always be there for them, and I’ll always be there for the kids, even if they’re not here," Okada said.

"It’s so personal, Everyone’s memories are different, so I can’t talk about it, and that’s why I’m here, because I want to be part of the battle," said Okada. "The psychological impact is enormous when you see the names on the list of those who died."

The silence is thick and the emotions are high as soldiers, veterans, and their families gather at the site of the atomic bomb attack to honor the victims.

Petitions

continued from page 3

The President’s Inaugural Committee will host a number of events on Capitol Hill to honor the memory of those who lost their lives on September 11.

KIRK & LOUGHAN ATTORNEYS AT LAW

Criminal Law

Civil Law

Vehicle and Traffic

90 Market Street
Poughkeepsie
914-471-1818
Available 24 Hours

Low cost summer housing with no electricity

We also have late night food including spicy chicken

(Located in the rear of the main mall parking lot, directly across from the Civic Center.)

Call NOW to RESERVE!

GUARDIAN SELF-STORAGE

WE’VE GOT THE HUDSON VALLEY’S LARGEST STD IS IT 24/7 ACCESS?

229-0330

We have all your storage needs

820 GARDEN STREET POUGHKEEPSIE, NY 12601 (914) 452-6390

CALL NOW TO RESERVE! HYDE PARK STUDENT RECEIVE A 10% DISCOUNT WITH THIS AD!

29 GARDEN STREET POUGHKEEPSIE, NY 12601 (914) 452-6390

REGULAR DAILY SPECIAL - $5.00 PINTS REGULAR DAILY SPECIAL - $3.00 PINTS

GET ONE FREE (coupon required)

We also have late night food including spicy chicken

(10% OFF)
New curriculum; Students get more clout by CLAUDINE M. MARTINI

The Marist College Division of Continuing Education’s Accelerated Program for Working Adults is introducing a new curriculum that will offer students more flexibility in selecting courses and make it easier for them to transfer credits to other programs. The new curriculum and other changes are designed to meet the needs of working adults who want to complete their education while working part-time.

The new curriculum includes a new course in marketing that will cover topics such as market research, advertising, and sales. It also offers a new course in management that will focus on leadership and decision-making. Students can choose from a variety of other courses, including courses in accounting, economics, and statistics.

The new curriculum also includes a new program that will allow students to earn a bachelor’s degree in business administration in as little as two years. The program is designed for working adults who want to advance their careers or start their own businesses.

Marist College’s Division of Continuing Education is committed to providing high-quality education to working adults. The new curriculum and other changes are part of our ongoing efforts to meet the needs of our students.

The new curriculum will be offered starting in the fall semester. For more information, please contact the Division of Continuing Education at 845-575-3368.
Bumped volleyball games during Greek Week chaos

by KEITH REYLING Staff Writer

The cancellation of intercollegiate volleyball games during Greek Week and other events has left the players and coaches with little illusion.

The Greek Week events ag-arrow played on the schedule intercollegiate sports. With Greek Week, players were expected to play
volleyball twice a week.

The games were

"We're not gonna be able to play volleyball this weekend because of the Greek Week event..."

"We're gonna have to reschedule the volleyball games..."

Security briefs

by DOMINIC P. FONTANA Staff Writer

A security guard at the Greek Week consevention was unable to answer a few questions about the games.

"I don't know if volleyball is being played this weekend..."

"I don't know if volleyball is being played this weekend..."

Laxmen skid hits four, now 2-8 Fenney paces runners; Stonybrook next

by TERRY L. STEWART Staff Writer

In a tie game against Union, Stonybrook runners were dominant.

"We've gotta win a game this season..."

"We've gotta win a game this season..."

Colgate nabs meet

Crew home on Sat

by ANDREW HOLMUND Staff Writer

The Colgate University rowing team arrived in front of the Colgate University rowing team. The men's team nabs meet..."
Bumped volleyball games during Greek Week chaos

by KEITH REYLING

The cancellation of men’s varsity volleyball games during Greek Week raised the ire of many students. The men’s varsity volleyball team was scheduled to play a doubleheader, but the games were canceled due to a scheduling conflict with the women’s team.

The cancellation of the games was due to the scheduling of Greek Week activities. The men’s team was originally scheduled to play on Thursday and Friday, but the games were moved to Friday and Saturday. The women’s team was scheduled to play on Thursday and Friday, but the games were canceled due to a scheduling conflict with the men’s team.

In an interview, coach Jim Oleson stated, “It’s unfortunate that this happened. We were looking forward to a great weekend of volleyball, but the scheduling conflict left us with no choice but to cancel the games.”

The cancellation of the games has left many students frustrated. “I was really looking forward to seeing the men’s team play,” said senior Alex Johnson. “I don’t understand why they had to cancel the games.”

The university has already made arrangements to reschedule the games. The men’s team is scheduled to play on Sunday, April 22, and Monday, April 23, at 7 p.m. The women’s team is scheduled to play on Saturday, April 21, at 7 p.m.

Colgate nabs meet Winner of New York sectional meet, men’s team takes down Keydets, women’s team wins in doubles

by ANDREW HOLMUND

Not only did the men’s team win the New York sectional meet, but the women’s team also won in doubles. The men’s team defeated Keydets in the final match, while the women’s team won in doubles.

The men’s team was led by senior captain John Smith, who scored a total of 20 points in the sectional meet. The women’s team was led by junior captain Sarah Johnson, who scored 15 points in the doubles match.

The university’s tennis teams are now preparing for the national championships, which will be held in May. The men’s team is currently ranked third in the nation, while the women’s team is ranked second.

Netters lose third straight, 9-0

by TERRI L. STEWART

The women’s tennis team lost to the FightingIrish, 9-0, on April 20. The victory was the second of the season for the FightingIrish, who have now won their last two matches.

The women’s team is currently ranked 15th in the nation, but they have struggled in recent matches. They have lost three of their last four matches, including a 7-0 loss to the FightingIrish.

The women’s team will now prepare for their next match, which is against the Bucknell Bears on April 24. The match will be held at the university’s tennis courts and is scheduled to start at 2 p.m.

Laxmen skid hits four, now 2-8

by MIKE WALSH

The men’s lacrosse team lost to the St. Francis College Terriers, 17-13, on April 21. The team is now 2-8 on the season.

The Terriers scored four goals in the first half of the game, leading to a 7-5 halftime lead. The Terriers continued their offensive performance in the second half, scoring nine goals in the period.

The men’s team will now prepare for their next match, which is against the Hofstra University Pride on April 24. The match will be held at the university’s lacrosse field and is scheduled to start at 7 p.m.

Turf Check: Weekly Tennis Scores

by ELLIOTT CAMPBELL

The women’s tennis team lost to the St. Francis College Terriers, 7-0, on April 21. The team is now 3-8 on the season.

The Terriers scored three goals in the first set of the match, leading to a 6-0 halftime lead. The Terriers continued their offensive performance in the second set, scoring four goals in the period.

The women’s team will now prepare for their next match, which is against the Hofstra University Pride on April 24. The match will be held at the university’s tennis courts and is scheduled to start at 2 p.m.

Create the schedule for the tennis team:

- April 20: vs. FightingIrish (9-0)
- April 24: vs. Bucknell Bears
- April 27: vs. Hofstra University Pride
- May 3: vs. National Championship

ATTENTION

Circle Staff Openings For 1993 - 1994 Year:

cartoonist
business manager
movie critic
political columnist
distribution manager
humor columnist
photographers

If interested, contact The Circle (X4239) or SJ Richard (X4323) by May 1.
Red Foxes get swept by Terriers

by J.W. STEWART
Staff Writer

They are no longer among the nation's elite.

The Red Foxes, who were 4th in the nation in batting average at .327 and were first in the country in runs scored per game at 7.6 just two weeks ago, have scored only five runs in their last four contests — all losses.

The Foxes (3-5 in the Northeast, 12-14 overall) lost to St. Francis (N.Y.) on Sunday 5-4 and 3-0 and to Adelphi on Friday 3-0 and 4-1.

"We had the ball well until those last two doubleheaders," said Head Coach Tom Chiavelli.

Sunday's team hit the ball, just not in the clutches.

Leading 3-0 in the sixth inning on one out, Marist led up all five of the Terriers' runs on four singles and two walks. The Foxes took the second in both the home half of the sixth on Terri Baskind's two singles then gave up the clutch seventh inning.

James O'Connor bounced to second on two on and two out to end the game.

"We just couldn't get another hit to bring in the run," said Chiavelli.

Game two was more of the same — just uglier.

The Red Foxes pounded 10 hits but stranded 13 batters in the process.

"Again, it came down to the final inning and again, the bats disappeared. With the bases loaded and two outs, Courtney Slightt flew out to left."

"We had the runners on. We just couldn't put three hits together," said Chiavelli. "We had enough opportunities to do it, we just didn't do it."

St. Francis did all of their scoring in the first as they chased starter Beth Kershaw after only four batters.

"I've been having mental problems," said Kershaw, who walked two of the four batters she faced. "I've been thinking too much about my mechanics."

The freshman said she has not been stepping straight off the mound in her delivery. Instead, she's been stepping to the left or right which causes her pitches to float in that direction.

"I'm not hitting in the run," said Chiavelli.

Game two was more of the same — just uglier.

The Red Foxes pounded 10 hits but stranded 13 batters in the process.

"They were sprinting pitchers," said Chiavelli. "They don't use a full wind-up. It will probably be the worst pitching we've seen all year."

"The second and wind-up confused us," said Angela Dugatko.

"No one was adjusted to their speed at the same time," said Dugatko, who's in the middle of a 1-4 for-27 year at the plate, but the Foxes with a 3-0 for-3 performance in the shutout. Slightt, singer Laurie Slightt and Baskind each collected two hits apiece.

The Foxes collected only two hits against Adelphi in another shutout last Friday. Baskind and Rosanne Dally were the only two to come up with singles. In game two, Marist scored its last run in the fifth when Marci Sylvia singled and scored on Patty Ackerman's single.

Marist is in Pennsylvania Satur- day to play in the NEC Tourna- ment. Marist is 13 of 13 for fifth place. This is the first single-elimination tournament.

The club was then seeded seventh in a single-elimination tournament.

"We still have a chance," said Marist's head coach.

The Terriers were 12 of 13 for the season. Marist is 5-18-1. The Pastime is 6-19-1 in the NEC. The Red Foxes are 18-3 in the NEC.

So why the tirade? It may have been because Bonilla thought he was defending the team's ability, or he could just be tired of the press and just blew up.

Bonilla, I have one thing to say to you: stop whining. It's not justified, and the New York City press is not going to change for you.

Spring blooms

Spring is well under way and so is another depressing spring sports season.

At least one team is over .300. I take that back. Sorry.

I think my predictions are under .500, too. Something is in the air.

The volleyball club has been the lone bright spot, finishing its year at 10-16.

Only two other teams that are having any bit of success are the tennis (4-5) and softball (14-16) teams. They have been hitting the skies lately.

Why the stellar performances? Let's start with baseball.

"They were slogging pit- chers," - Head Coach Tom Chiavelli

"To figure out how to win against instead of figuring out a way to lose," the second-year coach said.

Senior captain Mike Deurer said the team has not made the big play in critical moments of close games.

"They (FDU) get the big hits — we don't," he said. "We move forward and something will set us back."

Assistant Coach Liz Ward said his club's experience playing in close games was a key to this game.

"We've had a lot of close games," he said. "You don't feel pressure."

Third baseman Deran Pukul led the Knights charge, going 3-3 with a solo homerun, two singles, a walk and two runs scored.

"We got some good pitching, and we are together as a team," Pukul said.

The Red Foxes traveled to Manhattan yesterday. Results were not available at press time.

The showdown in the big city — Bob vs. Bob

Ted Holmland

Spikers end at .500; place 17 in club nats.

by JIM DERIVAN

The men's volleyball team achieved its best finish ever in the club national tournament, in Austin, Texas last week with a 4-4 record.

The club finished 17 out of 24 Division II clubs and finished the season with a 10-10 record.

The Red Foxes were first placed in Thursday's pool and finished second by defeating Maharishi International University, 15-2, 15-10 and Howard Payne, 15-9, 12-15, 15-8, but lost to Raritan Valley State, 7-15, 9-15.

The club lost to Loyola Md. and was placed in a consolation round.

The club made it to the fifth place when it lost to Lamar 6-15, 15-17, 15-13.

"We played well, according to the guidelines."

The club has a good tournament, according to John O'Brien.

"We lost because of a breakdown in communication," he said. "We would won one game. It would all go downhill from there."

"We played well, according to the guidelines."

The club has a good tournament, according to John O'Brien.

"We lost because of a breakdown in communication," he said. "We would won one game. It would all go downhill from there."

"It was the best that Marist has done in the past three years," said Marist's top rated player.

In a long season, many games are decided by just one or two points.

On Sunday and Monday, FDU scored a three games sweep over Marist. Two of those games were decided by one run (the Red Foxes lost 3-2 in the first game of a doubleheader on Sunday). Marist's record in one run is 1-4. Marist is 5-18-1. The Pastime is 6-19-1 in the NEC. The Pastime is 18-3 in the NEC.

Softball Struggling

The softball team has also been failing to come up with clutch plays. A result, the Red Foxes have lost three of their last five games.

Head Coach Tom Chiavelli's squad has not had any consistent runners on base. The team is just not taking advantage of its opportunities.

However, the team is still young and has already shown marked improvement over last year's 6-26 de facto.

Spikers successful on trip

The men's volleyball 3-4 mark was its best performance over the club nationals.

The club's 10-16 mark was also a significant improvement after consecutive losing seasons.

The club won multiple key players, like Mike Gearing and John O'Brien, to graduation. It will be interesting to see if the team can continue the upward trend next year.

Odd's-ends

The Ranglers and the Devils first round playoff match will be this week. The Webbers, who didn't qualify for the playoffs — the Islanders.

It doesn't matter Pittsburgh will probably win it.

"We tried, but we just didn't have a chance," said Chris Webber.

According to the New York Times, Webber said the following, "The team was too hard worked and just look at the work we did to be good at this level."

Ted Holmland is the Circle's Sports Editor.

STAT OF THE WEEK:
Marist's Feeley's 3-run homer in the 10th, 48.2 seconds in the 10,000-meter run was the second fastest in Marist history.